REDS IN BERLIN PRESSING VAST NAZI ROUNDUP

Tens of Thousands Are Arrested

BERLIN, July 8 [Reuters]—One of the greatest manhunts in the history of Germany is in full cry in the heart of Berlin as soviet controled police—still having jurisdiction over the American and British held sectors of the city—round up the remaining core of Hitler's political, social, and labor organizations.

Arrests run into tens of thousands, it was learned in authoritative German police quarters today. The number in custody far exceeds anything yet seen in a comparable area of Germany under the control of the western allies.

Ex-Communist in Control

In the British held district of Charlottenburg, which includes the fashionable "West End" of Berlin and the population of which has shrunk from its pre-war 420,000 to 120,000, there had been 1,000 political arrests in the last five weeks.

The power behind the soviet-controled German police force is believed to be Walter Ulbrecht—once a member of the central committee of the outlawed German Communist party—who, tho not actually in the police force, is reliably stated to supervise appointments to the organization in charge of political arrests.

German police still are arresting persons in the British and American sectors of the capital, and those prisoners are handed over to the soviet authorities.

RUSSIAN GRIP HOLDS

BY SIGRID SCHULTE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, July 8—The Russians are running Berlin and will continue to do so until an agreement is reached with the United States and Britain on the food and fuel supply for 3,000,000 Germans in the capital. If discussions under way fail, it is expected the question will be left for the Big Three to decide.

Col. Frank Howley

The occupying forces have not even reached an agreement on the general manner of operation of Berlin. The American military governor, Col. Frank Howley, said three plans are under consideration. The first calls for chopping up Berlin into three or four sovereign zones, which is bound to create difficulties in the operation of transport and public utilities. The second plan calls for closer coöperation between the occupying forces but with each group staying principally in its own vicinity. The third plan calls for the integration of city agencies and close coöperation between the occupying forces all down the line.

[The food issue is so serious in the eyes of British and American officials that withdrawal of the western allies from Berlin may be consid-

FRENCH TROOPS BEGIN TO TAKE OVER RHINE ZONE OF OCCUPATION

LONDON, July 8 [Reuters]—French troops have begun to take over their zone of occupation in the Rhine province from the United States 15th army, Luxemburg radio announced today.

"The French zone comprises the coal mines of the Saar basin," the broadcast said. "The mines will be operated under French control. Distribution of the coal, however, is handled by the European coal organization, in which all the allied nations except the U. S. S. R. are represented.

"The commander of the French zone, Col. Colignon said that the French occupation authorities would administer the zone with sternness, but also with justice."

Machine Guns Sleeping Men in Utah Camp

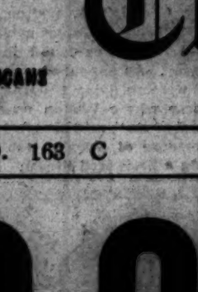
Salina, Utah, July 8 (AP)—Three bursts of machine gun bullets fired by an American soldier from a guard tower plowed into tents at a prisoner of war camp here today, killing eight sleeping Germans and injuring 20 others.



Pvt. Clarence Bertucci

Col. Arthur Ericcson, commander of the prisoner of war camp at Ogden, of which the camp here is a branch, said preliminary investigation had not determined the motive for the shooting.

He named Pvt. Clarence Bertucci, 23, of New Orleans, La., as the American soldier. Bertucci was taken into custody and an investigation ordered.

On Duty at Midnight

Ericcson said questioning of soldiers and prisoners yielded this story:

Bertucci went on duty at midnight. About a half hour later Lt. Albert I. Cornell, the branch camp commander who was at work in his office only a few feet from the tower, was startled to hear a burst of machine gun fire.

He leaped to the window, saw that the bullets were being fired into the tent area, and rushed out the door just as a second burst of fire rang out.

He yelled to the guard to quit firing but as he reached the base of the tower a third volley sounded. That exhausted the guard's ammunition and Cornell said Bertucci called out for a new supply.

250 Bullets Fired

The firing lasted no more than 15 seconds, Ericcson estimated, and approximately 250 bullets were expended.

The guard tower was within 20 or 30 feet of the nearest tent in which the German prisoners were sleeping, with other tents as far as 300 feet distant.

Guards and prisoners thruout the camp were aroused by the shooting. Treatment of those injured was begun immediately.

Ericcson said Bertucci served eight months in England, assigned to a field artillery unit. He has not seen battle action.

Of the Germans injured, six were taken to the station hospital at the Kearns overseas replacement depot near Salt Lake City. Twelve were taken to Bushnell General hospital at Brigham, Utah, and two, only slightly hurt, were treated here.

Engaged in Farm Work

The camp, 150 miles south of Salt Lake City, houses approximately 250 prisoners engaged in farm work in central Utah fields.

At Fort Douglas, 9th service command headquarters named the dead as Otto Broms, Gottfried Gaad, Ernst Fuchs, and Hans Meyers, all underofficers, and Walter Bogel, Fritz Stockmann, Georg Liske, and Adolf Paul.

WHERE'S THE REST OF THE TEAM?

BY WILLIAM STRAND

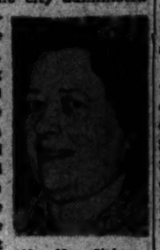
A 61 year old widow charged yesterday that the city administration is attempting to deprive her of her rights, without waiting to secure legal title to west side property which she has owned for the last 24 years and which now is to be taken for the Congress street highway project.



Mrs. Mary Stuber

Altho she still has the deed and has received no payment for her property, she said, a real estate firm representing itself as agent for the city has recently served notice on the tenants that hereafter it will collect the rents. She asserted that this step was taken without notifying her and, as a result, the tenants are completely confused as to whom they shall recognize as their landlord.

Title Search Under Way

The bewildered property owner is Mrs. Mary Stuber, who has a 25 foot lot and a three story brick building at 1145 W. Van Buren st., for which the city agreed to pay $4,400, including lawyer's fees, following condemnation proceedings several months ago. At present, a final title search preparatory to transferring the property is being made. Mrs. Stuber said she is powerless to convey the title to the city and collect her money from the city treasurer until that is completed.

Meanwhile, she insists, she is still possessor of the building and lot and she would like very much to continue collecting the rentals. With the start of demolition for the Congress st. widening, months, if not years, away, Mrs. Stuber said she is at a loss to explain the city's haste in the matter.

Rental $70 a Month

The Congress st. project has been a favorite talking point with west side politicians for years, despite protests of opponents of the plan that the cost will far outweigh the usefulness of a super-highway on that thorofare. Altho work is not scheduled to begin until after the war, condemnation proceedings against property owners with holdings along the proposed route began months ago.

"Usually it takes a long time to get anything done in the city hall," Mrs. Stuber said with a shake of her head. "I am surprised at how anxious they are to get my building. It is now paying me $70 a month for the rent of the store and one of the two apartments. Why should the city take that away from me when they probably won't start building Congress st. for a long time yet? Anyway, they ought to wait until I have given them the title."

Mrs. Stuber said the building and lot cost $14,000, including construction of an addition and remodeling. Taxes ranging from $114 to more than $300 have been paid every year since its purchase in 1921, she added. Her attorney, Oscar M. Meusel, explained that the $4,400 condemnation price was entered by agreement with attorneys for the city after a hearing before Superior Judge Denis J. Normoyle.

Mrs. Stuber lives at 1146 Montrose av. Her husband died 11 years ago. The real estate firm which instructed her tenants in the Van Buren st. building by letter to pay the rent to them is the George S. Lurie company, 160 N. La Salle st. When she telephoned to inquire why her rent payments had stopped, she related, a woman in the office gave her the latest word on the status of her property:

"O, you don't get any more rent. The city has taken over."

Yanks Bring Own Food for Norwegian Hosts

OSLO, July 8 (AP)—American troops were hesitant about accepting the frequent invitations to meals from Norwegians, realizing their hosts were coping with a food shortage. An American commander solved the problem by devising a plan whereby a soldier invited to dinner could take a specially prepared gift package of food for the hosts.

CHICAGOANS PREPARE SMOKED GLASSES TO VIEW SOLAR ECLIPSE

Chicagoans smoked bits of glass last night to be ready this morning for the first solar eclipse from this position on the globe since 1932. Astronomers figured the eclipse for Chicago at 73 per cent of totality. The display starts at 6:08 a. m., reaches its height at 7:02, and ends at 8:02.

For North Americans, the eclipse will be total over a ribbonlike area extending from Boise, Idaho, northeast thru Montana to Hudson bay. Scientists, including two astronomers from the University of Chicago and photographers in three royal Canadian air force planes, will make their studies in this band.

Eye specialists warned against looking at the eclipse with the naked eye or with sun glasses or field glasses. They advised holding a piece of ordinary glass over a candle flame until it is coated black. Photographic film blackened by overexposure also is safe.

Demands U. S. Stop Coddling Latin America

Los Angeles, Cal., July 8 (AP)—Dr. Osgood Hardy, back from two and a half years service with the state department in Panama and Santo Domingo, said today Uncle Sam has been playing the role of Santa Claus in building Latin American good will.

"The United States has spent billions of dollars to build Latin American good will for the sake of a united war front," the Occidental college history professor declared in an interview.

"We have achieved that unity, but we cannot go on forever playing Santa Claus.

"One error we North Americans make is the assumption that the aid we give Latin American countries necessarily furthers the cause of democracy.

Not All Democracies

"In some cases it doesn't. Not all Latin American countries are democratic, whatever their pretensions. Indeed, some so-called democracies there are actually dictatorships.

"In our overanxiety to be nice to Latin Americans during the war, we have coddled them and short-changed ourselves. We have denied ourselves structural steel in order to ship quantities of it to Latin America where, as a result, the people have hardly been aware that a war is being fought.

"Moreover, the United States has been content merely to ship a quota of supplies to each Latin American country without bothering to trace the disposition of the goods.

No Benefit to Public

"Often these supplies have found their way into the orbit of those in power, while the average man has received no benefit.

"American building materials, for example, are often used in Latin America to erect mansions for public officials rather than school buildings for the people."

Preceding his departure from here, approximately 30 months ago, Dr. Hardy spent six months in Washington investigating economic conditions in Latin American countries. It was his seventh in a series of visits to Latin America, during which he studied economic and sociological programs.

Stettinius Will Open Hearings on Charter

Washington, July 8 (AP)—The senate foreign relations committee will open hearings tomorrow on the allied nations security charter with testimony by Edward R. Stettinius Jr., former secretary of state, who has been named American representative to the projected world security council.

RIDES NIAGARA RAPIDS SAFELY IN LEAKY CASK

Barrel Bobs Thru Whirlpool

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 8—Like a cork in a mill race, William [Red] Hill, 32, today whirled and bobbed on a seven mile barrel ride thru the Niagara rapids and whirlpool and emerged safely two hours later.

"I had a good trip and I feel fine," he said as he was pulled out of his steel barrel, "but I won't try it again."

While 150,000 persons watched along the route, Hill started his trip at 2:50 p. m. just above Lower Arch bridge. He was to have started at Maid of the Mist landing at the foot of Horseshoe falls, but changed his embarkation point to foil the Canadian police who had instructions to prevent his "attempted suicide."

Hill and his aids hid the barrel along the water's edge at 3 a. m. to outwit the police.

Hill emerged at the headwaters of Lake Ontario seven miles away at 4:50 p. m. and a few minutes later was on dry land asking for a cigar.

Caught in Whirlpool

Hill used a barrel built to the specifications of one used by his father, William Hill Sr., in a successful Niagara trip May 30-31, 1931. As his father before him, Red was caught in the whirlpool two miles below his starting point and had to be hauled ashore.

As he was eddying about the edge of the whirlpool, Hill raised the hatch of the barrel and signaled for help. Two of his assistants went out in a row boat and towed him ashore.

He explained that the hatch cover of the barrel had become warped and was leaking, with the result that he had shipped about five inches of water. The barrel was drained and he was pushed back into the water below the whirlpool.

Takes Rough Jolting

Hill then faced the roughest part of his journey. Devil's Hole, as the one and a half mile gorge is called, has a 42 mile an hour current and is studded with rocks. At one point the barrel hit a rock, turned end over end, and went out of sight. Hill later said the jolt "knocked my head down into my shoulders." In addition, he suffered a few bruises.

Once past Devil's Hole, Hill had a rough passage in a 35 mile current, but did not come a cropper on any rocks. The barrel spun, bumped, wobbled, and disappeared momentarily, but always regained its upright position.

Weighing 750 pounds, the barrel contained a 40 hour supply of oxygen and 150 pounds of ballast.

Collect Cash from Crowd

While Hill was being pounded and dunked, his aids moved among the crowd collecting cash contributions that Hill said would be used to build a memorial for his father, who died three years ago. The amount of the "take" was not disclosed, but Hill said it did not come up to expectations.

After the trip Hill examined the barrel and said it was damaged beyond repair. He said he would put it on display.

The leaking hatch had been his greatest worry, Hill said. "I tried several times to stop the leak, but couldn't. That's why I signaled for help."

Hill's wife and a daughter, Sally, 4, were out of town. Mrs. Hill said she was "too nervous" about her husband's stunt to be able to watch it.

ARMY REPORTS CUT IN SERVICE SHOE DEMANDS

Boston, Mass., July 8 (AP)—A substantial reduction in monthly production of combat boots and men's service shoes for the army during the fourth quarter of the year will allow the shoe industry to prepare for increased civilian production, the army said today.

A spokesman for the quartermaster general's office said the downward trend in army footwear needs at this time will provide 60 days during which the industry can prepare for increased nonmilitary production.

Shift Civilians From Path of U.S. Bombers

San Francisco, Cal., July 8 (AP)—The Japanese announced today that 200,000 refugees would be moved from Honshu Island to the northernmost island of Hokkaido to get them out of the path of American planes.

One broadcast said the vanguard of the homeless—240 bombed out residents of Tokyo—had arrived at Hakodate, southern Hokkaido.

The Tokyo radio offered another answer to fire raids. "The installation of hand pumps is now in progress in small cities and farm villages in the various prefectures," it said. It added that part of the fire fighting forces and equipment once assigned to the empire's major cities has been shifted to smaller centers.

Nomura Makes Threat

Another radio program carried an article by Adm. Kichisaburo Nomura, Japanese envoy to Washington at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack, saying that the allies' policy of unconditional surrender was only costing them higher casualties.

"As long as the enemy asks for Japan's unconditional surrender," he wrote, "she will have to shed blood proportionate to the time and intensity of each battle."

Nomura conceded there was no evidence of war weariness among the allies, altho "enemy personnal losses since Pearl Harbor and after the Okinawa battle have been more than very heavy."

Nomura said that "articles such as David Lawrence's report on the Okinawa campaign have caused considerable repercussions."

Lawrence, quoting a front correspondent, said American lives might have been saved by a second amphibious landing on southern Okinawa. This prompted Adm. Nimitz to reply that such a plan had been studied and discarded as unfeasible.

27 Cities Raided

The Japanese reported that 27 "medium and small cities" had been bombed by Super Fortresses between June 17 and July 3 and said that now the B-29s were turning their attention to by-passed Marcus Island, Central Pacific base. "More than 10 enemy B-29s" made their first raid yesterday on the island, Tokyo said.

The Domei agency said an allied submarine had tried to approach Sabang, Dutch East Indies port on an island off Sumatra's northwest coast, but had been forced to submerge by fire from shore batteries.

A Domei dispatch claimed that Japanese "small surface craft" had slipped into the anchorage at Balikpapan, sank a 3,000 ton transport, and damaged one of 8,000 tons from the invasion fleet supplying the southeast Borneo operations.

FALLS UNDER L TRAIN, SUFFERS ONLY FEW CUTS

Mrs. Anno M. Wilson, 60, of 174 N. Leamington av., escaped serious injury yesterday when she fell from the platform of an elevated train moving around a curve at Wells and Van Buren sts. One coach passed over her body as she lay prone between the rails.

Mrs. Wilson was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where it was found she had suffered a laceration on her neck and other cuts which were described as minor.

With a sister, Mrs. Lottie Craig, 44, of Ottumwa, Ia., Mrs. Wilson was standing on the rear platform of the first car in the two-coach train when the accident occurred. She fell thru an opening that existed momentarily between the platforms of the two coaches as they rounded the curve.

Police said there was no guard on the platform. If Mrs. Wilson had not fallen completely thru the opening, she would have been crushed between the train platforms when the opening closed after the train passed the curve, police said.

Sleeps with His Bible as Auto Runs Over Bed

Dallas, Tex., July 8 (AP)—J. R. Magourik of Lancaster, Tex., who says he always sleeps with a Bible under his pillow, escaped uninjured today when an automobile crashed into his home, passed over his bed, and drove thru the opposite side of the house. The impact rolled Magourik up in a mattress. Five men in the automobile, all uninjured, were arrested.

M'ARTHUR SAYS FILIPINOS CAN GOVERN SELVES

Addresses Meeting of Congress

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, July 9 [Monday]—In a former Japanese schoolhouse that is now the Philippine house of congress, the Philippine government today paid tribute to Gen. MacArthur.

Manuel Roxas

The occasion was the formal presentation of orders making the general an honorary Filipino citizen and a lifetime field marshal of the Philippine army.

The thin walls of the two story frame building throbbed from the applause of the crowd that jammed every inch of space and overflowed down the steps and into adjoining buildings.

General Highly Praised

"Peerless soldier, our defender and liberator"—these are the words the speaker of the house, Jose Zulueta, used. The president of the senate, Manuel Roxas, followed with "inspiring leader, brilliant strategist, symbol of faith, our source of strength—he exemplifies the power and the glory of the United States."

The general, his voice breaking as he referred to our "mutual dead," said he accepted the honors "as a token of the mutual understanding, faith, and affection which binds us [the United States and the Philippines] one to the other."

The congress, most of its members dressed in army khaki and some wearing insignia of army rank, cheered when Gen. MacArthur declared that the combat record of the Filipinos established, undisputed, their capacity for self-government, complimented them on their courage, and said he was "fully confident the American people will do everything within their power to assist you to your national destiny."

Greeted with "Bravos"

MacArthur's appearance in the barnlike room, that replaced the large modern legislative building which now is only a big pile of rubble, brought about a rolling applause that almost drowned out the shouts of "bravo." Smiling and waving his right hand, the general marched slowly down the aisle with President Sergio Osmena who also was dressed in army khaki.

Roxas, who rivals Carlos Romulo as a fiery orator, introduced the general and when Roxas said the general's next task was the conquest of Tokyo the general nodded his head vigorously.

Cheers Shake Room

As the general rose the room shook with cheers for 40 seconds until Roxas raised his hand for silence.

The general spoke slowly, marking his words carefully. Six times he was interrupted by cheers. Once a minor crisis developed when the phone on the speaker's desk rang. An aid lifted the receiver and laid it on the desk unanswered.

The general's voice cracked when he spoke of the cost of the war. "From north to south, from east to west the stark white crosses dot your landscape where we laid our mutual dead," he said. After the 40 minute session which began four minutes later Gen. MacArthur met with members of the congress in the speaker's room.

AUSSIES CUT OFF LAST STAND JAP FORCE IN BORNEO

Advance Inland from Balikpapan

MANILA, July 9 [Monday] (AP)—Australian troops are advancing steadily inland from the oil port of Balikpapan on southeast Borneo against meager opposition, cutting off Japanese death stand forces in the area's biggest refinery district, it was disclosed today.

There was nothing as yet to indicate that the Australians had won the Pandansari refinery zone, where the Japanese have been putting up their bitterest resistance.

Fight Near Air Field

Northeast of Balikpapan the Japanese also were offering stiff resistance beyond the Australian-held Manggar air field, 13 road miles from the port. The enemy was turning coastal defense guns and some mortars against the Australian 7th division forces who are aiming at the rich Sambodja and Samarinda oil fields still northward in the swamps.

Across Balikpapan bay other troops had pushed inland westward from one to two miles without meeting opposition. American cruisers and destroyers continued to pound Japanese gun positions up and down the east coast of Borneo.

Bomb Jap Held Areas

American and Australian Mustangs, Kittyhawks, Spitfires, and Liberators strafed and bombed Japanese held areas continually, destroying guns, small craft offshore, and warehouses and barracks.

More than 30 tons of bombs were dropped on the Nipponese in the Manggar area Friday by 13 Liberators and 13 Lightning fighter bombers.

Australian 9th division troops on the northwest coast of the island pushed three miles northeastward along the railroad toward the Japanese base at Jesselton.

OIL FROM BORNEO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 8—Netherlands authorities here said today future oil production of Borneo, where Australian troops are now driving out the Japanese, certainly will be made available to the allies under reverse lend-lease.

Willem Van Boetzelaer

Willem Van Boetzelaer, Dutch minister plenipotentiary to the United States, said there is no doubt that these resources of the richest oil producing area in the far east will be provided to fuel allied warships and planes in their offensives against the Japanese.

Repair Refineries

Engineers of the Royal Dutch Shell Oil company went in with the invasion forces at Balikpapan and are now planning to repair the big refinery there and patch the pipe lines that bring in the crude oil from the fields 60 miles away in the jungle. When the refinery, originally destroyed by the Dutch when the Japs invaded the island early in 1942, and again demolished when the Japs fled before the allied invasion forces under Gen. MacArthur, is again in operation, its oil and gasoline output will greatly ease the burden of sending such supplies thousands of miles across the Pacific from the United States.

Lend-Lease Received

Reports from Balikpapan, quoting officials of the Netherlands Indies civil administration, had indicated that the oil might be sold for cash to the allies because NICA has paid cash for all supplies received from the allies.

Von Boetzelaer said it is generally true that NICA has paid cash for all supplies from the allies, but he said the Netherlands has received lend-lease for the prosecution of the war against Germany and that the Dutch government would certainly make its resources in the far east available to the allies who are driving the enemy out of the Netherlands' island empire.

GI Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CORREGIDOR, Manila bay, July 8—As night neared and the last boats prepared to shove off across Manila bay from what is left of Corregidor docks, Bill Bendixsen was a mighty tuckered man.

"They said they sent us over here to rest," Bill said, straightening the combat rifleman's badge over the pocket of his khaki shirt, "and what do we get? Tourists, that's what. Tourists. And we have to show them around."

Corregidor is acquiring a whale of a tourist business. Sundays being the big crop, sometimes 1,000 a day come streaming in. Almost all of these are soldiers, sailors, and WACs from Manila.

Warns Against Japs.

Bill Bendixsen and his infantry company are the island's garrison. Bill starts off his tours by warning that Japs are still on the place, so if there is some shooting duck while he and his .45 take care of the enemy.

The tour begins from company headquarters in one of the less damaged sections of what once was the longest barracks in the world.

First stop is the guns, perched on the cliff a couple of hundred feet above the sea. The guns are each set in a nest of concrete, steel, and earth 15 or 20 feet thick. The ammunition storages and control rooms are three and four and five stories underground in solid rock.

Impregnable was the word for the guns—until bombers came along. Well defended from the sea, the guns are wide open to the sky.

Railroad Is Wrecked

From the guns Bill drives along a network of roads that cover this four mile long and one mile wide island. The roads were once asphalt or concrete, but conquest and reconquest plus three years without care have turned them into rough paths.

From topside, as the seaward hill with its guns and barracks and other headquarters buildings is known, Bill drives down to middle side, only a few feet above sea level. It has docks and storages. Some storages are cut into the side of the topside hill. The golf course between topside and middle side is overgrown. The railroad that ran in seemingly playful but actually businesslike loops all over the island is now only scattered stretches of twisted rails.

Just beyond middle side is round Malinta hill, famous for the tunnels that run like a cross thru its half mile wide base. One by one Bill drives to the tunnels' four entrances. One, used during the seige as a hospital, is filled with dirt up to within a couple of feet of the ceiling. Behind this wall of dirt the Japs sat out air raids.

Tunnels Not All Explored.

The second, closest to topside, has been closed by a landslide which bombs started. The third, which Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright used as his headquarters, is littered as far as you can see into the dark with Jap bodies.

Bill says the tunnels are not yet completely explored. They may still hide Japs. Going to see them isn't worth the risk.

Down on the tip of the island is the cemetery. Bill doesn't take people there unless they ask. In that he is like most other combat veterans. Cemeteries revive memories.

3 OKINAWANS SENTENCED FOR CURFEW BREAK

OKINAWA, July 8 (AP) — Among the first cases of Okinawans tried under American military government were two women and a boy, convicted of violating the nightly curfew. The 16 year old boy was sentenced to ten days' hard labor.

Each of the women—one a toothless crone and the other a young mother with her baby strapped to her back—were given 30 days at whatever work they can do. The three were disciplined for being outside the civilian area after curfew.

Lt. Ben Holstein of Newark, N. J., held the summary provost court in the village of Loza. He repeated the testimony many times and had the prisoners repeat it, to make sure they understood why they were being punished.

JAPS ALL EARS AT STOCKHOLM LISTENING POST

STOCKHOLM, July 8 (AP)—Stockholm has become one of Japan's last major listening posts for information concerning the western Allies.

There is unhampered telegraphic communication between Stockholm and Tokio, and allied quarters say that excerpts of allied publications are cabled regularly to Japan.

Other capitals still open to Japanese diplomats include Bern, Moscow, Lisbon, Madrid, and Dublin. Allied quarters said even the Swedish mails could be used to send information to Japan. The mails still are going to China—including Japanese occupied areas—by way of Russia.

BRITAIN FLYING SPITFIRES TO PACIFIC AREA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 8—British single seat fighters, including Spitfires, are being flown to the Pacific in convoy by the royal air force transport command, it was reported tonight. Up to a dozen of these 400 miles an hour planes, according to the Daily Mail, are led by two seater Mosquitoes or Beaufighters, which maintain constant radio contact with the pilot of each fighter.

The convoys take off from Portreath, Cornwall, it was revealed. They have refueling bases in France and North Africa, and the longest leg of the journey is less than 500 miles. The total flying time from Portreath to Karachi, India, varies from 15 to 20 hours, but the overall trip takes four or five days, due to frequent stops.

Hurricanes, Mustangs, and Hellcats also fly east in convoy. All the aircraft are tropicalized before leaving for the Pacific fighting zone.

10 DIE AS FIRST B-29 TO RAID TOKYO CRASHES

SEVENTY-THIRD BOMBARDMENT WING, SAIPAN, July 8 (AP)—The Super Fort "Dauntless Dottie," the first B-29 to drop bombs on Tokyo and veteran of 53 missions against Japan, crashed into the sea off Kwajalein atoll in the Marshall Islands, killing 10 of its 13 occupants en route to the United States, it was announced today.

Lt. John F. Neville

Ironically, Pvt. Lowell B. Spivey of Windsor, N. C., one of the passengers who lost his life, was flying back to the United States on orders assigning him to "nonhazardous duty" because two of his brothers had been killed in action in other theaters.

He was the sole surviving son of Mrs. Helen Spivey.

The name of the second passenger killed was not disclosed.

Joliet Man Saved

The three crew members who survived the crash, which happened after a pre-dawn take-off from Kwajalein for Hawaii, were Lt. John F. Neville, 116 3d av., Joliet, Ill., co-pilot; Sgt. Charles S. McMurray, Memphis, Tenn., gunner, and S/Sgt. Glenn F. Gregory, Waldron, Ind., tail gunner.

The men killed, all of whom had flown 30 missions over Japan, were Capt. William A. Kelley, Tifton, Ga., and Evarts, Ky., plane commander; Lt. Roy E. Shanklin Jr., Bradford, Va., bombardier; Lt. William Kovack, Detroit, Mich., navigator; Lt. Carl W. Stammerjohn, 7408 Prairie av., Chicago, engineer; S/Sgt. Albert Desimone, Schenectady, N. Y.; Sgt. Glenn W. Jones, Salt Lake City, Utah; Sgt. Herman Walling, Wichita, Kas., and Sgt. O. B. Pence, Conway, Ark.

First Tokyo Raid

Flown by Brig. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, commander of the 73d wing, "Dauntless Dottie" led the first 21st bomber command mission against Tokyo last Nov. 24. O'Donnell flew with the plane's regular crew commanded by Lt. Col. [then Maj.] Robert K. Morgan, Asheville, N. C. The plane was named in honor of Morgan's wife.

"Dauntless Dottie" performed 44 bombing missions and nine reconnaissance flights over the Japanese islands. She had flown 880 hours and 176,000 combat miles and was being returned to the United States for use in training crews.

Kelley and the crew flying "Dottie" home were not regularly assigned to the craft. The bomber's regular commander, Lt. Andrew G. Mayse, Tulsa, Okla., had remained behind to complete his tour of duty.

Dottie's crew chief, M/Sgt. Milton H. Brinkmeyer, St. Louis, Mo., said the plane had used up 10 engines. Her last mission was over Kobe, Japan, on June 5.

VERTEBRA BROKEN

Lt. Neville, 24, suffered a broken vertebra and is in a hospital in San Francisco, Cal., his wife, Annabelle, said yesterday. He entered the air force in September, 1942, and left the United States last November.

Lt. Stammerjohn, 26, is survived by his widow, Dorothy, a daughter, Carol Ruth, 9 months old, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Stammerjohn, who live at 6947 Michigan av. He was a graduate of Parker High school and the Aeronautical University of Chicago, and entered the army in December, 1942. His widow said yesterday that Lt. Stammerjohn and the other men in the crash transferred to the "Dauntless Dottie" after all escaped injury in the crash of another plane, the "Lucky Irish," on Iwo island.

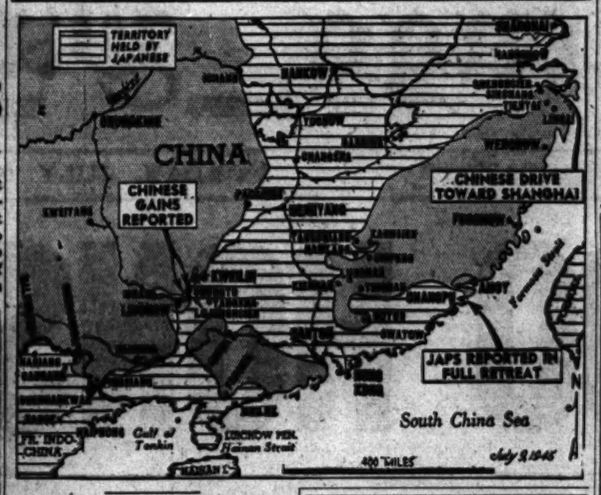
LONDON, July 8—Heavy bookings of trans-Atlantic calls by American soldiers anxious to talk to the folks back home have resulted in a temporary suspension of this service, the British postmaster general announced. Business calls will continue to be accepted, and as soon as the backlog is worked off social calls will be resumed.

Chinese Advance Toward Shanghai



JAP INVADERS IN FLIGHT UNDER CHINESE BLOWS

CHUNGKING, July 8 (AP)—The Chinese high command reported tonight that Japanese marine raiders who landed on southeast China's "invasion" coast southwest of Amoy were in full retreat under the blows of pursuing Chinese veterans.

Confirming front dispatches that the Japanese had effected beachheads on the coast below the Japanese held former treaty port 140 miles west of Formosa, a Chinese bulletin asserted that enemy landing parties had suffered heavy casualties.

Driven Along Coast

The bulletin said the Japanese took off from island bound Amoy, crossed Hsiamen river estuary, and landed on the Fukien province coast about six miles south of the seaport June 30.

After massing for a blow, the Chinese swept against the Japanese landing forces, and by yesterday afternoon had driven the enemy along the coast to a point east of Changpu, 35 miles southwest of Amoy.

For almost 400 miles to the northeast, the invasion vulnerable coast of China was clear of Japanese forces as a result of enemy withdrawals and Chinese occupation of former Japanese coastal strongholds.

At the northern end of the Japanese free coastline only 340 miles west of American held Kume Island in the Ryukyus, the Chinese were plunging up the Chekiang province coast toward Shanghai.

Chinese Gain in Drives

While some advance spearheads, following in the wake of Japanese retirement, battled at the gates of Chenghsien, 116 miles south of Shanghai, the high command announced that the Japanese stronghold of Tientai on the Wenchow-Hangchow highway had been recaptured by Chinese soldiers.

Meanwhile, 400 miles southeast of Chungking, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's troops in Kwangsi province gained in drives from captured Liuchow along the railroad and highway leading to Kweilin, 90 miles to the northeast.

DROWN IN RAINSTORM

Jerico Springs, Mo., July 8 [AP]—Two persons were drowned, eight houses damaged and dozens of farm buildings destroyed when a rain, wind and hail storm struck this community last night. The dead were Mrs. Emma Saxton, 30, of Independence, Mo., and her daughter Elba, 16. They drowned when the car in which they were riding with Mr. Saxton was washed away as they attempted to cross an inundated bridge. Crops were pulverized by the hail.

CHINA'S PREMIER VISITS STALIN 3D TIME IN WEEK

Report Progress in Settling Problems

MOSCOW, July 8 (AP)—Generalissimo Stalin last night held his third meeting within a week with Chinese Premier T. V. Soong as evidence accumulated that China and the soviet union were making progress in solving problems of the highest interest to allied statesmen.

A well informed foreign diplomatic source said that while by no means all questions had been settled, there was reason to be optimistic enough to remember one of the last messages sent to Moscow by the late Sun Yat Sen, founder of the Chinese republic.

"Brother and Ally"

This message was: "Bidding you farewell, I hope a day will come when the soviet union will find in a powerful China a brother and an ally, and both will work hand in hand for the liberation of the nations."

A diplomatic source said that every effort was being made by the two statesmen to come to an agreement on virtually every mutual question.

"Nothing is being passed up," the informant said. "This is a frank discussion between two very serious, intelligent peoples bent on settling a number of matters."

Plain Speaking

It was stressed that last night's talk, like the two previous ones, was carried on in an atmosphere of warm cordiality, but that this friendliness did not keep the conferees from speaking plainly.

Soong went to see Stalin this third time after communicating with Chungking. The fact that Stalin was willing to push aside other business almost on the eve of the Big Three meeting to see the Chinese premier three times within a week, impressed diplomats.

Neutral diplomats said the Japanese in Moscow were buzzing with conversation about the meetings and otherwise showing great interest in the situation.

Sleeping Tablets Fatal to Wife of Gen. Walton

Santa Ana, Cal., Jan. 8 (AP)—The body of Mrs. Freda A. Walton, 48, wife of Brig. Gen. Leo A. Walton, chief of the 6th army air forces now in the Canal Zone, was found in her home today. An announcement by the AAF western flying training command here where Walton was formerly chief of staff, said she died from an overdose of sleeping tablets following a prolonged illness.

THREE BRITISH CARRIERS HIT BY SUICIDE PLANES

Flat Tops Stay in Action in Pacific

GUAM, July 8 (AP)—Three carriers of the British task force attacking the Sakishima group between Okinawa and Formosa were struck by five Kamikaze [suicide] planes but suffered only minor damage and continued operations, United States Pacific fleet advanced headquarters announced today.

Two of the carriers were announced as the Indefatigable and the Victorious. The identity of the third was undisclosed. Previously it had been announced the British carriers Illustrious and Indomitable also were operating in the Pacific.

Japs Lose 140 Planes

The Japanese paid a heavy price for the damage inflicted, fleet headquarters said. They lost 140 aircraft in the two months beginning March 26 during which the British task force lashed the Sakishimas.

Only one British ship was rendered inoperative during the campaign—the destroyer Ulster.

The Indefatigable was hit twice on the same day; another carrier was hit twice on successive days, and the Victorious was hit once.

Damage control and firefighting parties on all three carriers were able to clear the flight decks so aircraft within a short time after the explosions were taking off and landing.

Three Near Misses.

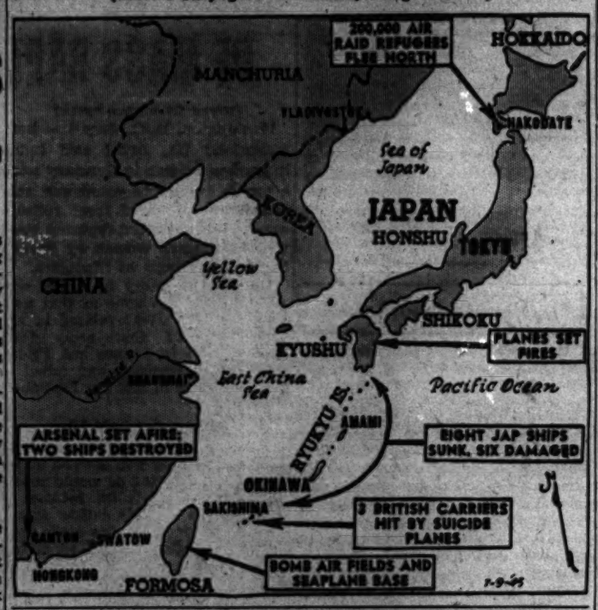
Three near misses also were suffered by the carriers—two Kamikazes actually brushing the decks but their own momentum swept them overside where they exploded harmlessly in the sea. A third suicidist, touching the superstructure of a carrier, dived across the ship above the flight deck and went crashing into the ocean.

The British reported that since the Sakishima strikes began they had lost 70 men killed and 34 seriously wounded.

British ships which have been listed as operating in the Pacific include two battleships, four carriers, four cruisers, and numerous destroyers.

New Raids Against the Japanese

(Stories on page 1 and in adjoining columns)



FLYERS SINK 8 SMALL SHIPS IN JAP HOME SEAS

GUAM, July 9 [Monday]—(AP)—American war planes destroyed or wrecked 49 Japanese aircraft, sank eight small coastal vessels, and damaged six others in week-end sweeps which continued to exact heavy toll of the enemy's home communications and installations, it was announced today.

Iwo based army Mustang fighters alone destroyed or damaged 45 Japanese planes over the Tokyo area, their fourth raid in five days. Striking the Tokyo air fields at noon, a large Mustang force destroyed 33 planes outright and probably knocked out five more. Seven others were damaged.

Seven Mustangs failed to return—the only American aerial losses announced.

Set Air Field Afire

The Tokyo radio first reported the Mustang strikes, saying 150 planes were in a force paced by three Super Fortresses. The radio predicted heavier raids would be forthcoming.

At Tokyo's Kyakurigahara air field, one of the two hit by Mustangs, the hangar area was left burning from rocket fire. An electric train also was destroyed and power houses were strafed.

Okinawa based navy and marine aircraft accounted for all Japanese vessels sunk and damaged, except for the one strafed by the Iwo Mustangs.

Largest score for the day, announced by Adm. Nimitz, was by 2d marine wing Corsairs which burned four coastal ships and capsized one over the Amami Island group Saturday.

The Corsairs also strafed a small submarine and blew up two fighter aircraft on the ground.

Attack Kyushu Island

The 5th air force fighters, also Okinawa based, destroyed locomotives and freight cars and set some warehouses afire on southern Kyushu Island. The area was not otherwise identified in the bulletin issued by Gen. MacArthur from Manila.

Other units of his air forces again bombed Formosa, hitting air fields at Taien, Ruytan, and Heito, the Toko seaplane base and the Takao docks as well as Taito town and railway yards. Two enemy bombers were destroyed on the ground on Formosa and a large junk was sunk by search planes which also set fire to the Mako coaling wharf.

WIDE CHOICE IN LIVELIHOOD SEEN FOR VETS

Opportunity in Job or Own Business

(This is the second article of a series on livelihood opportunities for veterans.)

With the promise that the period ahead will be one of economic growth and expansion, a returned veteran has a wide choice of remunerative occupations in which to earn his livelihood, a survey of the prospects shows.

These prospects may be divided into two classes. In the first and larger class are jobs in which a veteran may make a living by working for some one else, perhaps a corporation or another individual. In the second group are the opportunities available for those who wish to go into business for themselves.

Fast Growing Fields

Altho almost all industries are charted for post-war growth, there are several which at this time appear headed for quicker and broader expansion than others. A few of the more promising fields are plastics, electronics, chemicals, synthetic rubber, home building, and aviation.

Plastic manufacturers estimate that they will need to increase employment by 25 per cent to meet the demand accumulated during the war.

Electronics—which includes radio, radar, frequency modulation, and television—is said to have vast prospects in peace time. War fostered developments in chemical production, including insecticides and fungicides, are expected to find wider applications. Synthetic rubber producers declare their product already excels natural rubber in some uses and eventually will equal or surpass it in price and performance for almost all purposes.

Many Eager to Build

Thousands of persons, crowded into uncomfortable and small quarters during the war, are eager to build homes. Air line officials are mapping around-the-world routes.

The outlook for the second group, small business, is promising, too, but success will demand more of the individual than if he were employed.

It means he will have to work harder and longer. His vacations will be fewer and less carefree. He will have to learn business practices and acquaint himself with tax laws and government regulations.

There are compensating factors, however, for the veteran who opens a filling station, appliance store, butcher shop, or hardware store. He will be independent. There will be no seniority rules to regulate his progress.

[Succeeding articles in this series will deal with some of the particular problems in various small enterprises which are suitable for veterans.]

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

July 9—Elias Howe, Sewing Machine Inventor

One of the great American success stories began obscurely in Spencer, Mass., 126 years ago today when a boy was born to Polly Howe, wife of a hard pressed small farmer and miller.

The child, who was named Elias after his father, eventually performed a signal service for society and amassed a substantial fortune for himself. Yet most of his 48 years of life were spent in a struggle to surmount the obstacles which ill health, poverty, chicanery, and plain bad luck scattered in his path.

Too frail for farming and too poor to get an education, the boy left home at 16 to work in a machine shop. He was fascinated by mechanics and eagerly pounced upon each crumb of knowledge that came his way. In his early 20s he gave up his $9 a week job to work day and night on the project that had come to engross all his attention—that of devising a machine that would sew as efficiently as the human hand but far faster. An early machine of his was based on the theory that a needle with a point at each end and an eye in the middle would work up and down thru the cloth carrying the thread thru at each thrust, but it turned out to be cumbersome and impractical.

One day an idea hit him with the force of a bolt of lightning. Why not have two threads and make the stitches by means of a shuttle and a curved needle, with the eye near the point?

Frantically he set to work. Soon he had a new machine which demonstrated it could sew five times as fast as the fastest human sewer.

That was in 1845, and in the following year a patent was obtained, but Howe's troubles were far from over. The skepticism, and sometimes the open hostility of the needle trades, delayed the marketing of the invention. He went to England, and got some recognition there, but bad luck pursued him and he came back to this country almost penniless. In the meantime, various American manufacturers had pirated his ideas and it was only after a long court fight that he obtained justice.

Beginning in 1854, when the courts ruled that Howe's patent was basic, wealth poured in, but in one respect at least it was too late. The wife, who had encouraged him, and for whom he longed to provide luxury, had died. Howe's last years were saddened by the Civil war, in which he served as a private in a Connecticut regiment. He died in Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 3, 1867.

CHICAGO PILOTS ESCAPE BULLETS, STRAFE JAP SHIP

OVER KOREA, July 8 (AP)—Four small Japanese freighters went down under bomb bursts and machine gun fire and another took a fierce blasting this morning as four United States navy Privateer planes scourged the inlets of western Korea.

Lt. Comdr. Arthur Farwell

Sweeping from Kunsan, 200 miles up the Korean coast, to Tsushima straits off Kyushu, the Yank airmen clipped every possible target, except thousands of sampans, at near deck level.

The Privateer, piloted by Lt. Comdr. Arthur Farwell of Chicago, was nearly "mousetrapped" by Japanese gunners at Kaito. The enemy's guns, hidden in the hills, fired into it as its machine guns strafed a freighter. Farwell, who has been shot down twice, rolled the plane sideways to safety. Lt. [j. g.] William P. Whitmore, Chicago, was his co-pilot.

HERRIOT HINTS AT CANDIDACY IN FRENCH VOTE

LYON, July 8 (AP)—Edouard M. Herriot, former French premier, told a meeting of the Radical Socialist party today he would take an active part and might even become a candidate in France's first general election since the German occupation.

"I am ready to defend the republic as I have always defended France," the 72 year old Herriot said in a speech. No election date has been set. France at present is governed by Gen. de Gaulle and a consultative assembly.

Outlining his attitude toward world affairs, Herriot said that France "must not forget that in matters of foreign policy we must be ever mindful of not hurting the feelings of other people."

NMU TO PROTEST BONUS CUTS BY PICKETING WSA

Land Is Target of Red Dominated Union

New York, July 8 [Special]—Delegates of the communist controled National Maritime union, a CIO organization, today voted to picket the United States war shipping administration offices thruout the nation in protest against proposed reductions in bonuses paid to merchant seamen.

A resolution adopted at the union's fifth biennial convention called for a delegation to go to Washington, D. C., tonight to "throw a picket line around the offices of Vice Adm. Emory S. Land," head of the WSA. It also called for telegrams to be sent to all NMU officers directing local union members to picket WSA branch offices.

The union, which in 1940 was described by Author Charles Y. Harrison as "a political racket operating in the interests of a potentially hostile foreign government," has interpreted the proposed bonus reductions as "wage cuts."

Cuts Effective July 15

The reductions, which were ordered to become effective July 15 by the maritime war emergency board because of lessened war dangers, would bring bonuses down to 33⅓ per cent of base pay in the Atlantic ocean and in part of the Pacific. In all other waters, except the far western Pacific and part of the Indian ocean, the bonus would be 66⅔ per cent. In the two exceptions bonuses would be 100 per cent, plus $5 a day.

Base pay of ordinary seamen is 34½ cents an hour without bonuses.

"Impending war time wage cuts are driving more than 8,000 seamen each month off merchant ships," the union's resolution said. "Our families cannot live on pre-war wages of 34 cents an hour."

Deny It's a Strike

Union officers said pickets at WSA offices would carry signs saying, "This is not a strike." They added that union members contribute their time for picketing while on furloughs.

Under the leadership of Joseph Curran, who has been head of the union since the maritime strikes of 1936 and 1937, the union has followed the Communist party line as dictated from Moscow.

Before Germany attacked Russia, NMU leaders preached against American involvement in the war.

After Germany attacked Russia, the NMU whooped it up for America to aid the allies, and when the United States joined forces with the allies, the union kept in step with the party line by yelling for a "second front" to relieve the Red army.

'GO SLOW' STRIKE MAY EMPTY ALL LONDON DOCKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 8—"Go slow" tactics of London dockers in their efforts to enforce a demand for pay increases may slow the port to a standstill unless the dispute which has been going on since May 28 is settled soon, shippers said today.

Ten thousand Liverpool and other Mersey dockers and railroad men, it is estimated, have taken on the job of loading men, tanks, planes, guns, oil refining machinery, a complete air station, and thousands of tons of food for the Pacific war in ships which originally were scheduled to pick up their cargoes at London.

The grievance of the London dockers is that the existing daily rate of pay of $3.50 is too low after high war time earnings. They demand $5. There were more than 30 empty berths in the London docks this week-end. Ships are being sent empty from London on a three day voyage to Glasgow, Avonmouth, and Middlesbrough for loading.

REDS IN BERLIN PRESSING VAST NAZI ROUNDUP

Trap Tens of Thousands in Manhunt

ered unless a solution is reached, the Associated Press reported. Col. Howley said he expected the major powers to agree within a few days on an over-all plan of government for Berlin, the dispatch also said.]

Consider Barter Deals

Lt. Gen. Lucius Clay and Robert Murphy, political adviser to Gen. Eisenhower, conferred with Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov and British representatives in Berlin last week. The Russians suggested that the Americans and British supply food for the Germans in their zones. Zhukov asserted this could be drawn from the surplus of the "rich western and southern provinces." These areas will at best be able to supply only their own needs whereas the Russians control the big agricultural provinces of Germany.

The Russians indicated they would consider barter deals, exchanging agricultural products from areas they control for products of Germany's western centers. The Americans and British have just withdrawn from Germany's most modern industrial production centers of Leipzig, Magdeburg, and Halle, and turned them over to the Russians. The Russians have also removed about 50 per cent of industrial installations in the Berlin area to the east to rebuild their own plants.

American and British experts point out that Berlin always secured 70 per cent of its food from the Brandenburg area surrounding it and 30 per cent from northeastern Germany, now controled by the Russians. Owing to the disruption of transport, both rail and waterways, it is important that this system of supply should be continued.

600 Tons a Day

If the American make concessions on the problem of feeding the American sector of Berlin, it would necessitate hauling daily 600 tons of food to supply minimum requirements of 800,000 Germans living in the American area. The British would have to bring in similar amounts for the 800,000 in their zone, while the Russians could feed the 1,100,000 in their area easily from districts surrounding Berlin.

Eighty officers and 162 enlisted men who were to have formed the American military government of Berlin started preparing for their job in November while stationed in France. They spent several months with British teams assigned to the future control of the German capital, and coördinated policies of both groups.

Upon arrival in Berlin they found the methods of the Russians differed widely from those of the Anglo-American group. Brig. W. R. N. Hinde, military governor of the British occupation zone in Berlin, said that Russian control was more rigid than the one planned by the British and Americans. "The Russians have a much stronger grip down to the lower levels of administration than the Americans and British had planned," he asserted.

Hinde felt that if the differences of opinion which still prevail about the general plan of operations for Berlin were straightened out, the Americans and British would be ready to recognize the German municipal government set up by the Russians. Only in the American and British areas officials would be required to fill out the lengthy questionnaires which so many American and British officials depend upon as an effective weapon to uncover camouflaged Nazis.

11,000 Nazis Ousted

The Russians operate with a less complicated questionnaire, but in the last eight weeks they have ousted 11,000 Nazis from the municipal government. Some Nazis still remain among the 73,500 working in the municipal government under Chief Burgomaster Arthur Werner, a 68 year old train engineer. But the Nazis that survived are a tiny group, which the Russians are certain cannot impede work.

Delay in full assumption of power by the American and British teams leads to occasional misunderstandings. For instance, the Americans posted the laws and rules they intend to enforce in their zone. In Neukoel, part of the American sector, the Russians held that since we were not fully in charge the ordinances were superfluous. Some posters were torn off. Howley called the Russian military governor, who ordered his staff to respect the American ordinances.

MINESWEEPER'S LOG HISTORY OF TWO FRONT WAR

'D-Minus-3' Prepares Way for Attack

San Francisco, Cal., July 8 [Special]—Every one knows that D-day is the day assault forces hit the enemy beaches. But only a few have heard of the men who prepare the way ahead of D-day.

This is the story of "D-minus-three," the nickname of the U. S. S. Hamilton, a destroyer born during World War I. and converted into a mine sweeper after the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor.

The "D-minus-three," with seven Chicagoans in her crew, has put in at Richmond, Cal., for repairs after more than 100,000 miles of Pacific action.

Protected African Invasion

Her log is virtually a history of the war.

When Yank troops invaded North Africa in November, 1942, she protected the first wave of invasion barges off French Morocco. On Atlantic convoy she fought the cold of the Newfoundland-Iceland run.

Then came the Pacific. The Hamilton's job three days prior to D-day in the Pacific was to sweep a channel clear of enemy mines so that major fleet units and assault transports could close in.

Her Pacific log reads like this:

Marshalls, February, 1944; Admiralties, March, 1944; Aitape, New Guinea, April, 1944; Saipan, June, 1944; Guam, July, 1944; Palau, September, 1944; Leyte, October, 1944; Lingayen gulf, January, 1945; Iwo Jima, February, 1945.

Swept Kossol Passage

Biggest mine sweeping job for the Hamilton was in the Kossol passage of the Palau Islands, said the Hamilton's mine sweeping officer, Lt. [j. g.] E. K. Russell, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Russell, 5555 Sheridan rd., Chicago.

Other Chicagolanders are:

Honors Chaplain

An army hospital plane was dedicated to the memory of Capt. Irving Tepper, army chaplain who died in Normandy, at the army air base at Chicago airport yesterday. Its purchase was made possible by $150,000 in war bonds bought by members of Hopoel Hamizrachi. Rabbi Alfred Fruchter, executive director of the organization, spoke at the ceremonies, which were attended by Col. James L. McBride, chaplain of the 6th service command; Don McKiernan, representing the special events division of the treasury department; and Maj. Hugh R. Bishop, commanding the army base at the field.

3,500 PLANES RETURN WITH 51,184 IN CREWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 8—Thirty-five hundred planes carrying 51,184 crew members have been returned to the United States since the third week in May, Brig. Gen. Earl S. Hoag, commander of the air transport command in the European theater, announced today. Plans call for the return of approximately 1,850 twin engine planes and 4,115 four engine bombers. It is expected to have all four engine craft out of Europe by July 15, with twin engine deliveries completed a month later.

Only two losses occurred among the 3,500 already departed while the planes were under the control of the European division of the ATC, it was announced.

The redeployment of twin engine bombers, transport and troop carriers began a week ago from the base at Marseille with the dispatch of 168 A-26s and C-47s. As a result of the heavy traffic of four engine bombers over the north Atlantic, the twin engine aircraft are flying the southern route from Marseille to Savannah, Ga., by way of North Africa, Ascension Island, and Brazil. A chain of ships is stationed along the route to pick up survivors of any planes which might be ditched.

Churchill Vacation Party Takes 2 Weeks' Rations

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 8—Prime Minister Churchill and his party now holidaying at Hendaye, France, took enough rations with them from Britain to last two weeks, it was reported tonight. The provisions include butter and tea. There are 35 persons in the party, including 10 detectives, who mount a double guard around the Hendaye manor house, where the prime minister is resting.

SEN. M'FARLAND BACKS REPORT OF MASS RAPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 8 — Sen. McFarland [D., Ariz.] said today that when he was in Germany with a senate interstate commerce subcommittee he heard from reliable sources stories of the reported mass rape of German women by French Senegalese troops at Stuttgart.

He said the story he heard was substantially the same as that Sen. Eastland [D., Miss.] related in the senate June 29. Sixth army group headquarters in France last Friday said an investigation had failed to reveal a basis in fact for Eastland's report.

Ambassador Told Him

Reached in Mississippi last night, Eastland said he was amazed at the denial and asserted he would repeat the charges when he returns to Washington. In his senate speech he said he received the story from Jefferson Caffery, American ambassador to France, and that Gen. Devers, then commanding the 6th army, and Gen. Patch, commanding the 7th army, confirmed the report.

Conflict of Details

Sen. Russell [D., Ga.] who went to Europe with the joint senate military and naval affairs subcommittee, said he heard stories of the reported mass rape, but that there was a conflict of details and that he did not determine which was the correct version.

Sen. Gurney [R., S. D.], who also went to Europe with a senate subcommittee, said he doesn't know whether he heard the stories and declined further comment.

PORTUGAL STILL REVELS IN BOOM BROUGHT BY WAR

Foreign Money Makes Populace Rich

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LISBON, Portugal, July 8—Portugal still revels in the war time boom when the allies and the axis feverishly outbid each other for wolfram, olive oil, and cork, when shipping was worth its weight in gold, when wealthy refugees from all over Europe squandered their money seeking to escape the boredom of tedious waiting, and when the rival belligerents expended untold millions in propaganda.

The vast amount of foreign money disbursed in Lisbon in the last six years seeped into every category of the populace from the de luxe hotels and restaurants to the cheapest rooming houses and eating places. Every type of shopkeeper profited from the expenditures of the thousands of persons stranded here.

The boom now is being boasted by the huge sums of enemy funds, chiefly German, being invested in real estate, the construction of apartments and income properties skilfully camouflaged under Portuguese ownership. Embassy authorities estimate that the amount of German capital thus evading seizure runs into hundreds of millions and are pessimistic over the eventual recovery of any of this wealth.

Refugees Leaving City

Portuguese authorities have promised complete coöperation in handing over the German embassy, chancellery, consulate, propaganda bureau, and travel agencies.

The refugee problem which swamped the city during the war is gradually being solved as the wealthier persons leave and the poorer ones and those who went broke during the long siege have been distributed thruout the country to relieve the pressure on Lisbon.

Accommodations are now obtainable in all the hotels altho a few months ago premiums as high as hundreds of dollars were offered for rooms. Tables in exclusive restaurants are available without reservations. Gambling in the casino at Estoril has dropped to a trickle, and a 20 cent chip is accepted at roulette where $1 was the former minimum.

Show Allied Propaganda

The British ministry of information and the American office of war information are competing to prove that each won the war. Shop windows are plastered with atrocity photographs. Even the Russians have been able to rent a show window and advertise the Red army's achievements.

The new security league creates a new problem as Portugal is anxious to participate. This issue strengthens the bond with Spain and is expected to solidify the Iberian bloc promulgated by Antonio Salazar and Generalissimo Franco during the war.

City Seeks Rent on Condemned Building

GEORGE S. LURIE CO.
REAL ESTATE
180 N. LA SALLE ST.
CHICAGO 1, ILL.

June 30, 1945

Mr. Frank Dasaron,
1145 W. Van Buren Str.,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Sirs

This is to advise that the City of Chicago, owner of the building in which you are a tenant, has appointed us to manage the property and collect the rents.

Therefore, beginning with the month of July 1945, your rent in the amount of $25.00 should be sent direct to us. As you know, all rents are due and payable on the first of each month.

All matters pertaining to your tenancy should be referred to us.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE S. LURIE CO.

5,000,000 TONS SENT TO RUSSIA VIA PERSIA GULF

LONDON, July 8 [Reuters]—Russia received more than 5,000,000 tons of supplies shipped by the western allies thru the Persian gulf up to the end of last April, it was officially stated today.

Sending of supplies by the Persian and Iraqui overland routes began in September, 1941, within two months of the German attack on Russia, and in the early days they were all carried by the British. United States assistance was planned one year later and by the spring of 1943 the Americans were playing a large part.

White Russia Says Nazis Razed 1,215,200 Houses

MOSCOW, July 8 (AP)—Statistics on German damage to the White Russian republic are given in a petition signed by 2,547,360 citizens and forwarded to Generalissimo Stalin. The petition says the Germans destroyed 1,215,200 houses and village buildings. It may have a bearing on reparations discussions under way in Moscow.

PAPER DELIVERY UNION VOTES TO CONTINUE STRIKE

New York, July 8 (AP)—Despite war labor board directives to return to work, the Independent Newspaper Mail and Deliverers' union voted unanimously at a mass meeting today to continue a strike which has tied up distribution of 14 major New York newspapers. The strike now is in its eighth day.

Joseph Simons, president of the union, said union officers had recommended to the members that they abide by the WLB directives and return to work, thus permitting continuation of negotiation for a new contract with the Publishers association of New York City. A motion was made, however, he said, that the union refuse to return to work without a contract, and this motion was carried unanimously.

Chief issue in the dispute between the union and the publishers is a union demand for a "welfare fund" to be established by the publishers.

Report One of Nazis Who Destroyed Lidice Seized

LONDON, July 8 [Reuters]—A Gestapo man named Forster, described as one of those directly responsible for the destruction of Lidice, Czechoslovakia, in June, 1942, has been arrested in Karlsbad, Prague radio reported tonight.

GERMAN LUXURY LINERS FOUND TO BE FIRE TRAPS

BY LARRY RUE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, July 8—The pride of the German merchant marine, the sister ships Bremen and Europa, instead of being potential cruisers or troop ships, as seemed to be the general impression when these ships were launched, were not geared for any war job. They were really potential fire traps, according to American engineers who now are reconditioning the Europa to carry our boys back home.

Before she will be able to operate, the Europa probably will have to have two new generators, which must be sent from America.

"The Europa and Bremen were cheaply built and evidently were expected to make enough money in 10 years carrying passengers to pay for the cost of their construction," said an engineer.

Wiring Was Faulty

"The Europa would never have passed our steamboat inspection tests. Her electric wiring, instead of being as our laws require, was nothing but ordinary insulated wires running up and down and between decks.

"Moreover, she had facilities to carry food supplies for only six days for 2,300 people. We are now fixing her up so her wiring will be safe. We expect to carry 10,000 troops on her at a time.

Vulnerable to Fire

"The reason the Germans never tried to do something with these ships must be their vulnerability to fire and lack of facilities to stay out for long periods without new supplies. Even when the Germans did make a half hearted attempt to recondition the Europa as a troop ship, they only hoped to carry 2,300 aboard her."

Maj. John Kearny of New York, who has been arranging for the messes for American soldiers, said that when the Europa takes to sea again under American auspices, arrangements will be made so that 4,000 soldiers can be fed every hour.

SLAVS CHARGE GREEKS SHOOT ACROSS BORDER

Tito Accuses Neighbor of Terrorism

LONDON, July 8 (AP)—Marshal Tito, premier of Yugoslavia, today accused Greek forces of firing across the Greek-Yugoslav border in an effort "to provoke us" and said that thousands of Macedonians had fled northern Greece to Yugoslavia to escape Greek terrorism.

At the same time, Moscow dispatches said the national front of federal Macedonia had laid a strong protest before the Yugoslav government accusing "fascist" Greek organizations, supported by units of the Greek regular army, of carrying out a reign of terror in Greek Macedonia.

The Macedonian organization, a Tass dispatch said, described the terror campaign as comparable in savagery with "the most horrible in the times of Turkish enslavery."

Tells of Refugees

Tito, in a broadcast over the Belgrade radio, asserted the Greeks were firing with machine guns across the Yugoslav frontier and added: "Our soldiers have not replied with a single shot." He declared Yugoslavia would not undertake more than partial disarmament "as long as other armies stand under arms."

Tito first observed that the Greek minister of the interior recently had denied that "a single Greek or Slav citizen in Greece had left Greece for Yugoslavia."

"I declare today before you and the whole world that there are thousands, not only of Macedonians, but of Greeks who have escaped to Yugoslavia," Tito said. "These people came over to us in order to escape the persecution of Greek reaction.

"I can tell you that despite all our efforts to remain on the best relations with the Greeks, Greek provocateurs and reactionaries are shooting with machine guns over the frontier.

Sees Greek Reaction

"We do not yield to the provocation of the reactionaries. . . . As a matter of fact we do not regard this as a danger. I am certain that the overwhelming majority of the Greek nation will check and foil the efforts of those Greek reactionaries who are hostile to our country."

Tass reported the central committee of the national front of federal Macedonia had declared that the "Greek government cannot fail to know what its civil administration and army are doing."

Women who have wondered whether service men prefer femininity or the casual attire of the bobby socks set had their answer yesterday. Several hundred men in uniform, voting at the United Service Organizations center at 131 S. Wabash av., chose as their favorite ensemble the one worn by model Betsey Harmon, 6151 Drexel av. A blue flannel tunic dress, Miss Harmon's frock was worn with spectator pumps and an Alice in Wonderland hair band around her page boy bob. There were two bobby socks outfits modeled and each received only one vote. The soldiers, the master of ceremonies said, want their women to be suave, sleek, and feminine.

QUIZ VERIFIES NAZI EXECUTION OF WAR WRITER

AP Man Seized During Slovakia Uprising

ROME, July 8 (AP)—An investigation by the Associated Press left little doubt today that Joseph Morton, AP war correspondent who distinguished himself by his coverage of the war in the Mediterranean, was executed by the Germans on Jan. 24, 1945 after being captured in Slovakia.

Joseph Morton

Morton had accompanied a military mission of 17 Americans and British who went to assist Slovak patriots in a revolt last fall and the entire group was taken prisoner at Banska Bystrica, in central Slovakia, 125 miles north of Budapest. Apparently all were killed.

Lynn Heinzerling, veteran Associated Press reporter who went to the area several weeks ago to determine Morton's fate, returned here yesterday and said he was satisfied from questioning of German officials and guards that Morton was executed at the nazi concentration camp in Mau Hausen, a small Austrian town on the Danube 10 miles southeast of Linz.

Heinzerling said he was told the body had been cremated. The full story of Heinzerling's trip and his findings now is in process of being reviewed by censorship, since it concerns war crimes investigations.

[Slovakian government officials said today that they were planning to erect a memorial to Correspondent Morton, an Associated Press dispatch from Bratislava, Slovakia, said. Dr. Joseph Lettric, co-president of Slovakia representing the Democratic party whom Morton interviewed at Banska Bystrica during the height of the uprising last October, said that Morton's death "was a brutal assassination."]

MADE BRILLIANT RECORD

Morton expressed a burning ambition to become a foreign correspondent when he first joined the staff of the Associated Press in Lincoln, Neb., eight years ago.

When the opportunity came he achieved a brilliant record of exclusive and significant reporting under most difficult and hazardous conditions.

One of his most spectacular achievements was his reaching Bucharest, Romania, last August to witness the arrival of the Red army, and to obtain the story of the overthrow of the German dominated dictatorship in that country. He had flown in aboard a 15th air force bomber, and was the first allied correspondent there.

Reports Rome Bombing

In the summer of 1943, Morton was one of the first American correspondents to see Rome since the start of war. He flew over the city in an American bomber and reported in vivid eyewitness accounts the air assault upon the historic city.

He did outstanding work in covering the allied air forces in North Africa. During the Sicilian invasion, Morton talked the air forces into flying his jeep into Sicily, which enabled him to enter several cities on the heels of the invasion forces.

So far as is known, he was the only war correspondent executed by the Germans.

POLICE INVESTIGATE STABBING

Police yesterday were investigating the stabbing of Will McKenny, 39, of 1215 Frontier av., Negro, a porter. McKenny was treated for five stab wounds which he said were inflicted by a woman he knew only as "Mary" in an argument in a friend's home at 1217 Frontier st.

BARE NAZI PLAN TO KEEP UP WAR FROM REDOUBT

ROSENHEIM, Bavaria, July 8 (AP)—Nazi underground leaders hid men and munitions in the "redoubt" area of Germany in hopes of keeping a core of resistance going. This is now known, but details cannot be passed thru censorship.

It can be said that German SS leaders were at the bottom of all the plans, but restrictions prevent identifying them or detailing the type of munitions or secret weapons they planned to use. An unspecified number of nazi underground leaders are still scattered in prison cages thruout the occupation area and now are getting a thoro screening by allied authorities.

The SS men were known to have had one distinctive mark, a blood type code tattooed under the armpit. When a German protested he was not of the SS, American soldiers then demanded, "Let's see under your arm." That was effective until Germans in huge prisoner cages resorted to their own plastic surgery to remove the tattoo.

Railroaders identify various types of locomotives by the number and arrangement of wheels from front to rear. The Union Pacific locomotive pictured above is known as a "4-8-8-4".... two pairs of small wheels in front, then four pairs of driving wheels followed by a similar unit, and two pairs of smaller wheels in the rear—not including the tender.

The "4-8-8-4" type is Union Pacific's largest and heaviest steam locomotive; informally christened "Big Boy" by the men who built it. This giant of the rails is 132 feet in length and weighs approximately 600 tons. Water capacity is 25,000 gallons; fuel 28 tons.

A fleet of 25 "Big Boys" is now in Union Pacific service. Built primarily to haul heavy freight loads on western mountain grades, they have proved invaluable in transporting tremendous quantities of war materials over the Strategic Middle Route, uniting the East with the West Coast.

The "Big Boy" is a typical example of American industrial skill and labor, sparked by the spirit of individual enterprise; the spirit that 65,000 Union Pacific employes are working and fighting to keep alive, to build a bright future for your America.

BLACK MARKET IN BRUSSELS HAS A BUSY SUNDAY

Cigarets and Other Prize Items Plentiful

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 8—American and British army cigarets, soap, coffee, candy, cocoa, canned food and clothing were noted in view of the throngs this morning in Brussels' thriving black market. Sunday is the busiest day in this graft clearing house.

On the edge of the central business district, where legitimate stores are virtually empty, the narrow, cobblestone streets between dingy, old buildings were packed with buyers and sellers slowly milling in this illegal trade. Fat women with frowsy heads barked their wares in husky French, displaying a can of condensed milk, a box of chocolate bars or a tray of cheese or oleomargarine.

Narrow shouldered and hollow chested men, some old and some young, pulled tax exempt cigaret packages from the bulging pockets of their threadbare, oversized suits.

The patrons of this illicit business appeared to be housewives and office workers of recently liberated Brussels. Some came from the ornate arch of a weather stained cathedral only a few steps away.

Peddlers Hide Goods

Some of the peddlers hid their goods with a shawl at the approach of a United States war correspondent in uniform. There have been military police raids to suppress thefts of army supplies. The peddlers showed no apprehension, however, when three gendarmes in white helmets shouldered thru the crowd to suppress the music of some unlicensed, accordion playing beggar.

Two unmolested medicants were cripples, one without legs, and the other with the stub of an arm at his left shoulder, wearing a Belgian army uniform of World War I.

Other peddlers were bolder, offering a nickel size bar of soap for the Belgian equivalent of 60 cents, a package of cigarets, or a small can of pork sandwich meat for a dollar.

Some hawkers carried two or three pairs of shoes swung over their shoulders, and the crowd would pack tight around a prospective buyer as he tried a fit and haggled over the price in the middle of the street.

Anything for a Bargain

Sharp faced young Belgians pulled wristwatches or cameras from their pockets to show shoppers who looked as tho they might have enough francs to buy. One portly gentleman in a threadbare, black cutaway coat and baggy striped trousers bought some officers' range binoculars after testing them by looking thru the wrong end. Anything for a bargain.

A talkative merchant said that any article of an American or British uniform could be purchased in the black market. A youth called the sale of the popular communist newspaper, "Red Drapery," featuring as usual stories that Leopold III. should abdicate, and recounting the exploits of the Communists in the Belgian underground.

Brussels is a leave center, a vacation spot, for the American and British armies of occupation. Belgium, with its big port of Antwerp, is a supply depot for these armies and has performed so many services of transport and storage under reverse lend-lease that Washington, as well as Brussels, now calculates that the United States owes Belgium money for helping the American armies defeat Hitler.

YANK WHO HID 2½ YEARS ON GUAM MARRIES

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP)—Warrant Officer George R. Tweed, 43, navy radio man who evaded capture for 31 months when the Japanese held Guam, was married last night to Dolores Kramer, 29, formerly of Milwaukee, Wis.

Tweed was with the naval garrison on Guam when the Japanese attacked soon after Pearl Harbor and seized the lightly-fortified island. He was one of six men who took to the bushes rather than surrender.

Within a few weeks he was the only survivor. With the aid of native help, he eluded the Japanese until he was rescued by American forces July 19, 1944.

Tweed is now stationed here, where he is attending a navy radio school. His bride is a war department employe.

Tweed was divorced by his first wife, Mrs. Mary F. Tweed, last June 19 at Reno, Nev., on grounds of extreme cruelty.

ARMY RESTORES BREWERIES FOR GIs IN GERMANY

BY LARRY RUE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, July 8—The United States army in Europe has gone into the brewing industry in a big way. Robert G. Gadsby, assistant brewmaster of Anheuser Busch of St. Louis, who learned his trade at the Seibel Institute of Technology, Chicago, has just reorganized two famous breweries in the Bremen district. They are now geared to produce 477,000 gallons of beer yearly for our forces in this area.

Gadsby found the breweries here in excellent shape, and as our methods of brewing are similar to those of the Germans, he asserts his 3.2 per cent beer will contain the best features of both.

The malt for the beer is coming from France, while the hops are being shipped from America.

Gadsby has been making a tour of the breweries in France, Belgium, Luxemburg, and Germany. Altogether there are 54 breweries producing beer for American soldiers. He said there will be no beer for the German people: "They are forbidden to make beer, even if there is a plant we are not using."

Frantic efforts are being made in the Bremen area to keep the soldiers' minds off the sacrifices and annoyances created by the non-fraternization policy.

The Red Cross special services have been vieing with one another to keep the soldiers entertained, and now the exchange service in this area has gone every one one better and organized four GI clubs in the area, where free beer is served while the GIs are entertained by bands and professional entertainers.

A GI club is now operated on the main floor of the famous Bremen Rathaus, the oldest in Germany. A casual offers' mess is operated by a German civilian in the rathskeller below and on the second floor, where the Hanseatic senate once sat. Walter H. Heideman Jr., 5841 W. Ohio st., Chicago, opened an officers' club in impressive surroundings representing a fine example of old German architecture and furnishings.

This club seats at least 500, and every two hours the club closes for five minutes while those inside go out the back door to allow those at the front door to come in. If there is any room left, those who were in before can come back in, but again thru the front door.

FRANCE CRACKS DOWN ON BLACK MARKET RACKET

Violators to Face Jail, Heavy Fines

BY ROBERT SAGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, July 8—French black market operators received another setback today in the form of a new government ordinance published in the official journal providing prison sentences up to 20 years and fines as high as 40,000,000 francs [$800,000] for violations of food regulations.

Meanwhile, after closing a dozen or more restaurants, the police last night made a checkup on more than a hundred automobiles parked outside the Armenonville, a fashionable dining place in the Bois de Boulogne. As the result of irregularities discovered, 65 driving licenses were withdrawn and nine cars were seized.

Slaughter Penalized

The new government ordinance punishes black market offenses with prison terms of two months to 10 years, plus fines of 2,000 to 20,000,000 francs [$40 to $400,000]. Unauthorized slaughter of milch cows or the willful destruction of the means of production necessary to agriculture and the food supply is punishable by sentences of four months to 20 years and fines of 4,000 to 40,000,000 francs [$80 to $800,000]. Conviction of these offenses automatically carries both the prison term and the fine.

Overcharging Penalties

In addition, dealers selling merchandise above government fixed ceiling prices can be sentenced to two months to five years in prison or to a fine of 200 to 10,000,000 francs [$10 to $200,000]. The ordinance specifies that in the case of a fine for a price offense a suspended sentence cannot be given.

As in all French legislation the fines are provided in gold francs and must be multiplied by about 12 to obtain the equivalent in current paper francs.

BARE ELLIOTT'S USE OF FATHER'S CHECK IN DEAL

Helped Him Buy Land at a Bargain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 8—How Elliott Roosevelt employed his father to drive a shrewd bargain in Texas real estate in 1937 has been related to members of the house ways and means committee which is investigating the financial operations of the second son of the late President Roosevelt.

The house group is studying income tax returns of Elliott, now a brigadier general in the air forces, and of various persons who advanced him large loans to finance his venture in radio stations in the Lone Star state. Among the loans under scrutiny is $200,000 advanced by John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, $196,000 of which the executive charged off his tax return as a bad debt. The treasury however, disallowed the deduction.

Sought More Land

Elliott went to Texas in 1935 after he married the wealthy Ruth Googins. They purchased a ranch near Fort Worth, which Elliott named Dutch ranch.

Thirty acres adjoining the ranch were the property of Tom Owens, wealthy Texas oil man. Elliott sought to add these acres to his ranch and asked their price, Owens has acknowledged.

Owens told him he valued the land at $1,000 an acre, because the acreage had good oil prospects.

Elliott found the price too high. Some time later he again approached Owens, cautioning the oil man to secrecy. Elliott said he was seeking the additional acreage not for himself but for his father. His father, Elliott continued, desired to live in Texas on leaving the White House in 1940.

Offered F. D. R. Check

Elliott said his father had arrived at this decision on a visit to Dutch ranch. Elliott then produced a check payable to Owens for $9,000, signed by Franklin D. Roosevelt and offered it in payment for the land. Owens had valued at $30,000.

Owens said he decided to sell the land at a sacrifice in order to fulfill the reported wish of the President of the United States.

Later, Owens discovered Roosevelt not only had no intention of settling in Texas, but he also had no intention of leaving the White House in 1940 or even in 1944. Owens acknowledged that Elliott pulled a fast one with the aid of his father's check.

DDT FOG KNOCKS OUT MOSQUITOES, FLIES ON BEACH

Jones Beach, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—There were no flies or mosquitoes on Jones beach today.

The first beach test of a fog generator to kill insect pests with DDT, powerful insecticide, proved to be "100 per cent" successful.

Employes at the beach, one of the largest in the metropolitan area, said "mosquitoes were staggering within five minutes and died a few minutes later. Within half an hour all flies were dead."

A truck blanketed a four mile long beach area yesterday with a 15 foot high DDT fog. The truck today again sprayed the beach before Sunday's crowds arrived.

2 NEW CARRIERS, SUB LAUNCHED ON DELAWARE

Philadelphia, Pa., July 8 (AP)—Three mighty naval craft—the aircraft carriers Princeton and Saipan and the submarine Tusk—splashed down the ways along the Delaware river today to add their might to the American fleet.

The 27,000 ton Essex class Princeton was launched before an estimated 70,000 persons.

Assistant Navy Secretary Hensel said the Princeton, a "vengeance" replacement for the 10,000 ton converted carrier Princeton, sunk by the Japs in the battle of Leyte gulf, "will be a symbol of our national unity and of our faith." Mrs. Harold W. Dodds, wife of the president of Princeton university, smashed the champagne across the bow of the carrier.

At Camden, N. J., the 14,500 ton light carrier Saipan, first of its class, slid down the ways of the New York Shipbuilding corporation. Mrs. John W. McCormack of Boston, wife of the majority leader of the house, christened the vessel.

The Tusk was launched from the Cramp shipbuilding yard. Mrs. E. W. Mills, wife of Rear Adm. E. W. Mills, assistant chief of the bureau of ships, christened the craft.

CHICAGO OPA VOWS TO SMASH FAKE RED RATION POINTS RING

Chicago area office of price administration officials said yesterday a drive will be prosecuted to smash the gangs believed responsible for widespread distribution of counterfeit red ration points here.

The drive will be OPA's answer to charges aired here Saturday by Robert R. Ehrlich, chief investigator for the rationing currency branch of the OPA in Washington, D. C., that Chicago ranks second only to New York as the largest distribution center of fake points. Ehrlich said it was a serious threat to the rationing system.

OPA, Ehrlich said, is not seriously concerned over "peanut" deals by which the public is offered small lots of phoney points for cash. He said the operators who are after the big money dispose of large lots of points with dealers who use them to cover meat sold to buyers without points for overceiling prices. Investigation of at least 65 such Chicago dealers is now in progress.

ARMY EXPLAINS WHY PRISONERS GOT PULLMANS

Dallas, Tex., July 8 (AP)—The 8th service command public relations office said it was advised today two tourist Pullman cars in which members of an Italian prisoner of war service unit traveled from Monticello, Ark., to Omaha, Neb., would have made the trip empty if the prisoners had not been aboard.

The command said it was told by representatives of the western military bureau at Little Rock, Ark., the Pullmans were being "deadheaded" from Arkansas to the northwest for use of troops.

The 7th service command announced at Omaha last night that the Italians, en route from the Monticello prison camp to work at the Sioux ordnance depot at Sidney, Neb., were taken off the Pullmans at Omaha and continued the trip by coach.

We've Had Some Interesting Experiences, Too!

Whether you fly 'em... or make the fuel that flies 'em... you learn something!

The boys who have been filling Tojo's fleet as full of holes as an old tin can will have some interesting stories to tell when they get home.

And Phillips is going to have some interesting things to tell you (and show you) too!

Because a big part of our job the last five years has been to produce the 100-octane Aviation Fuel that has kept the big boys over Berlin and Tokio. And it hasn't always been an easy job.

In some ways it has involved almost as many trials and tribulations as a pilot goes through before he wins his wings. We've built vast new laboratories and staffed them with the wisest and most experienced scientists we could find. We've built new plants and introduced new processes. In short, we've gone "all out"—with every bit of brains and brawn we have—to give our fliers every ounce of precious 100-octane fuel that could be produced!

The result—today Phillips is one of the very biggest producers of 100-octane Aviation Fuel in the country! That's a mighty important fact—and one of which we're very proud.

And it's a significant fact, too—for every man and woman who plans to drive a car after the war. Because you can bet your bottom dollar that all the experience, all the know-how, all the scientific knowledge we've gained in becoming one of the largest producers of 100-octane gasoline—will be packed into the Phillips 66 Gasoline which powers your post-war car!

When you see the Phillips 66 Shield, remember—it stands for fuels for Victory today, and fuels for better driving tomorrow.

THIS FELLOW WILL FATTEN FACTORY INCOMES

Pork chops on the table are only part of the good a pig does for all of us. Among other things he represents cash income for a farmer—spending money of which 77 cents of each dollar can go for the things manufacturers make and sell. This is why the farm market, with an annual cash income of over twenty billion dollars, is one of the greatest immediate potential markets for anyone who has anything to sell a farmer for his home or farm.

Over two and one-half million families consult FARM JOURNAL each month for suggestions and information on purchases for farm and home. This selling influence is carried to over half a million more homes than receive any other farm magazine. Sell the farm market through its leading publication—FARM JOURNAL.

TOUR OF TEXAS RANGE EXPLODES 2 MEAT MYTHS

Ranchers Selling Cattle and Not Getting Rich

BY GAIL COMPTON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Fort Worth, Tex., July 8—A tour of the ranges and talks with cattlemen explode two popular beliefs concerning the shortage of meat:

1. Ranchers are not holding back cattle on the ranges. Most of them are liquidating their herds.

2. Cattlemen are not making fortunes out of their animals. The price of young and thin cattle, which has discouraged corn belt feeders, permits the ranchers only fair profits.

For several years the rancher has been accused of holding back his cattle to force high prices out of the corn belt feeder. Actually, ranchers are selling their animals as fast as they are produced and are culling their breeding herds heavily because even an old cow fetches a fancy price.

Most Ranges Heavily Stocked

Most ranges are heavily stocked with cattle. Thus a rancher with a large herd of beef cows must sell his calf crop to enable the cows to have enough grazing space. If the calves were kept, the rancher would have to reduce the number of his cows.

The best proof of this is the disappearance of aged steers from the range. If the calves were being held back, the range would have good numbers of two and three year old steers, but this is not the case. Packers eager for killing cattle exhausted the supply of older and bigger cattle more than a year ago. Consequently, most ranchers have only their yearly calf crop for sale.

The rancher gets approximately 12½ cents a pound for his steer calves in the fall. The calf born in the spring will weigh about 400 pounds in fall. As the ranchers explain, they cannot afford to turn down $40 or $50 for their calves, so they sell them. Office of price administration regulations and constantly changing federal regulations of beef prices make it too risky to keep calves and feed them out on the range for more age and greater weight, they said.

Charge of Riches Denied

The commonly repeated charge that the cattlemen are getting rich because of high prices is universally denied. The ranchers admit, however, that they are making a profit and many of them have a comfortable margin over their production costs. Production of a 400 pound calf in the fall costs the rancher between $30 and $35. This permits him a profit of $5 to $10 on each animal.

A combination of good weather and rising markets has enabled ranchers to make money for nine years. Profits are not immense, however, and some cattlemen are going broke.

"A rancher may show a profit for two years and then in one season a drouth can ruin him financially," A. A. Wright, manager of the National Finance Credit corporation of Texas, said today.

"General rains this last week have served to break a bad drouth in western and southwestern Texas but not before some ranchers in the area were forced to sell out their cattle or go in debt heavily to obtain feed for their herds.

"Year in and year out little money is made in the straight production of cattle. The wealthy cattle baron often spoken of usually has made his money in oil or in a rise in land values.

"Few ever made a fortune in cattle except during the very early days."

Gun Brandisher Suffers Heart Attack in Lockup

Ervin J. Kropp, 43, owner of a furnace repair company at 5528 S. Racine av., who was arrested Saturday when he drew a revolver and threatened to shoot a neighbor whose house was burning, suffered a heart attack yesterday in the Englewood police station and was taken to St. Bernard's hospital. Police said Kropp threatened L. D. Opat, 5530 S. Racine av., for maintaining a "fire hazard" when flames spread from Opat's frame house to Kropp's property.

STEAL TOURY BEACH LIFEBOAT

Stanley Leone, director of the Touhy av. beach, reported to police yesterday that a 14 foot lifeboat valued at $150 was stolen Saturday night while the lifeguards were off duty.

SUSPEND FIVE, FIRE ONE FROM COUNTY POLICE

Chief John McGinnis of the county highway police yesterday announced suspensions of one sergeant and four deputies and the discharge of another deputy.

The man discharged is Frank J. Krazyowski, attached to the Willow Springs station. McGinnis, who refused to elaborate on the announcement, said the action was taken for conduct unbecoming a county highway policeman.

Three other indefinite suspensions in the same station affected Sgt. John Cappelletti and Deputies Michael Cone and Manuel Colucci. McGinnis said the men were suspended when he and Sheriff Michael Mulcahy investigated a missing station complaint about a theft of sheep in June.

Thirty day suspensions were levied recently, McGinnis said, against Deputies Thomas Letke and Thomas Hart of the Homewood station for neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming police officers.

Sheriff Mulcahy, whose deputies are in the county highway police, has turned complete charge of the force over to Chief McGinnis.

SLUGGED, ROBBED OF $300 RING

Max Stryk, 49, a liquor dealer at 410 Washington st., Gary, was robbed of a $300 diamond ring early yesterday by two men who slugged him in the garage at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stryk, 7058 Cregier av., he told police.

GIRL, 2 MEN HELD AS BLACK MART FOOD HIJACKERS

A 21 year old girl night club entertainer and two men, one a paroled robber, were arrested yesterday and charged with looting trucks to supply black market operators with bacon, hams, and butter. Sgt. Tiomthy O'Connell of the cartage detail, who made the arrests after long investigation, said they would be turned over to federal authorities today.

Those arrested are Lucille Lazon, 21, of 927 Wilson av.; Hyman Platt, 25, of 920 Wilson av., said to be her sweetheart and already held in bond on another charge of theft from interstate shipments, and Walter Gardiner, Negro, of 6117 South Park way, paroled after serving five years of a term for armed robbery.

Two Others Seized

Sgt. O'Connell also arrested Thomas McDowell, 1411 Newberry av., Negro grocer, and George [Peanuts] Weinberg, 31, said to have been a bodyguard for William Tarsch, 24th ward gambling dictator, who was killed April 6. Both were accused of having received stolen property. Weinberg, Sgt. O'Connell said, bought 2,000 pounds of butter from the thieves and sold it to Tarsch just before the gambler was slain.

Thefts Federal Offense

Sgt. O'Connell said he had learned where some of the robberies were committed, either at trucking depots or from loaded trucks parked at warehouses. All trucks carrying interstate shipments, and cases of merchandise bear government seals and the breaking of them constitutes a federal offense.

Probably, the sergeant said, there were more instances where the loot turned out to be worthless for disposal.

SOLDIER'S WIDOW ROBBED IN SUBWAY

Mrs. Virginia Grant, 19, of Kansas City, Mo., a soldier's widow, was knocked down by a Negro in the subway station at Harrison st. yesterday and robbed of $3, a wristwatch, and a railroad ticket to Kansas City, she reported to police. She is a student at Northwestern university.

3,824 MORE JAP DEAD COUNTED IN THE PHILIPPINES

MANILA, July 9 (AP) [Monday]—An additional 3,824 Japanese dead have been counted and 386 prisoners have been taken in mopping-up operations on the Philippines, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Added to enemy casualties announced July 2, this brought Japanese losses for the entire eight month Philippines campaign to 423,236.

American casualties for the latest period were placed at 34 killed and 210 wounded.

FINDS HUSBAND HANGED

Harold Rolseth, 70, was found hanged yesterday in his home, 2033 N. Sacramento av., by his wife, Sophie, who told police he had feared he was incurably ill.

MR. TRUMAN TO BERLIN

The Big Two meeting the Big Third at Berlin, or Potsdam, will be studying a new face. Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin will greet Mr. Truman. Mr. Stalin's contacts with the bourgeois, plutocratic world may be a source of great amusement to him, and possibly of amazement. He is dealing with a supposedly dying order, strong enough to hand him the ruins of Berlin and step aside while he entered it.

Much has happened since the meeting at Yalta. The European enemy has collapsed, his leaders are dead or in custody, his people are at the mercy of their enemies, an American Vice President has taken the place of a deceased President, and Mr. Churchill has been roughed up in a general election. He may be politically unsteady on his feet.

The British electorate seemed to treat their war prime minister, once a chance was had at him, with considerably less respect than the Republicans treated Mr. Roosevelt in 1944. Mr. Stalin may be confirmed in his conviction that freedom of political opinion is the one mistake a government cannot afford to make.

Mr. Stalin must not be disparaged for his opinion of the two gentlemen who sit down with him. His training has entitled him to it. His own kampf has justified him. He has liquidated a great many men to sit where he does and he must be granted his astonishment as he looks at Mr. Truman and reflects that Mr. Truman liquidated nobody to sit down with him. Vodka and bottoms up! Let Mr. Truman be advised that good as the Missouri bottle men are, they never had enough experience for a Russian party. The thing to do is to let, or make, the interpreter drink the toasts. The Russians might think it a sign of weakness, but that would be their mistake.

The ruler of the soviets may wonder why Mr. Roosevelt substituted Mr. Truman for Mr. Wallace as Vice President. Mr. Roosevelt had sent Mr. Wallace to Siberia and China to familiarize him with the problems there presented. Mr. Wallace had taken the pains to learn Russian. He and Mr. Stalin could have ganged up on Mr. Churchill and might have done so. Mr. Churchill's political opponents at home made considerable of Mr. Wallace's century of the common man. Mr. Churchill accepts some of the theories but doesn't pretend to like any of them.

Mr. Truman going to Berlin is still in the halcyon days of politics, known as the honeymoon. His fellow countrymen good naturedly wish him well, a new man tackling a big job. The winds are hushed and the waters are calm. That's fair enough. It's one reason the Republic works. A change is taken in stride. It is not a signal for a nonacceptive opposition to rise, tear up the paving blocks, build barricades, and try to put snipers on top of the postoffice. Later Mr. Truman will meet his opponents, who will undertake to make him a part time President. He has one eye on them now as he sets about re-creating the Democratic party and selecting his own men for key positions.

Already Mr. Truman has made it apparent that he is himself and not a reflection of Mr. Roosevelt. One of the minor illustrations is found in his manner of traveling. He says where, when, and how he is going. He probably will not attempt to be Mr. Roosevelt at Berlin. If he knows that the meeting with Stalin and Churchill is a test of his talents he does not betray anxiety. He can recall that he is a Missourian and remember some of the rules of poker, not excepting the one applying to the face. He represents a nation still involved in a big war in which Mr. Churchill has not yet fully engaged himself, altho he has territorial stakes Mr. Truman's country hasn't, and in which Mr. Stalin is not engaged at all, altho he also has interests along the same line.

Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin are not yet out of the receptive mood. They still want things. They need to meet a tough bargainer with a thin smile and a glass eye. The two gentlemen have been accustomed to getting just about what they wanted, if not from each other, then from the United States. They could be reminded in good faith that the time has come to give. Gratitude should take the form not of a lively sense of favors to come but of obligations to be met. Japan is still a hard customer who must be convinced that he is in a losing transaction.

Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin are natural enemies. Mr. Roosevelt was a peacemaker and an opportunist. Mr. Truman need not be so solicitous. Mr. Stalin might mistake it as weakness.

Certainly everybody in this country hopes that Mr. Truman qualifies for the work before him. We'd all like to have him come home with the appropriate smile on his face—and not inside the other fellow.

SHIP REPAIRS

John Thompson has written an illuminating series of articles from west coast shipyards on the navy's acute need for skilled workers to repair damaged warships. The yards are crowded with ships battered by Jap suicide planes or recalled for long deferred overhauls. All new construction has been halted for months and workers shifted to the job of repair. At present the navy needs 16,000 skilled workers in the yards around San Francisco, Seattle, and Bremerton.

The workers most urgently needed are electricians. Inside and outside machinists, sheet metal workers, coppersmiths, and boilermakers are also in demand. For some time the 9th naval district, centering in Chicago, has provided 60 per cent of the workers recruited by the navy for the west coast. By spreading recruiting over a large area and a number of cities, the navy hopes to avoid serious depletion of the skilled labor supply in any particular sector. If skilled men can't be had, the navy will train new workers.

The navy pays traveling expenses to the coast, guarantees a dwelling, pays on a scale comparing with that of private shipping interests, and offers 26 days' annual leave and 15 days' sick leave. The employment will be steady for at least a year after the end of the war with Japan and some estimates are that fleet repairs and overhauls will continue for from five to 10 years after the war.

Certainly this work should command top priority, for the war against Japan cannot be carried to a speedy and successful conclusion unless the fleet is at maximum strength and efficiency. It is a matter for regret that the war man power commission has failed so dismally in handling the nation's labor force that the west coast navy yards should be begging for workers. It is also regrettable that many skilled workers from the Chicago area whose patriotism may lead them to go to the coast should be taken out of our labor pool just when the process of reconverting to civilian production is getting under way and their services are badly needed here.

The exigencies of war, however, are paramount. We hope that Chicago and the middle west help the navy out. We also hope that when the job on the coast is mastered our skilled workers will return here to continue building up the industrial empire surrounding Chicago. We also suggest that within its own ranks the navy ought to be able to find thousands of men with skills which suit them for work in the navy yards, and that it assign as many of them as possible to its emergency repair job in order not to strip Chicago and middle western plants of some of their most valuable workers.

SECRETARY VINSON

Fred Vinson, who is soon to succeed Henry Morgenthau as secretary of the treasury, was such a favorite of President Roosevelt that within the last two years of his life he made it possible for Mr. Vinson to be successively a high federal judge, director of economic stabilization, successor to Jesse Jones as head of the federal loan administration, and, finally, the successor of Jimmie Byrnes as "assistant president" or head of the office of war mobilization. Upon replacing Mr. Jones, Mr. Vinson said, "This is not a change of administration. It is still the Roosevelt administration." With one so much approved by the late President succeeding Mr. Morgenthau at the treasury, it would appear that "it is still the Roosevelt administration."

Whether that remains true only the future can tell. Certainly in congress Fred Vinson was a valuable servant of the New Deal. More than any other congressman he was responsible for getting thru the house the objectionable tax laws of the early part of the Roosevelt regime. Later, as administrator of OES, he took a leading part in the unsuccessful effort of the New Deal to get a more stringent "soak the rich" bill adopted, which would have limited incomes to $25,000. In his official capacity as economic stabilizer, he was allergic to profits, and declined to permit the increase in the price of crude oil which Oil Administrator Harold Ickes had insisted was essential to get adequate production for war purposes.

What is more discouraging about Mr. Vinson is that since the death of President Roosevelt he has been left of center on at least one occasion. In a letter to Sen. Wagner in June, Mr. Vinson indorsed the Murray "full employment" bill. That measure would authorize the use of inflationary means to create jobs whenever unemployment should appear. The plan calls for an annual estimate of the size of the deficit necessary to assure full employment, and spending in an amount to reach that deficit.

Altho President Roosevelt deliberately used an unbalanced budget, he never carried spending to the limits provided in the Vinson indorsed Murray plan. The newly designated head of our treasury was no doubt led to make this statement by his principal adviser in the OWM, Robert Nathan, a radical New Dealer and advocate of government spending.

All this is disquieting about the new appointment. However, there are some hopeful signs, too. In his OWM report on July 1, Mr. Vinson made as fine a statement of the case for tax reform as has been made. He called for the repeal of the excess profits tax right after V-J day, and for "the levying of taxes in such a way that they have the least harmful effect on the expansion of business investment and the creation of jobs, because productive employment is the source of our standard of living, of all income, and of the revenue which the government collects from taxes."

The new secretary of the treasury at the same time urged "an early adoption of a post-war tax program and specifically indorsed the recommendations made in the Baruch-Hancock report to Mr. Byrnes in 1943. He argued that "the sooner uncertainties in the post-war tax structure are removed the sooner business management will be inclined to make firm commitments for expansions and the faster men can be put to work following the wholesale cancellation of contracts that will occur with the unconditional surrender of Japan."

This is such an improvement over Secretary Morgenthau, who liked to throw cold water on all talk of tax relief, that there is almost reason for exultation. The earlier statements of the secretary designate, and the philosophy of some of his advisers suggest, caution. We are hopeful, however, that Mr. Vinson will be a great secretary of the treasury, and he will be if he proceeds along the lines of his most recent public statement.

A 17 year old Newark schoolboy claims to have signed a contract with the Boston Red Sox that will net him $15,000 to $20,000. And in another year the army can get him for $50 a month.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE WALTZING CONGRESS

The preparations for a meeting of allied statesmen among the ruins of Berlin cause this column's memory to stir with vague echoes of the powwows that followed the downfall of Europe's greatest trouble maker before Hitler—Napoleon, of course, then sarcastically called "the Corsican." Aspirants to a career in the diplomatic service have to answer tricky questions about this subject, and we fear that we could never pass the examination because the treaties and conferences were numerous. We have decided to concentrate upon the Congress of Vienna, the biggest and best, also the gayest.

Between Napoleon's first exit to Elba and second to St. Helena, the allied powers—Austria, Prussia, Russia, and England—discussed the restoration of Europe for eight months in Vienna. The assembly was large, brilliant, and much given to the comforts of feminine society. Diplomatic rivalries were softened by dance music. The aristocracies of Europe were then deep in the ecstasy of flirtations in three-four time, and Vienna was the fountainhead of the musical fashion. So this carnival of statecraft, which did a great deal of important work, came to be called "the waltzing congress."

Lord Byron's satirical verses, "The Waltz," written three years before, anticipated the gayeties of the meetings with such lines as these:

Hail, nimble nymph, to whom the young hussar,
The whiskered votary of waltz and war,
His night devotes, despite of spur and boots:
A sight unmatched since Orpheus and his brutes.

Russia was represented by Alexander I., England by Castlereagh and Wellington, Prussia by Von Hardenburg, France by Talleyrand, and Austria by Metternich, the smoothest of them all and probably the best waltzer. The tunes to which they danced were the immediate forerunners of the Lanner and Strauss I. repertory, for those two waltz kings were then grubby, juvenile street musicians. Perhaps "Ach, du Lieber Augustin" gave the statesmen a yearning to shake their stately legs.

While this congress was in session Napoleon broke loose again. Nine days after the charter was signed [June 9, 1815], its decisions were confirmed by his defeat at Waterloo.

RETURN OF THE CITIES

Cities come limping back like wounded men;
London awakens, listening to Big Ben;
Paris rejoices in returning light;
Moscow resounds with salvos of Red might;
Vienna smiles, relieved of pressing dread;
And all the siren towns of Italy
Will soon resume their songs beside the sea;
Because Berlin, grown fat on others' bread
And frothing at the mouth, lies, finally, dead.

To spread across your crib in brave array,
A tiny afghan, knit of pink and blue—
You'll understand the color scheme some day!
It's warm, and may amuse you when you're bored
With friends and relatives who come to coo;
The pattern has attractions unexplored
That may reward a passing glance or two.
It isn't much, we should apologise
For it and this poor world—you see, a war

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions by service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

G. B. asks: "If a man was inducted into service in 1940 and subsequently killed in action, doesn't the government automatically pay $5,000 insurance to his family?"

Any person in service Oct. 8, 1940, who died of disease or injury incurred in line of duty before the expiration of 120 days after Dec. 20, 1941, without having in force at time of death government insurance for at least $5,000 shall be deemed to have applied for and to have been granted insurance in the sum of $5,000. Payment on this insurance is limited to the widow if living and while unremarried; if no widow, to the child or children in equal shares, or, if none of these, to the dependent mother or father in equal shares.

O. G. asks: "If an alien is drafted into the service does he automatically become a citizen of the United States?"

Not unless application is made. If application is made, the United States waives the declaration of intention, period of residence in the United States or any state, ability to speak English, ability to sign his name in his own handwriting, all educational tests, and all fees. Such application may be filed in any court having naturalization jurisdiction, regardless of the applicant's place of residence. The applicant's service must be honorable, and he must have affidavits of two credible citizens who know him to be of good moral character and well disposed to the good order of the United States.

A COME-AND-GO DISORDER —MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS

BACK in 1868, in the Charcot household, one of the maids suffered from a peculiar illness involving eye derangements, trembling of the hands, and speech disturbances.

The girl's physician-employer gave us the first description of this strange disease of the nervous system—multiple sclerosis. We now realize that the condition is far from rare.

Ordinarily it is found in those between the ages of 15 and 30 and the weaker sex is more susceptible. The cause is unknown. It is probably not due to a vitamin deficiency and no particular organism has been found guilty. The most recent theory is that it is related to an abnormality in the clotting mechanism of the blood. Injury, overexertion, infections of various kinds, poisoning from drugs or other substances, and pregnancy hasten its development.

As the name implies, there are numerous sclerotic or hardened areas scattered thruout the brain and spinal cord. Presumably certain blood vessels have become plugged and the tissues in that region die off for want of nourishment. Some patients exhibit only one or two scars; in others there is widespread involvement. They do not appear all at once. In consequence manifestations disappear when healing ensues but return as new lesions come into existence.

Symptoms depend upon their number and location. Discomfort may develop almost overnight, last for only a short interval, but recur subsequently. This bizarre picture is one of the most suggestive features of the ailment.

Weakness or numbness of one leg may make the sufferer limp or drag the foot. Marked tremor of the hands or head is characteristic. Eye defects such as nystagmus [flickering of the eyeballs], double vision, or even temporary blindness are observed. The speech is often referred to as "scanning." Words are pronounced slowly and separately and individual syllables are accentuated. Psychic changes may occur in the severe forms or extremely late stages. Eventually walking may become so difficult that the patient becomes bedridden.

Treatment is unsatisfactory but by avoiding fatigue, both mental and physical, recurrences can be minimized. Every attempt should be made to ward off infections, in the nose and throat especially. When possible a warm, dry climate may be sought with this purpose in mind.

Staggering can be lessened by leaning habitually toward the normal side. Muscle tone is often improved by massage and hot baths. Thru reeducation the use of the hands and feet may be encouraged. Bladder distress, which is a frequent accompaniment, may need attention. Special lenses have been devised for those with disabling eye symptoms. Altho the motorized wheel chair is probably not available at this time, it boosts the morale in those who are unable to walk.

Assuming that the blood clots in the tiny vessels in and about the nervous system, there is a possibility that a drug which prevents too rapid coagulation will be helpful. At the present time physicians are employing fibrolysin, neoarsphenamine, vitamin B, and fever therapy. During the periods of remission the victim can carry on fairly well.

OVERSECRETION

T. C. P. writes: My vision is perfect, yet in the corner of each eye, yellow material collects. Can you tell me what this means?

REPLY

This substance comes from the Meibomian glands and is not harmful nor irritating. In some instances, as with secreting structures elsewhere—the output may be excessive.

DWINDLING

H. G. writes: What makes old people shrink? My dad used to be quite tall but is now short.

REPLY

With age, the spine has a tendency to bend forward, especially in the region below the neck. This may reduce the height measurably.

FLYING AND GIDDINESS

Mrs. X. writes: Would flying cure vertigo?

REPLY

I have no information on this but I doubt if the more common causes of dizziness would be benefited. If anything, those of ear, heart, or blood pressure origin would be aggravated.

Test Your Facts

Below each of the following questions are listed three answers. Make your choice, see the correct answers below, and mark your score:

1. In order to fly in the real stratosphere you must reach an altitude of from [a] 9 to 30 miles up. [b] 15 to 60 miles up. [c] 5 to 9 miles up.

2. Who cautions us to "Neither a borrower nor a lender be——"? [a] Aesop. [b] The Bible. [c] Shakespeare.

3. According to Webster the correct word for sitting in one corner diagonally from another corner is [a] Kitty corner. [b] Cata corner. [c] Cater corner.

4. How many colors are in the Bolivian flag? [a] Three. [b] Two. [c] Four.

ANSWERS

1. [a] 9 to 30 miles up. 2. [c] Shakespeare [Polonius to Laertes in "Hamlet"]. 3. [c] Cater corner. 4. [a] Three [green, yellow, red].

Twenty Seconds to Live

We dropped in the other day on the man who, as much as any one, is responsible for what he frankly calls those squirrelly radio commercials. In the radio world they are known as irritators because they are supposed to irritate the listener so violently that he remembers them. In good English, or almost good English, they are called spot announcements. They are the brief phrases, yelled, whined, or sung, that make you mutter furiously as they get in the way as you try to get the news or as they surge, infuriatingly, thru your head the rest of the day. In short, the "O, Mo-r-r-r-r-rtimer!"s and the "Got it? Get it!"s of the air.

You probably don't know it, but Chicago is responsible for this attack on the battered listener, for spot announcements originated here in 1936 or 1937, and one of the first men to fool around with them successfully was I. J. Wagner, known around town as Wag and to his intimates as Waggie. We found Waggie mumbling at his desk in the Pure Oil building, a portable radio in front of him, an ancient typewriter beside him, and a dictionary behind him. He was about to catch a train for New York to sit down in a huddle of singing commercials, and he was mouthing them as the minutes flew. Didn't blush a bit as he admitted his handiwork.

Waggie doesn't like to think of himself as an irritator. He says his goal is "pleasant irritation." Pleasant or not, he says the public loves it. The sophisticates pretend they don't but they really do. Why, he says, the public even writes in for recordings of the singing commercials, and what more could any sponsor want? The thing that hurts most is when he has to take reproach from his own family, as was the case recently when his son, dialing for a favorite program, yelled, grumpily, "There goes that guy again!" "You want to eat, don't you?" Waggie reprimanded him. "Yeah," the boy said, "but you can write better stuff than that."

How they started is almost simple. Radio stations here found that of the 30 seconds allotted for identification, only 10 were needed to identify the station. This left 20 to spare, so they began to sell the lull to local advertisers. The networks picked up the idea so fast that soon spot commercials were in control of the air. Even Waggie admits that "too much of even such a good thing as spot announcements can be too much."

His own entrance into the field was made easier by the fact that he previously had written gags for Ben Bernie. Before that he had been a professional piano player, first in the silent movies, whooping it up as the villain was tossed over the cliff, and later in orchestras. He has turned out so many spots he can't remember them, but, altho perhaps we should protect him and not mention it, he alone is responsible for that "Got it? Get it!" about beer. A school teacher once protested nastily about its use, writing that she had just explained an arithmetic problem on the blackboard and turned to the class with her customary sweet, "Got it?" when the class with one voice shouted back, "Get it!" He also made the public conscious of the meal it had just swallowed with his stomach pill slogan, "The one word suggestion for acid indigestion."

Not to give away too many secrets of the trade, his theory is this: "You have only 15 or 20 seconds to live, so if you use a mild line or a strictly commercial one, you're thru. You don't register. The thing goes by so fast that no one remembers what you said. There must always be a gimmick. A hook. Something people can repeat."

Waggie's first experience with audible slogans taught him not to high tone the public. This was during his youth when he had a vacation job carrying a box of clothing labels thru the cutting room of a garment factory, crying: "Who's got a label lot?" One day he had a pang of grammatical conscience and yelled, "Who has a label lot?" The workers shouted him down. How well he learned his lesson is exemplified neatly in his prize irritator, "Whiz! Best nickel candy there izzzzs!"

NEXT IN LINE FOR PRESIDENT

Chicago, July 2—This morning's editorial, "Tenure and Succession," discussing the President's recommendation that the speaker of the house be substituted for the secretary of state in the law of the Presidential succession, ignores obvious constitutional obstacles, as well as the history of the speakership itself.

When a congress dies there is no speaker until the new house is organized and a speaker elected. To cite but one instance: Following the election of President Zachary Taylor the new congress was deadlocked over the election of a speaker—indeed, so bitter was the contest that the very existence of the congress as an institution of the government was seriously imperiled. For three weeks the fight raged. Can one conceive of a more disastrous crisis if, in addition to the speakership, the Presidency itself had depended upon the election of a speaker?

Few congresses had a fuller legislative calendar than that of 1849-'50, of which Howell Cobb finally emerged as speaker. California was seeking admission as a free state, but there was no slave state ready to offset California under the Missouri Compromise. Slave interests were accordingly compensated by the enactment of the ill-fated Fugitive Slave law. On reading that law, even the mild mannered Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote in his diary, "This filthy enactment was made in the 19th century by people who could read and write. I will not obey it, by God."

Seldom have the institutions of the Presidency and of the congress worked together so efficiently and so understandingly as in the decade of the 1850s; but the speaker of the house of the congress that opened that decade, able, honest, foremost of southern Union Democrats, was, sad to relate, at the end of the same decade, the president of the convention that drafted the constitution of the Confederacy!

LEWIS E. MYERS

THE LITTLE GRAY CELLS

New Castle, Ind., June 29—Your editorial, "Hitler's Conquest," perked me up no end. For I have long followed with interest and profit the remarks of President Hutchins as reported in the press. He is, it seems to me, one of the few university executives who is in the great American tradition. How well I remember reading, as a lad, many a wise word from Harper of Chicago, Eliot of Harvard, Hadley of Yale, Wilson of Princeton, and doubtless others. Ah, those delightful old dark ages when a brain cell was thought to be of more importance than an agile foot or a mammoth hand that can span a football.

HENRY HAMMER

SOUND ECONOMY FOR EXPORT

AUSTRIA, June 21—I find, after reading an article released in Washington, that we owe Belgium $526,334,000. Our lend-lease amounted to $141,166,000, while their reverse lend-lease is placed at $667,500,000. It surely was kind of the Belgians to let us liberate them. The foreign economic administration must be well named. It's in favor of a sound economic system abroad.

SGT. LOWEN

THE ARMY HIERARCHY

An Army Post in Michigan, June 24—Appreciation is expressed for the excellent editorial today entitled "The Army's Releases and Inductions." You point out as a basic fault the fact that there are 800,000 officers, over 2,000 of whom are generals, with the number of each on the increase. The men of high rank want to maintain a military empire for their control. Surely this fault of maintaining overmanned departments that waste men's lives is not the fault of officers as such. The fault lies at the top, and in the fear beneath of censure for expressing opinions about it.

Junior officers become the charges of the empire builders, and in too many instances find themselves in work which they themselves feel not to justify their maintenance. They have dope wel and obtained limited promotions for themselves, not enough often to be fair or to inspire them. Men at the top pulled strings at the beginning to get their rank. Officers of lesser rank came from the bottom and worked their way up, altho they frequently have more ability by actual test than those who used the service from the beginning to better themselves. They are as justifiably interested in release as are enlisted men, and should not be penalized as by the present rules simply because they have served well.

CAPTAIN

OPA HITS THE RESTAURANTS

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 30—The latest OPA promise of a 5 per cent increase in meat, to be provided by reducing the supplies to restaurants and lunch counters by 20 per cent, will force many public eating places to close up permanently or intermittently. It will also mean that those who patronize restaurants will find them more overcrowded than ever, and the patrons will get 20 per cent less meat. This can be expected to force many persons to carry their lunches when they are already short of points. It doesn't make sense.

"YOU SAY IT'S COOLER SLEEPING ON A HAIR-FILLED MATTRESS?"

YES! That's why you get refreshing sleep on a SEALY TURNABOUT

the mattress that's hair-filled on one side for cool summer sleeping, cotton-filled on the other for winter nights!

Yes! There's a special Sealy mattress for summer sleeping! Turnabout—a smoothly balanced, buoyant mattress filled on one side with resilient hair that never packs, so air can circulate freely through it. What's more, this mattress is filled on the other side with fluffy, vitalized cotton . . . just turn it over for winter sleeping! You'll want to see the Turnabout. Like all of our Sealy mattresses, it's a real help toward sound sleeping, the kind that results in steady nerves and bright eyes!

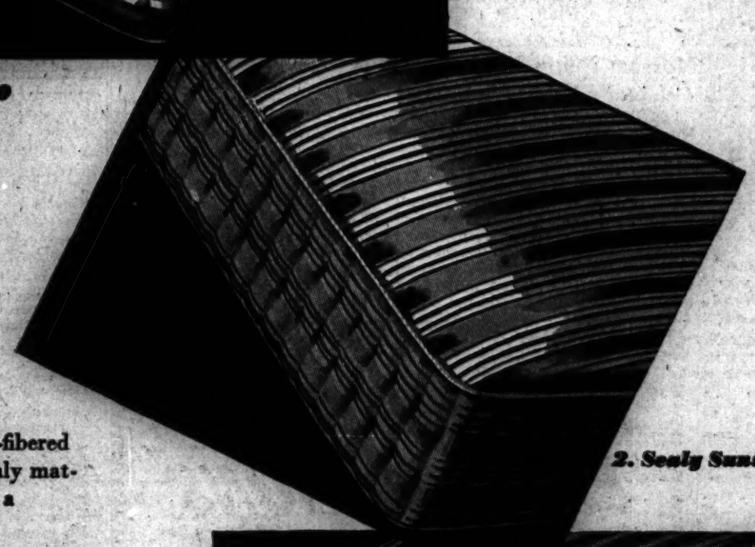
Other Sealy Cotton-filled Mattresses $39.50 and $49.50

1. Sealy Turnabout, $59.50



2. Sealy Sunspun, $49.50

HERE'S WHY YOUR SEALY SLEEP IS SO REFRESHING

only staple cotton . . . long-fibered Texas cotton is used in all Sealy mattresses. Each sturdy fiber has a resilience that lasts.

blown like snow . . . this wonderful, lively cotton is blown—at high speed—like snow into a huge form.

woven by air . . . after the cotton is blown into the form, air pressure tosses and tumbles it. Finally it's lightly but securely woven together.

renewed by sunshine . . . from time to time, just by exposing a Sealy Mattress to sunlight for a day, it will puff up like new—all because of the lively, long-fibered cotton that's in it.

tuftless for more comfort . . . these Sealy mattresses are tuftless for added sleeping comfort. No buttons to catch you. No sagging . . . no lumping.

2. Sealy Staple, $39.50

1. Sealy Turnabout, one side hair-filled for cool summer sleeping; one side cotton-filled for warm winter sleeping. Gray and tan ticking, $59.50. Matching box spring, $49.50

2. Sealy Sunspun, lively cotton . . . special prebuilt, hand-sewn border that won't break down. Smart, sturdy blue and cream ticking. $49.50. Matching box spring, $49.50

3. Sealy mattress, lively cotton . . . durable, hand-sewn border. Tuftless or tufted style. Stout cream and tan ticking, $39.50. Matching hand-tied coil box spring, $39.50

An amount will be added to quoted prices of all our merchandise to cover additional expense due to the Illinois Retailers' Occupation Tax.

A. L. BOWEN DIES AT 75; FORMER WELFARE CHIEF

A. L. Bowen, former director of the state department of public welfare and nationally known as a charities administrator, died yesterday in Elgin. He was 75.

A. L. Bowen

After long service to the state, Bowen was removed as welfare director in 1940 by Gov. John Stelle soon after he took the office following the death of Gov. Horner. Bowen was then under conviction on charges of omission of duty arising from an epidemic of typhoid at the Manteno state hospital. His appeal was pending when Stelle ordered him from office. The following April the Supreme court reversed the conviction.

First Head of State Charities

Bowen entered state service in 1909 as executive secretary of the state charities commission, winning the post in a competitive examination. He served under Gov. Deneen and Gov. Dunne and when Gov. Lowden took office he reorganized the state penal and charitable institutions and served as the first superintendent of charities, from 1917 to 1921.

He left the office in 1921 to join the editorial staff of the Illinois State Journal, in Springfield, and in 1927 was made editor of the paper. Gov. Emmerson appointed him in charge of state institutions in 1929 and he remained in the post until he was dismissed by Stelle.

Started as Newspaper Man

Bowen was born in Bloomington, Ill., was graduated from Illinois Wesleyan university and began newspaper work in Bloomington.

He is survived by a son, Maj. Robert, a flight surgeon stationed in California, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary Stephenson of Springfield.

REPORT PALEY OFFER FOR RADIO IN LUXEMBURG

LONDON, July 9 [Monday] [Reuters]—An offer of $4,000,000 a year is reported to have been made by the Columbia broadcasting system for the right to exploit Luxemburg radio, Philip Jordan London Daily Mail correspondent in Europe reported today.

Jordan understands that William Paley, head of Columbia, recently took time off from his duties as chief of the psychological warfare radio unit to negotiate with the Luxemburg government.

If the deal is made it will mean that commercial programs, sponsored by British advertisers may soon be heard in Britain again, competing—as far as entertainment is concerned—with the British Broadcasting corporation's present monopoly." Luxemburg station's time formerly was the nominal property of a French company who purchased it for resale, but this company no longer exists.

Moscow Radio Protests Laval's Luxury in Spain

LONDON, July 8 [Reuters]—Moscow radio today commented on what it called the life of "outrageous luxury" afforded to Pierre Laval, former Vichy premier, in Spain. "This is a slap in the face of democratic and suffering humanity," it said. "According to some reports, the prisoner Laval wallows in luxury, and demands flowers and wine from the Ritz hotel in Barcelona."

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

July 8, 1945.

DEFINITE benefits from the applications of weed killing sprays are being noticed now in the two acre oat field sprayed 10 days ago.

Two chemical formulas were applied in separate areas of the field. Dow selective weed killer G-506, made by a chemical manufacturer in Midland, Mich., killed Canada thistle, wild mustard, dandelions, velvet weed, and curled dock. This same spray temporarily halted the growth of ragweed, but did not kill the plants. New leaves are growing from the terminals of the injured ragweeds.

Field Sinox, sprayed over the east section of the same field, killed weeds as effectively as the Dow mixture. Some oats were damaged in both sections, probably because of a faulty method of application.

Carry Spray on Tractor

A light tractor and wagon were used for transporting the 100 gallon spray outfit thru the field. The chemicals drained into depressions made by the tractor wheels, and the extra spray in these channels, combined with the crushing effect of the vehicles, damaged some of the oats. The grain crop was not damaged in one corner of the field which was sprayed by hand implements.

The farm workers were especially glad to find that the chemicals will kill both Canada thistles and wild mustard. If they never have reason to spray entire fields of weed infested hay and grain, they at least know the effectiveness of using chemicals for spraying weed patches in fields, fence corners, and roadsides.

The most recent spray test on the farm was on poison ivy and bindweed. The 2-4D chemical [Weedone] was sprayed on bindweed growing over a wire fence on Maramy road and also on a poison ivy plant covering the bark of an oak tree in the south woodlot.

Farm Lawn Sprayed

Two more 100 square foot sections of the farm lawn were also sprayed this week with 2-4D. This chemical has successfully killed dandelions, plantain, and other spring lawn weeds, but an additional test spraying was made to determine the effect of this chemical on crab grass.

This weed is beginning to germinate now, and is a troublesome midsummer and late summer pest on thousands of blue grass lawns. It is doubtful that 2-4D will kill crab grass, because this is a narrow leaved weed.

The two final sprays of lawn Sinox will be applied to the same area which already has received six weekly sprays of this material. The makers of Sinox claim that it does destroy crab grass.

Three Chinese to Study Truck Industry in City

Three Chinese engineers will study motor transportation in Chicago under an arrangement announced yesterday by the American Trucking Associations, Inc. They are among 18 engineers in a party of 600 Chinese sent to the United States for a year of special training to enable them to organize modern trucking systems in China. Chen Pai-tung and Tom Chan-whing were assigned to the Keeshin Freight Lines, 221 W. Roosevelt rd., and Mei Chae-yen was sent to the Decatur Cartage company, 20th st. and Wentworth av.

PURSE AND $150 LOST

Mrs. John Hession of 623 W. 79th st., reported to police that she lost her purse, containing $150 in cash and some papers, yesterday in the vicinity of 79th st. and Lowe av.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS who planted cabbage and broccoli seed in the open row this spring now have the chore of discarding or transplanting extra seedlings. Plants should stand from 18 to 24 inches apart in the row.

Transplanting any kind of vegetable involves more plant shock at this time of the year than in the spring. For this reason, it is advisable to use a trowel and move as much soil as possible with the roots.

The period after sundown is the best time to transplant. After placing the seedlings in their new location, they should be thoroly watered, then loose soil should be raked over the moistened soil to prevent packing.

On warm, bright days the transplants may need additional protection from the sun from 9 a. m. until late afternoon. Three thicknesses of newspaper may be placed over the plants during these hours and held in place by stones or clods. After three or four days, when the plants are well established, this practice can be stopped.

WOMEN TO FACE TRIAL IN ESCAPE OF ITALIAN PWS

Portland, Ore., July 8 (AP)—Two married women facing trial on charges of aiding escape of Italian prisoners of war insisted today language difficulties prevented their persuading the men they say they love to return to a Seattle, Wash., prisoner of war camp.

Blonde Fae Burns, 19, mother of two children and wife of an army sergeant in the Pacific, said "we never considered them enemy prisoners."

United States Marshal Jack Caufield, who brought the two women here from Vale, Ore., said Mrs. Leonora Hodgson, 26, asserted they tried to persuade the three Italians to return to the barracks, but "they did not seem to understand."

The women said they plan to marry two of the Italians.

Special FBI agent Joseph Thornton said the women are accused of supplying the men blankets and food while they hid in the woods near Seattle. He said the Italians failed to report June 21. All five were arrested June 30.

GAMBLING OPENS UP; QUESTION IS, WHO GAVE O. K.?

Crime Commission Asks About 'Boys at Top'

BY JAMES DOHERTY

The Chicago crime commission wants to know what is back of the reopening of gambling in Chicago and if Police Commissioner Allman's hands are tied.

The commission on Saturday made public a letter sent by its operating director, Virgil W. Peterson, to Walter L. Gregory, chairman of the city civil service commission, and Gregory's reply. Peterson said gambling had "opened up considerably" and asked about proceeding against police officials for neglect of duty; Gregory said the crime commission might initiate proceedings against any captains without reference to Commissioner Allman.

"We don't know what's back of this reopening of gambling," said Guy E. Reed, a banker and president of the crime commission. "We want to know about the boys at the top. Usually the gambling joints don't open up without word from some one.

Whose Hands Are Tied?

"We don't know if there is any pressure put on Commissioner Allman. I respect his ability. If he has a free hand he does a good job. If his hands are tied, we want to know it. Also, we want to know if our hands are tied."

Reed said he called on State's Atty. Tuohy last week and gave him a list of gambling resorts found open. He said he gave the same list to Commissioner Allman. They were day time and night time gambling houses, he said, policy joints and handbooks, and it was evident others were preparing to open on a big scale.

"Really, it isn't gambling, because the poor sucker hasn't a chance to win," Reed said.

"They talk about licensing such places. If they do, the city ought to run them and perhaps save the citizens some tax money. I don't see why hoodlums and politicians should get the benefit of gambling, licensed or not."

Police Can't Find Gambling

He was asked if either the state's attorney or police commissioner had done anything about the places he listed as gambling houses.

"I don't know," he replied. "Of course, there is always raiding going on. It is usual, however, for the police to report they couldn't find gambling in operation at the place listed. It's strange that our investigators can find such places and the police captains and their men can't."

Tuohy said Reed had discussed the gambling situation with him and had given him the list of "open" gambling houses. Tuohy said he understood Reed had no complaint against Allman, so the checking of the list was left to Allman. It has been Tuohy's policy since his election to leave enforcement of all laws, including those against gambling, with the city police, inasmuch as he is a protege of Mayor Kelly.

Tuohy said he had not discussed with Municipal Judge Charles S. Dougherty the procedure of Wabash av. police district detectives in making illegal arrests of Negro gamblers. Judge Dougherty has refused to hear any more such cases.

Insists Upon Warrants

"Unless the police get search warrants there is no sense in their making arrests of policy gamblers," Judge Dougherty explained. "I am not going to permit them to make a record of some kind at the expense of our court."

The arrests without warrants were termed "phony" by crime commission aids. If Commissioner Allman and his subordinates want to stop policy gambling they can do it, the commission aids said, because it has been done before.

It was recalled that the Negro policy ring—which numbers 30 to 40 top beneficiaries, who split up millions, and two or three thousand employes, for years had a strangle hold on the politics of the district. It was so when the late Anton J. Cermak was elected mayor in 1931. At that time the great majority of the Negroes were Republicans, and Cermak was a Democrat.

Turned into Democrats

Cermak sent Capt. John Stege, one of Chicago's best police officials, to the Wabash avenue station. It was remembered, and Stege arrested 200 or 300 Negroes a day, crowding them 30 or 40 to a cell meant to accommodate six or eight at the most.

Stege told the story himself, later, it was reported, saying the more complaints made against him to Mayor Cermak the more Cermak complimented him. When the Negro policy leaders were ready to turn Democratic, and so advised Cermak, Stege was transferred, and no more arrests were made.

Since then the policy racketeers have been Democrats.

12 POUND BABY IS BORN TO 125 POUND MOTHER

Richard Matthew Majerus created a sensation in medical and maternity ward circles when he was born last week in St. Anne's hospital. Weighing in at 12 pounds, not-so-little Richard is having a future in pugilism predicted for him. Mrs. Majerus' attending physician said the baby is the size of a normal infant three months old. The blue eyed boy's older sister, Patricia Ann, weighed a trifling nine pounds and two ounces at birth.

The father, Matthew, a war worker, is tall and husky but Mrs. Majerus is a slight 125 pounds and wears size 14 clothing. The family lives at 3339 N. Lamon av.

Attendants at other Chicago hospitals reported that a baby weighing 12 pounds at birth is unusual in modern annals and that their records have listed no such strapping newborn infants in some time.

MILITIA GIVES COL. DAVIDSON SURPRISE PARTY

Eight hundred members of the 2d regiment infantry, Illinois reserve militia, executed maneuvers and riot formations yesterday in Grant park at a surprise birthday party for Col. Lawrence J. Davidson, commanding officer. It was Col. Davidson's 50th birthday and his second anniversary as commander of the regiment.

Col. Davidson's birthday present from the regiment was a class of 100 recruits. All of the recruits were signed up in the last few days in a special drive.

Col. Davidson was congratulated by Lt. Col. Edward Clamage, executive officer of the regiment, who was officer of the day. Among the guests were Col. Clifton E. Jones, commanding officer of the 8th infantry, and Col. Frank H. Bermier, commanding officer of the 1st regiment.

Is there a new discovery that bans rust from steel?

OF COURSE the protection of steel against rust is not new. But a discovery that bans rust from steel—years longer than ever before possible—that is news indeed!

Yes, there is such a discovery. It is CORRONIZING, a phenomenal new alloy "armor" for steel that may soon bring you washing machines, automobiles, water heaters, tools, dozens of steel products with up to 4 times longer life than any you've ever owned!

The reason? CORRONIZING can defy every possible source of corrosion and outlast any other rust-protective coating known to man! This has been proved by hundreds of scientific tests and actual use in the war, in every kind of climate.

Soon America's more progressive manufacturers and retailers will be able to bring you products with the sensational advantages of "Corronized" steel. Motor car makers—always in the forefront of progress—may be among the first to bring you CORRONIZING, in the new model cars.

Rust robs Americans of a billion dollars annually. Thanks to CORRONIZING, you will be able to foil the robber rust... get up to 4 times the service for your money in the wonderful new products made of steel.

In the absence of meat serve hearty vegetable dishes which include cheese or eggs. A small amount of either of these protein rich foods will help achieve nutritional balance in menus.

Vegetable Casserole
[Serves six]

1 cup peas
4 small onions, sliced
3 medium carrots, cut lengthwise
4 medium potatoes, halved
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
¼ pound mild cheese

Cook vegetables separately in boiling salted water. Drain and save ¾ cup liquid. Melt margarine in saucepan over low heat and stir in flour and salt. Gradually add combined milk and vegetable liquid. Cook, stirrring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add cheese and stir until melted. Arrange vegetables in greased casserole, cover with hot sauce, and bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes, or until top of mixture is delicately browned.

Spinach Ring with Creamed Eggs and Tomato Slices
[Serves six]

1½ cups cooked spinich
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
½ cup milk
2 eggs, separated
Salt, pepper
Tomato slices for garnish

Creamed Filling

2 cups medium white sauce, well seasoned
½ cup cooked mushrooms
5 eggs, hard-cooked

Melt margarine in saucepan over low heat and stir in flour. Add milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add slowly to beaten egg yolks, then add chopped spinach and seasonings. Continue cooking for about 2 minutes, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a greased ring mold for 30 minutes, or until firm. Unmold on large circular platter, arrange tomato slices around ring, and fill center with creamed filling made by gently heating quartered eggs and mushrooms in white sauce.

Vegetable Souffle
[Serves six]

3 tablespoons margarine
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅝ cup vegetable cooking liquid
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon grated onion
4 eggs, separated
1 cup chopped, cooked carrots
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Melt margarine in saucepan, stir in flour and salt. Add vegetable liquid and milk, stirring constantly, and cook until thickened. Remove from heat and add lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, and onion. Beat egg yolks until light, stir into white sauce, then fold in carrots and parsley. Beat egg whites until stiff, then fold into mixture. Pour into a greased casserole, place in pan of hot water and bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—Your partner opens with two no trump and you hold:
♠KQ9765 ♥4 ♦Q764 ♣42
What is your response?

A.—Four spades. Opposite a partner who has at least 5½ honor tricks this is a big hand and has slam possibilities. If you bid only three spades and partner raises to four, you will feel that you have not yet shown your strength and will be tempted to overbid the game. It is much better to make your big bid of the game level and let your partner do the rest if he can.

Q. 2—You are South and hold:
♠Q95 ♥Q9 ♦AJ1042 ♣A53
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. This hand is the equal of an opening bid and there is a strong probability of game. The alternate bid of three clubs is not sufficiently aggressive.

Q. 3—You are South and hold:
♠Q1075 ♥63 ♦752 ♣AJ107
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. A bid of only three spades would be improper. That would state, "Partner, I had a very mediocre raise, and I just don't like no trump, so you had better sign off at three spades." As a matter of fact you have a very representative raise, which you should indicate by going to game.

Q. 4—You are South and hold:
♠KQJ75 ♥2 ♦742 ♣7432
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. A bid of two spades by you would be interpreted by partner as a desire to go on. It is unwise to rescue in cases of this kind. On such hands as this it pays to resign yourself to a short loss. You never can tell, partner might have 100 honors.

Q. 5—You are South and hold:
♠A10875 ♥63 ♦AJ5 ♣A74
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. It is true this is not a very strong spade suit but the alternate bid of two no trump is not acceptable because the hand is not strong enough. It is better to mislead your partner as to the strength of your suit than to mislead him as to the strength of the hand.

Q. 6—You are South and hold:
♠Q4 ♥976 ♦Q642 ♣A653
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. With shaky stoppers in both the minor suits it would be unwise to persist with no trump, when you know that partner has five hearts and four spades. Remember your bid is only a preference and not a raise. Furthermore, it is very probable that partner has a singleton in one of the minors.

Q. 7—You are South and hold:
♠A842 ♥K7532 ♦9 ♣Q97
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 heart	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. A bid of three hearts which would normally be proper because it would be forcing to game, is not correct on this hand, because you have previously passed, under which circumstances partner is not obliged to go on even if you jump in the same suit.

Q. 8—You are South and hold:
♠AKJ63 ♥AK5 ♦4 ♣AQ73
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs, a jump in a new suit, forcing to game. Even with a partner who is not very robust there might even be a chance for slam if he happens to have some strength in clubs, which is likely.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Molded Egg Salad
[Serves six]

3 tablespoons plain gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup boiling water
8 hard cooked eggs
1 cup mayonnaise
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
¾ cup vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon mustard, dry
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
¾ cup salad oil
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Dash tabasco sauce
½ cup chili sauce
1 cup finely chopped watercress

Soften gelatin in cold water 5 minutes; add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool until slightly thickened. Force eggs thru sieve and mix with mayonnaise, salt, pepper, lemon juice, green pepper, and pimiento. Add to gelatin and pour into oiled mold; chill until firm. Unmold on bed of watercress and serve with Lorenzo dressing made by thoroly mixing remaining ingredients except watercress. Add watercress last and serve immediately.

Hospital Aid for Expectant Mother Sought

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Mrs. H., deserted mother of five small children, who lives in a southern Illinois town is expecting another baby this month. She has been aided by her crippled father, a veteran of the first world war, whose earnings have had to be stretched to meet this emergency until agency aid could be provided. A nervous condition and worry over the welfare of her children have aggravated her general health, which has been a matter of serious concern for several months, indicating early admittance to the small local hospital. She will be grateful to readers who can assist her in providing a robe and gown, size 18, and slippers, size 5½ or 6. The name and address will be supplied upon request.

Dr. A., from a town west of Chicago, writes:

"Dear Miss Brown: You very kindly helped me several times in past years, and again I am asking your aid for an elderly couple, needy patients of mine. The man is a cripple, unable to work, and was supported by his wife until failing health precluded her further employment. They need clothing; he a suit, size 34, and shoes, size 7, and she a coat and dress, size 42-44, and shoes, size 7B."

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

Even tho you're armed with protectives, we hope you're remembering during this hot July that discretion is the better part of valor when it comes to the pursuit of a suntan. Nothing invented will save you from a bad burn if you fling yourself on the scorching sands your first time out and stay there for hours on end with the sun beating down on your frame.

Take it easy, especially during your first few ventures. Don't stay out too long and DO use a good preparation that will screen out the harmful rays as much as possible.

If you're fair skinned, you'll probably like a lotion we have had great success with this year. It's white, fragrant, and the consistency of the kind of thickish cream the milkman used to leave at the door on strawberry-shortcake days. For all its richness and creaminess tho, it absorbs readily, leaving the skin soft and lubricated but without the greasy film that sand will stick to.

This is to be applied to all the exposed surface of the body before you dash into the sun. Then—and this is very important on those first few sunbaths—it should be applied at frequent intervals. Use quite a lot of it if your complexion is the fair and fragile kind. Gradually, as your tan is acquired, you can use it during your sunbath at less frequent intervals. If you're sensible about the whole procedure this lotion helps you acquire a tan evenly and gradually, without a burn and without the coarsening and drying-out process that is, in the long run, more harmful to the feminine complexion than most women realize.

This lotion is in a fine bottle for beach use, with an indentation on one side that permits a good grip.

Jane Healy's Marriage to Major Is Told

Announcement is made of the marriage June 23 of Miss Jane Healy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thompson Healy of North Shore av., to Maj. Fred E. Holdrege Jr. of the army air forces, son of Mr. Holdrege of Thermopolis, Wyo. Maj. Holdrege recently returned from service in Europe with the 8th air force. After a wedding trip to Colorado he will take his bride to Miami, Fla., where he will await further orders. The former Miss Healy attended Lake Forest college. Maj. Holdrege was graduated in 1942 from the United States Military academy at West Point.

From Westfield, N. J., comes the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. J. Leroy Clark of the marriage June 26 in the Westfield Presbyterian church of their daughter, Constance, to Lt. Donald Rindell of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Rindell of Evanston. The bride is a graduate of Wooster college in Ohio. Lt. Rindell served in the African campaign and now is on the staff at Fort Monmouth, N. J. He and his bride will be at home in Long Branch, N. J., following a short wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Walsh of Oak Park announce the marriage May 9 of their daughter, Mary Jane, to Lt. [j. g.] Robert Sweeney of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sweeney, also of Oak Park. The wedding took place in the chapel on Navy pier. A reception followed in the home of the bride's parents, Lt. Sweeney, who has returned from the Pacific, took his bride to California.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Madsen of Evanston of the marriage June 12 of their daughter, Phyllis Arlette, to Lt. Edward Mervin Karl of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Mervin Karl of Park Ridge. The wedding took place in the parish house of St. Mary's church, Evanston, followed by a reception in the Georgian hotel. Lt. Karl has returned from duty in Europe with the 8th air force. He has taken his bride to Miami Beach, Fla., where he reported for further orders.

The marriage May 16 of Miss Mary Lou Howard to Warrant Officer Harold Walter Breffle of the navy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Breffle of Minneapolis, Minn., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Howard of E. 57th pl. The wedding took place in Bond chapel of the University of Chicago, at which the bride was a student. Mr. and Mrs. Breffle are at home in Baltimore, Md., where he is stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Greenwald of Hartford, Conn., announce the marriage in their home June 12 of their daughter, Althea, to Lt. [j. g.] Edward N. Horner of the naval reserve, son of Dr. and Mrs. David A. Horner of Chicago. The bride attended the University of Chicago, and her husband was graduated from its medical school. He is interning in the naval hospital on Treasure Island, Cal. They are at home in Berkeley, where she will study at the University of California in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Hughes of River Forest announce the marriage June 21 of their daughter, Phyllis Louise of the WAVES, to Lt. William Haywood Johnson Jr. of the naval reserve, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Johnson of Lynchburg, Va. The wedding took place in All Souls' Memorial church, Washington, D. C. Following a wedding trip to West Virginia, Lt. Johnson and his bride will be at home in Washington.

Chicago Debutante Vacationing in Canada

[TRIBUNE Photo]

Miss Mari Bahe, a debutante of the season, and her cocker spaniel, Puddin. Miss Bahe and her parents, the Kenneth E. Bahes, are vacationing at Murray Bay, Canada. She and Miss Margie Salsman will share honors at a debut tea Dec. 29 in the Woman's Athletic club.

Lure of Nursing and Medicine to Curb Debutante Festivities

BY JUDITH CASS

THE medical profession is providing unexpected competition for the debut list. Several young women who normally would be presented to society this year are so occupied with nursing and pre-medical studies that they have decided against formal parties. Miss Mary Stewart Galloway, who is entering her second year at Skidmore college, simultaneously is taking nurses' training at the Post-Graduate hospital in New York. As her studies are planned on a year-round program, she and her mother, Mrs. Gertrude S. H. Galloway of Winnetka, are not planning any sort of debut entertaining.

Miss Galloway's elder brother, Lt. Charles E. Galloway Jr., has been stationed at the Romulus air field in Detroit since his return in March from India. At the same time their brother-in-law, Lt. Lincoln Bruce Donaldson of the naval reserve, came back from sea duty and is looking for a house in Seattle, Wash., so that his wife and family can come up from Palo Alto, Cal., to join him. Pvt. John Galloway is on duty near Panama City, Fla.

Other Debut Notes

The Rev. and Mrs. E. Ashley Gerhard's daughter, Betty, who normally would have been on this year's debut list, is not planning a formal party as she will enter nurse's training in September. If she has any time off during the Christmas holidays, her parents may give a simple tea for her at that time.

Because her brothers, Lt. Francis T. Wilson Jr. of the marine air forces and John Wilson of the naval air forces, are away, Miss Eleanor Wilson has decided against making a debut this year. During Miss Wilson's vacation from Wells college, she is gaining some experience for her pre-medical courses by working in a clinic in Michigan City, near the Lakeside, Mich., summer home of her parents, the Francis T. Wilsons of Winnetka. The Wilsons and their younger daughter, Margot, will divide their time between Lakeside and Winnetka this summer. Lt. Wilson is back from service in the Pacific and is awaiting further orders in California. His younger brother expects to receive his wings in the fall in Pensacola, Fla.

Miss Sally Anderson, daughter of Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Stanley David Anderson of Lake Forest, also has decided against a formal debut this year. A graduate of Ferry hall, she will enter Smith college in September.

Here and There

Being welcomed back to Chicago from Beverly Hills, Cal., are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kovas and their little boys. They have rented the Winnetka home in which Mr. and Mrs. William Sims were living. Mr. and Mrs. Sims have purchased the Bannockburn home once occupied by the James E. Baggots.

Mrs. John T. Pitcher, Mrs. William M. Scudder, and the latter's daughter-in-law, Mrs. George P. Braun Jr., departed by airplane for Mexico a week ago to be away for two months. They went to Mexico City, but just where they will settle down was undecided when they left.

Mr. and Mrs. Baxter McLean will return July 22 from a visit with his parents near Castle Park, Mich., and then will be with Mrs. McLean's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Hollis, before going back to their Arizona ranch. Mr. McLean has been released from the army.

Engagement News

Prof. Alfred Emerson of the University of Chicago faculty and Mrs. Emerson announce the engagement of their daughter, Ensign Helena Leeming Emerson of the naval reserve, to Ensign Ralph Joseph Hartman of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry Hartman of Cincinnati, O. Miss Emerson attended Cornell university and the University of Chicago, and her fiance studied at the University of Cincinnati. Both are stationed in Memphis, Tenn.

Some time in August, depending on Petty Officer Mitchell John Spiris' naval reserve leave, he and Miss Cecily Denell will be married. Their engagement has been announced by Miss Denell's mother, Mrs. Bachelder Cummings, and Mr. Cummings of Evanston. Miss Denell, who attended the University of Illinois, is a granddaughter of Mme. Alice Twight Brugnot, who at one time was principal of the Edith Rockefeller McCormick French school. Mr. Spiris, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Spiris of Lynn, Mass., is stationed in Washington, D. C., after 30 months overseas.

On the Calendar

The exhibition to be opened Thursday in the room of Chicago art, at the Art institute, will be unique. It will consist of a single huge painting, "Our Fighting Navy," by Rudolph Weisenborn, most widely known of Chicago's modern artists. Mr. Weisenborn finished the mural, which measures 7½ by 9 feet, a few months ago after long and close contact with the navy. Cards have been sent out to announce the opening of the showing, which will continue thru Aug. 12.

A watermelon scramble, a mother and daughter race, an egg race, and a fortune hunt are among the events scheduled for the Knollwood club's first swimming meet for sons and daughters of members only. The meet is set for next Sunday, but in case of rain will be postponed to the following Sunday. Contestants, up to and including 16 years of age, are asked to be at the pool by 3 p. m. Thruout the summer the club will keep a record of the number of laps "done" each day by the children of members, and at the end of the season the girl and the boy who swam the greatest distances will receive prizes.

Mary Rose Connors and Mike Annan won the trophies awarded by the Lake Forest Winter club to the young swimmers having the highest points in its annual swimming meet recently. Billy North and Brent Hord placed first in the 9 year old competition. Barney Donnelley and Tommy Ingram also were among the winners.

Music Lovers Enjoy a Day of Rich Rewards

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG

Sunday was a day of rich rewards for music lovers, with Artur Rodzinski conducting a superb farewell concert at Ravinia in the afternoon, Fritz Siegal bringing glory to the Grant Park Symphony orchestra, of which he is concertmaster, in a solo appearance at the evening concert, and Winifred Heckman, a young Chicago contralto, making a promising debut as an audition winner on the same program.

Ravinia and Rodzinski parted company for the current season with noisy and prolonged reluctance on the part of an audience that had just enjoyed another masterly exposition of the conductor's art. A majestic interpretation of Beethoven's Fifth had formed the nucleus of the program, a reading of such justness and strength as to furnish cause for renewed wonder and admiration at the tempering to which the conductor's always great but formerly often tempestuous and uncontrolled gifts have been subjected. There was no disturbing intrusion of personality; Beethoven spoke alone and unaided except by the splendid playing of an orchestra inspired by the firm will that commanded it.

Earlier there had been some delightful fooling in Haydn's "Toy" symphony, in which John Weicher played the cuckoo—which seems to be a harder instrument than the violin to play in time—Dudley Powers impersonated the dulcet bobolink, Franz Polesny reverted to an apparently happy boyhood with a noisy rattle, Edward Metzinger went back to his original childhood drum, Gerald Huffman blew sour notes on a trumpet filched from a 5 year old's Christmas tree, Milton Preves blew lustily on a bird whistle, and Vladimir Kalina of the basses tinkled a triangle.

Two brilliant dances from Moniuszko's Polish opera "Halka" replaced one of the scheduled novelties, an overture by Zelenski, and the concert ended with banners flying in the finale to "Die Meistersinger," an excerpt that began with a profoundly beautiful reading of one of the noblest pages of all Wagner, the prelude to the third act.

Because his approach to the highly romantic Wieniawski violin concerto was modern and unsentimental but as keenly alive to its expressive lyricism as to its brilliant passage work, Fritz Siegal's Grant park performance captured a notable eloquence along with its mechanical efficiency. His tone has a dark, throbbing songfulness, but his taste is so meticulous that he never overexploits this advantage and his playing is at once propelled and held in check by exact and incisive rhythmic impulse. It was a performance both distinguished and enjoyable.

Winifred Heckman, his co-soloist under Mr. Malko's baton, scored a success with arias from "La Favorita" and "Carmen" on the strength of her smooth, full bodied, and wide ranged contralto voice, and the beginning of a true dramatic style. The orchestra was back to its best form and played Smetana and Johann Strauss with spunk and spirt.

Mumble-Jumble Dictators

To bring joy to stenographers who labor under the difficulty of mumble jumble dictators, these rules for dictating are directed to all those who so proudly say, "Take a letter . . ."

1. Remove all objects from the mouth such as chewing gum, tobacco, etc.
2. Begin each sentence clearly and definitely.
3. Open your mouth while dictating and pronounce each word distinctly.
4. Make sure every word that is dictated is directed to the stenographer; do not dictate while looking around the room.
5. Under no circumstances put your hand to your mouth while dictating thereby muffling your words.
6. Prepare your work in advance so that you know what you are trying to convey.
7. Consider your stenographer.

ON THE AISLE

By Claudia Cassidy

Massine's Version of Shostakovich "Leningrad" Feature of "Ballet Russe Highlights"

"Ballet Russe Highlights" resumed its approximation of things balletic at Orchestra hall yesterday, and the program was a mild improvement on the Friday night original, tho still no cause for balletomanic dancing in the streets. Leonide Massine at least avoided the fatuous in this batch of novelties [if that is the right description in the face of so much obviously hasty improvisation] and while the procedure rarely suggested the true stature of ballet, it gave a large audience a cool and sometimes pleasant place to spend a summer afternoon.

The most ambitious new work was a pastoral interrupted by the brutality of black shirt war, based on the first movement of Shostakovich's Leningrad symphony, the one with the militant crescendo for the snare drum. The opening scene had a joyous simplicity characteristic of Massine's best work in that style, and the child's part sketched for Kathryn Lee suggested the buoyant gayety of earlier choreography for Riabouchinska. The intrusion of the black figures—Massine and Yurek Lazowski—is not yet vivid enough for complete clarity, but it leads to one brilliant moment when André Eglevsky as the young peasant pillories such savagery in the ignominy of defeat, symbolized by the limp figure of Lazowski, no longer the rapacious conqueror but an empty sack of a man with head lolling from the broken neck of tyranny.

Massine's own best moment came in his famous farruca from "Tricorne," simplified into less strenuous terms but still bristling with style. Less happy indications of a man trying to do too many things in a hurry were signing his name to what was scarcely more than a reworking of Pavlova's "Dragon Fly" for the joyous flair of Kathryn Lee, and perpetrating nymphs in the one dimensional postures of "The Afternoon of a Faun" just because audiences will put up with almost anything if you just play Debussy's "Clair de Lune" while you are doing it.

"Les Sylphides" refused to release its tenuous magic in abbreviated version that realized neither Chopin's poetry nor Fokine's, and the best of "Bluebird" was Eglevsky's silky elevation, accentuated by a reassuring reserve. "The Black Swan" was omitted and I could not be sad about it, considering Baronova's sad lapse from ballerina grace. She and Massine tried the "Blue Danube" waltz of the hussar and his more seductive love, and it wasn't within reaching distance of Danilova's drifting creaminess in the same amorous role.

Lazowski had a spectacular spot in his own version of the gopak, which he does superbly, and with little Lee he danced a vulgarized version of the poodles "Boutique Fantasque"—funny thing, the faint line of demarcation between audacity and cheapness. Anna Istomina whirled about in Ravel's "Pavane" and Rosella Hightower didn't have much to do, but whether she danced a gypsy or a nymph, she wore earrings while doing it.

Incidentally, tho, there seemed to be some dimunition in the number of obstructing footlight troughs. Conductor Franz Allers still projected above the stage like a lighthouse. And for the benefit of any one tangled in a program snarl, the first program was repeated last night and the second, reviewed today, is scheduled for Tuesday night when the brief season ends. A third, with the remaining novelties, is due tonight.

Labor Day, O and J

THE QUESTION

WHERE ASKED

Clark, Dearborn, and State streets at Madison st.

THE ANSWERS

Harry Newman, 1347 S. Springfield av.—On the 10th floor of one of the nearby buildings there's a huge awning. Every time it rains and the awning is up it catches about ten gallons of water. Then some unknowing pedestrian walks under the awning just as it is being lowered. A waterfall comes down, completely drenching the victim.

Ben Dordick, 939 Ainslie st.—It's something different every day — traffic jams, lost children, freak accidents, and strange people milling about. On two different occasions I've seen women commit suicide. One woman jumped from a 10th story window and one from the 12th, both of them on this corner.

Sollie Bertuca, 1833 S. May st.—When this corner gets windy it really gets windy. You can hardly stand up because of the wind. I'll never forget how much I laughed one day when I saw a detopeed man chasing his hair down the street. The topee blew down Clark st. and turned east on Madison st. with the owner hot in pursuit.

Louis Varholy, 12423 Michigan av.—I had a stand a block down the street when they were building the Chicago Temple building. A lady stopped at my stand to get a paper. A two by four crashed into the street and went right thru the back seat of the cab in which she had been riding.

A. W. Hulkin, 4022 Harrison st.—The strangest thing used to happen at this corner. A young man, about 25, would come here every day and stand on that box [a city dump box beside the news stand], look at the crowd for about ten minutes at the noon hour and then leave. He did this for three months.

'The Wicked Mrs. Steel'

By Roy Vickers

(Copyright, 1945, by Roy Vickers)

SYNOPSIS: Gillian Bergen comes to Tenstable as companion to Mrs. Steel, widow of Andrew Steel. By the terms of the will she must leave his vast wealth to one of his relatives, otherwise the estate passes in trust to the township of Tenstable. Ralph Hansbury, business manager for the Steel interests, upon whom Mrs. Steel has designs, advises Gillian not to accept the position. When Ruth, the housekeeper, finds Mrs. Steel has killed another canary—knowing it is because Gillian has crossed her path—she urges Gillian not to stay. The hatred of her late husband's relatives for each other is intensified when Mrs. Steel announces a heart condition may cause her sudden death. She delights in her power over them and in making them grovel. She shows each one a will made in his favor—even Gillian, suggesting should she marry Ralph the money would be wisely managed. On Gillian's arrival, Ralph was about to fall in love with Mrs. Steel. Cunningly she makes plans to break up their romance. Gillian does not mention the will when Ralph proposes. His plan is to let his contract expire and sail away from the whole sordid atmosphere. When Mrs. Steel tells him of the will in Gillian's favor, Ralph quarrels with Gillian. Ruth, who had promised to watch over Margaret, finds she is getting too hard to manage. Valerie brings her fiance to visit her Aunt Margaret, who forces her to choose between him and the Steel fortune, then secretly watches Valerie add extra tablets to her sleeping draught, which she pretends to drink. Gillian promises Ralph she will destroy the will and leave the Steel home at once, but Gillian falls asleep before destroying it, and next morning Mrs. Steel is found dead.

INSTALMENT XIX.

SYMBOL OF MALICE

Ruth finished her tea, took up the tray, then absently set it down again. "He wouldn't let his wife come near him when he knew he was dying." Her mind had slipped back to Andrew Steel. "She wouldn't have done him harm—there wouldn't have been any sense in it, then. He was wrong, and I told him so. I always told him when he was wrong. Often enough that was, too."

Gillian almost held her breath. Intuitively she felt that the secret of the house of sorrows was about to stumble from the other's lips.

"And he said: She's what I and the others have made her, and maybe that's my fault. She'll get her own back now because I've left her my money, except your wages which the bank will pay you every week as long as you live, so you'll be working for me and not for her, he says. You know what she might do if nobody watches her. Your work is to save her from herself, to watch her and when her time comes see that she dies in her own bed."

Again Ruth looked up.

"And I managed all right until you came."

"Ruth! If you mean what you're saying . . ."

"Ah! It's not you—it was her!" interrupted Ruth. "But she's dead now. She had to die sometime. And she died in her own bed."

"If you've come to help, Valerie, I'm afraid there's nothing you can do, thanks," Gillian stared in surprise at the other's appearance.

Valerie's eyes were large and unnaturally bright, as if treated with a drug. Her cheeks were white, her lips bloodless.

"Are you kicking me out?" Valerie laughed shrilly. "How funny!" The laughter stopped suddenly. "Sorry, Gillian! I'm a bit up in the air I suppose. Well, why shouldn't I be! This sort of thing doesn't happen every day."

Gillian thought she understood.

"You sit down here for a bit and take it easy," she said soothingly. "I'll have to leave you for a little while but when I come back we'll have a chat."

"I don't want to be alone—I'd better go." Gillian did not dissuade her. "I really only came to ask you one thing. Who do you think has got her money?"

Gillian took a firm hold on herself.

"Whichever it is I'm sure all the others will be given some kind of share," she hedged.

"Shows how little you know! Those skunks! Crawling around Aunt Margaret, groveling and bootlicking. And always saying foul things about me trying to make people believe I was a bad hat. Of course, I don't lump you in with the others, dear! You took the trouble to be civil to me and Charles when there was nothing to be gained by it. We'll have a date, Gillian—I mean it. See you later."

Gillian waited a moment after she had gone. There was no escaping the fact that Valerie's behavior was not normal.

"She may go out of her mind when she hears what has actually happened."

As she stepped into the corridor, the doctor and the solicitor were coming out of what had been Mrs. Steel's room.

"Dear me! Thanks, Pasley, I had to satisfy myself. Red tape, you understand," the solicitor was muttering. He added: "I know nothing of such matters of course. But if I'd had to guess I would have said suffocation."

"And in a sense you would have been right," answered Pasely. "When the heart fails to function the patient cannot breathe and the result is what the layman calls —er—suffocation. As you know, I've been expecting this."

Having delivered himself of a few conventional phrases the doctor came to the point.

"As far as you know, Miss—er —Beynon—did anything occur recently — yesterday — last night — to cause Mrs. Steel special agitation?"

"Last night, after 10, Mr. Hanshew came to consult her on some business matter. She seemed all right to me, but Ruth said she was upset. She thought it better that she should take Mrs. Steel her sleeping draught instead of me."

"Business never upset her. You said Mr. Hanshew—o, yes!"

"Wait! I think that's Mr. Hanshew's car. Perhaps you'd like to see him . . ."

"No, thank you. I'd rather speak to Ruth and clean up this trifling matter of the sleeping draught."

Gillian called Ruth, then went to let Ralph in. A single glance told her that he had heard the news.

"It needn't make any real difference to our plans, darling," he said. "You'd better stay here, tho, until after the funeral. One of the family . . ."

"Ralph!" Her tone caught instant attention. "I didn't destroy that will."

She told him.

"Then you are a fantastically rich woman!"

"We are fantastically rich," she added: "You aren't angry, Ralph?"

"No." He flopped down on the grass. "I don't know what I am. Thought is paralyzed. Listen—when I heard she was dead my first thought was that my squeamishness had robbed you as a woman has never been robbed before." He laughed nervously. "Robbed you! What rot! You only came near the money thru a freak of circumstance nothing to do with yourself. I thought we'd just carry on and get married and let the whole thing slip into dreamland where it belongs."

"We can still do that," she suggested.

"We're not big enough. Nobody is big enough to be indifferent to masses of money. It will change everything. Me, for instance. So far I've been fairly successful. Now my earnings are reduced to less than pin-money by my wife's enormous income. We shan't plan and contrive our home—we shall just wave your magic wand and one will appear with every darned thing in it that we're ever likely to want."

"We needn't use it as a magic wand," she pointed out. "Mrs. Steel didn't. Lots of rich people don't. The money won't choke us if we don't let it."

"I wonder. Already we should feel cheated if some one else got it instead of us. In an hour or two we shall be watching Tollerman's face — trying to guess whether there's likely to be a hitch in the proceedings. It's funny," he added, "that I am afraid and you're not . . ."

"Mrs. Steel!"

Still she did not understand.

"Alive, I could manage her. For all her subtlety, her fascination, she was an ignorant, spiteful woman. Dead, she becomes the very symbol of malice."

Emily G., Chicago—I found a discarded old piano stool, and after covering the legs with ivory enamel and the seat with oilcloth I put it to work in my kitchen. It is a big help as it can be adjusted to different heights.

Mrs. Bill S., Muskegon, Wis.—When I knit sweaters for my children I always use double yarn at the elbow. This saves me much patching later as the underside of elbows wear out first.

Sarah S., Lansing, Mich.—I make my own cement for broken china and glass by taking the white of an egg and mixing it to a paste with dry plaster of paris.

New Sun Back Ensembles Are Eye Catching

BY REA SEEGER

Sun back dress ensembles are everywhere. New versions which have aroused a new interest in the last few days have contrast color in the coverup bolero which is sold separately from the dress, but designed to make the sun back dresses a complete unit for smart street and town wear. The dresses are still puritan plain with the bodice top just like a camisole with shoulder straps and the back cut down and out for suntan sessions. The snappy short boleros usually have elbow length sleeves, tho some are longer and some several inches shorter. Necklines vary, from the collarless models to those with a prim little tuxedo collar.

What's new and different is the exciting new contrast effects. For instance, there's cool blue and white seersucker dress with a belt of combined white pique with the seersucker, so the companion bolero is of spanking white pique. A butcher's weave fabric is used for a stunning aquamarine blue dress made with two huge flat pockets, one on each side of the skirt, and the bolero is of coral pink. If you like prints, see the yellow border print with the border in crimson. The bolero is made entirely of the crimson printed border band, the same band that makes the lower half of the skirt of the dress.

All kinds of lush summer colors are particularly ideal for warm weather—chartreuse, mauve, blush-pink, pale-blue, and yellow, with a few dark greens and coppers for street or office wardrobes. All are made with clever details in the bodice tops, especially the precise, small checked cotton in unusual colors such as almond green with cerise and similar checks in classic combinations of blue with white, red with blue, and white with brown. The rayon materials with the linen weave texture make the swankiest of dress parade models.

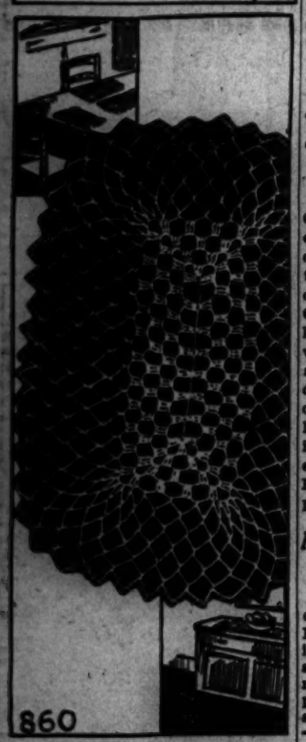
Funds for Algonquin Camp Total $1,013; Ice Donations $416

Up to yesterday, The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., received a total of $1,013 from generous Chicagoans for the Camp Algonquin fund, which gives underprivileged children and their mothers vacations at the wooded camp on the Fox river. The most recent contribution, $2, came from Tom Morrissy.

New donations to the free ice fund, also operated by Tribune Charities, were $37, bringing the total to $416. David B. Stern III. sent $20; Mrs. Helen C. Hasse and Mrs. Isabel H. Garand, $3; Mrs. Henry May, $5; Mrs. G. M. Lederer, Helen Catherine, Anonymous, and Louise H. Harkins, $2 each, and S. G. F., $1.

Luncheon Doily



BY ELLEN BRUCE

A delightful luncheon doily and runner may be crocheted from a couple of cones of carpet warp in your spare time. The lacy mesh and simple central pattern are as attractive as they are easy to make. Snow white or pastels are ideal colors for this summer set.

For instructions in crocheting the luncheon doily, No. 860, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 8—Clifton Webb's next after "Razor's Edge" will be Leo Rosten's story, "The Dark Corner." All about an antique dealer. I'm wondering if Clifton will pattern his performance after our own Billy Haines, or Harold Grieve, now in the navy. Speaking of Grieve, during a stopover in San Francisco he eyed a Victorian chair in Ina Claire's perfect bandbox of a house, but I got in ahead of him, and if Ina doesn't send it down soon I'll be beheadin' her! . . . What's this! Howard Hawks may direct a picture for Leo McCarey's Rainbow company? Between them, those two could worry our major producers. What do I mean "could"? . . . Wonder if Twentieth will call next "Junior Miss" picture, which Sally Benson is writing, "Junior Miss Senior"? Anyway, the first one has led to another, and looks like they'll go on from there. . . . Lenore Ulrich was given quite a welcome since coming to town. Lenore was one of David Belasco's top stars, but never acted like one off stage.

The Animal Kingdom May Furnish New Star

Louis B. Mayer sure has a way with animals. Look what he's done with horses and Leo. So at Dolly Walker's party, Lady Mendl's pet poodle, Blublu, made up to Boss Man Mayer like she's made up to no one—not even her mistress. We're waiting to see whether her screen offer will be large enough to make Elsie turn into a stage mother who always knows best. . . . No, Joanne Haymes, Dick's wife, hasn't been signed at Twentieth Century. She tested there two years ago. They didn't sign her then, nor have they signed her since. She doesn't think she's ready for pictures. . . . Maj. Mike Frankovich and frau, Binnie Barnes, spent Mike's first evening home at the Troc. Looked like a honeymoon all over again. . . . Walt Disney thinking about reissuing "Pinocchio." . . . Eugene Lester asks me to suggest Warners do a revival of "Yankee Doodle Dandy." . . . Spring Byington back at her old camping ground, M. G. M. They never should have let her go. Only last night I saw her in that oldie, "You Can't Take It with You." That one is indestructible, and gosh it made me homesick for Jimmy Stewart. . . . Capt. Hy Gardner never misses a trick. His quiz show "Suit Yourself" gives returned service men a chance and a lift.

Film Offer in Dentist's Office Is a Pain

Universal was having some trouble finding a 6 year old boy for "Once Upon a Dream," so when Producer Mike Fessler went to his dentist for that old drill session, he found the perfect child in the waiting room, but the child wanted no part of pictures, and mama wasn't impressed at having her child act with famous people, and would they kindly not bother her little boy who was there to have a tooth pulled. . . . Bill Edwards, Paramount's good looker, reading studio's old scripts on Zane Grey. Yep, they're going to ride again. . . . Chuchu Martinez goes to Mexico City to celebrate their Independence day. And did you know his pay check in the Mexican Quarter cafe here is larger than Joe E. Lewis' was a Ciro's? . . . Jan Savitt claims the cigaret shortage is so bad you can't find a line to stand in. That ain't the way it appears from my office window. From there I can watch two lines. I've seen them wait as long as four hours to buy a pack of cigarets—and three-fourths of them are women. . . . Have you heard about Beatrice Kay's "Appleknocker"? Pour a jigger of applejack into a tall glass filled with shaved ice, fill up with hard cider. She calls it a cooling tumbler of dynamite.

COMPLETE
DEMANDS:

MUCH has been written, much said, about feminine hygiene. Too often, however, women overlook hygiene in the REAL sense of the word—under-arm cleanliness and sweetness. You cannot be attractive and appealing with under-arms moist, stained and smelly.

There is now a simple safe way to prevent under-arm odor and help keep your dresses free from perspiration stains and smell. It is Arrid, a new vanishing cream deodorant which safely helps stop perspiration.

Arrid has 5 outstanding advantages:
1. Does not irritate skin. Does not rot dresses and men's shirts.
2. Prevents under-arm odor. Helps stop perspiration safely.
3. A pure, white, antiseptic, stainless vanishing cream.
4. No waiting to dry. Can be used right after shaving.
5. Awarded Approval Seal of American Institute of Laundering—harmless to fabric. Use Arrid regularly.

More women use Arrid than any other deodorant. Try a jar today . . . at all good drug, department or ten cent stores. 39¢ and 59¢ (plus tax).

CUBS TAKE FIRST PLACE; PLAY SOX TONIGHT

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

THE government committee on physical fitness, established on April 29, 1943, has stimulated such interest in the movement that the director of the federal budget feels the campaign should be put on a permanent basis by an act of congress. . . . In the span between World War I. and World War II. a good many sports leaders stressed the need for an expansion of our athletic programs, but it took the current conflict to drive home to all the importance of their arguments. . . . We spent millions of dollars on war machines, some of which became obsolete before we had occasion to use them. . . . Every war in history has demonstrated the fact that the most effective of all war machines is the human body. . . . If the soldier does not have the speed, stamina, agility, coördination, flexibility, and strength to get maximum results with available machines, he is doomed to defeat, injury, and death. . . . Keeping mechanical equipment up to date in quality and quantity is a necessary job, of course, but it is admittedly a drain on the nation's resources. . . . Keeping the nation's physical machine at maximum efficiency can only add to the country's resources. . . . It will be interesting to observe whether or not we'll return to an attitude of indifference toward the physical state of the nation in light of the sorry lessons we have learned in this war. . . . The youth of America was not fit for war in 1917 and it was less fit in this emergency. . . . This isn't due to youth itself. . . . It's an indictment of the nation's education leadership. . . . Congressman Sam Weiss of Pennsylvania has strong arguments on his side in his effort to establish a national commission on physical fitness. . . . Col. Leonard Rowntree, medical chief of the army's selective service, can furnish ample evidence that hundreds of thousands of young men have been rejected for military service because of remedial physical and mental defects.

Congressman Sam Weiss

Col. Leonard Rowntree

The success of our superior athletes in international competition probably was responsible for the belief that our youth was stronger than the youth of any other land. . . . The growth of big time sports events, catering to crowds that jammed our biggest stadiums, led some educators to complain that we were overemphasizing athletics and devoting too much attention to the physical. . . . This despite the lessons of World War I. and now World War II. . . . Again we are learning that the trained athlete is an outstanding performer in any branch of service. . . . Thus, if we did overemphasize athletics in peace time, as some charge, it was a great service to the nation in its hour of greatest danger. . . . Military leaders are looking not only for a soldier with a strong body. . . . They want men with competitive instinct. . . . If we were to adopt a compulsory physical training program that eliminated competitive games and stressed mass participation we would not get maximum results. . . . The plan should be broad enough to give every one a chance to take part in a degree commensurate with his physical talents. . . . The basic schedule should be one suitable for all who have no serious physical handicap. . . . Instructors soon can detect that some in the basic group have native abilities and aptitudes qualifying them for certain competitive activities. . . . The latter group gradually will begin to specialize and soon may be ready for interscholastic, intercollegiate, interclub, or whatever type of competition is available. . . . If the boys of superior talents are obliged to remain indefinitely in the basic program, they lose their desire to develop. . . . That's one reason why so-called "big time" athletics always will be desirable, if the nation is going in for physical fitness on an intelligent scale.

The country has spent liberally and worked diligently for progress in academic work, but we have lagged in similar planning for the physical welfare of the individual. . . . Our schools and colleges help shape our national thinking, so they must assume some of the responsibility for our failure in physical education.

SOX WHIP A'S, 5-4, 3-2; TAKE FOURTH PLACE

Humphries, Grove Gain Decisions

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The intermittent White Sox continued yesterday to recover some of the ground lost during their recent dive into six straight defeats. They stepped into their fourth consecutive victory over the eighth place Athletics by taking the payoff ends in a double header, 5 to 4 and 3 to 2, an achievement which enabled James Dykes to lead his boys back into the first division from which they were unceremoniously bounced a few days ago. The Sox have won seven double headers in seven played at Comiskey park this season.

The first game was officially a victory for Johnny Humphries and not because of any spectacular fielding by those supposed to be working in his behalf. He was hard to hit, but refused to get off the beam despite six errors, altho he didn't quite make the nine inning route. Johnny had a neat lead which was reduced by Dick Siebert's two-run homer in the eighth.

Caldwell Stops Bally

In the ninth Humphries got into difficulties that warranted the summoning of a rescuer. The job went to Earl Caldwell and he quelled the disturbance after one more enemy had scored.

The Dykes boys went to work early in the second game, scoring three runs in two innings and thus ending the stay of Charles [Lefty] Gassaway, who drew Orval Grove for an opponent. Thereafter the Sox' hitting efforts were painfully light against Jittery Joe Berry and the famed as well as rotund Buck Newsom.

Meanwhile Grove, now a nine game winner, kept the Mackmen away from the plate until the seventh inning when an enemy surge almost completely wiped out the edge built up earlier in his behalf by Johnny Dickshot, Dan Reynolds, Guy Curtright, Mike Tresh, and Wally Moses, particularly the latter, who doubled two runs across.

Moses Triples in Opener

One of the two hits yielded by Humphries in the first five innings of the opening game was McGhee's double to left at the start of the second inning. He scored when Hall singled, a double play getting Humphries out of the jam. This offset a run registered in the first inning by the Sox on Busch's boot of Reynolds' grounder, followed by singles by Curtright and Baker.

Three hits were sufficient to turn the 1 to 1 tie into a 3 to 1 Sox edge in the fifth. Moses inaugurated this incident by tripling to right, being driven in by Farrell's single. Curtright forced Farrell but got an extra base for himself when Hall threw wild attempting a double play. Baker's single chased Curtright home.

Sox Greet Mr. Black

Black's formal return from a 30 day suspension was featured by Reynolds' double at the start of the eighth but nothing came of it because he tried to stretch it into a triple. Then Farrell and Curtright walked. A single by Hockett and a pass to Tresh with the bases filled accounted for the two runs and a 5 to 1 lead which proved none too much.

Siebert's homer, his fourth of the year, came after Peck had singled in the eighth but Humphries still had a two run margin and seemed

INTERLEAGUE GAMES TONIGHT

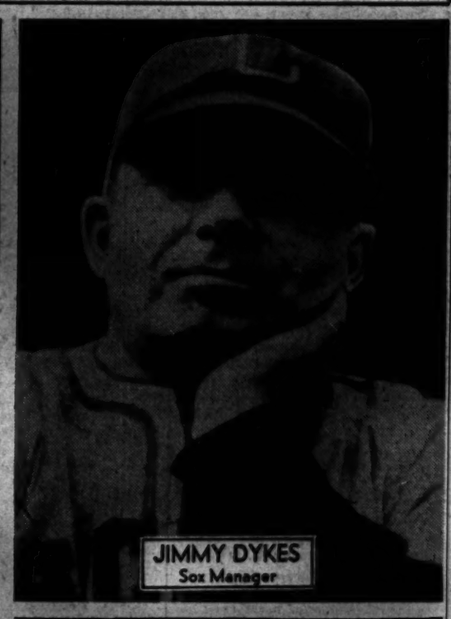
Chicago Cubs vs. Chicago White Sox in Comiskey park.

New York Yankees vs. New York Giants in Polo Grounds.

Cincinnati at Cleveland.

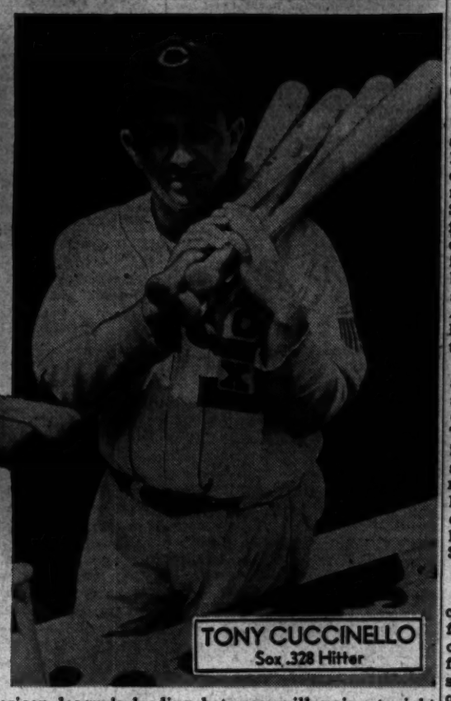
THEY PLAY—YOU WATCH—CHARITY WINS!

CHARLEY GRIMM
Cub Manager



JIMMY DYKES
Sox Manager

PHIL CAVARRETTA
Cub .372 Hitter



TONY CUCCINELLO
Sox .328 Hitter

The National league's No. 2 hitter and the American league's leading batsman will swing tonight for war charity when the Cubs meet the White Sox in Comiskey park. In opposite dugouts will be two rival managers whose friendly feuding goes back many, many seasons. Proceeds will go to the Red Cross and National War fund.

Rivals Battle on South Side for War Funds

The Cubs and White Sox, the same old baseball feudists from north and south of the river, respectively, are going to be charitable tonight with the help of the Comiskey park lamps. They'll play a one game city series as their part of baseball's contribution to war relief and with favorable weather the renewal of the feuding which was hampered last spring by ODT edicts may be witnessed by a $30,000 house. There still are 25,000 grandstand seats available. The game will start at 8:30 p. m.

Also in tonight's war fund program will be the Yankees and Giants in the Polo Grounds and the Reds and Indians in the Cleveland stadium. Four other games for the same cause will be played tomorrow, the Browns and Cardinals at home at night, the Dodgers and Senators, under the lights at the Washington park, the Phils and Athletics at night in Shibe park, and Boston's Braves and Red Sox at the latter's park in the daylight.

They're Old Rivals

Most of the other games have been given extra bait in the shape of side attractions but the Cubs-Sox affair offers only another meeting between teams which have been mad at each other [on the field] for a long time. And while the Cubs over the years haven't a very good record in their commerce with the Sox they certainly shouldn't be fearful of walking into the latter's hideout this evening. Didn't the Cubs in the only game played last spring between the rivals knock the Sox silly with a 15 to 3 lambasting? And aren't they leading the National league, possessed of 10 straight victories?

The benefit games were devised after the annual All-Star event, scheduled for Boston, had been called off to ease transportation. The All-Star games, as well as designated games during the regular season, contributed more than one million dollars to war relief in the last three years. Total war relief contributions by the two major leagues thru 1942, '43, and '44 were $2,629,964.89.

Derringer to Hurl

Tonight's date in Comiskey park couldn't have been improved upon for timing so far as the Cubs are concerned. They are coming back from a trip in which they literally swept the eastern clubs out of their own ball park, the job causing a revival of pennant hopes. On the other hand the Sox only recently emerged from a six game losing streak by taking four straight from the Athletics.

Charles Grimm, the Cubs' skipper, has promised to start the venerable Paul Derringer against the Sox. James Dykes, the Sox boss who positively will make a personal appearance at the plate tonight if the umpires provide provocations, hadn't made up his mind last night as to whether he would start Ed Lopat or Earl Caldwell, altho he should have two reasons for finally settling on the former, one because he is a southpaw and the other because the 40 year old Caldwell had to do a rescue job yesterday.

NORTH SIDERS BEAT PHILLIES, 12-6 AND 9-2

Score 9th and 10th Victories in Row

BY EDWARD BURNS

Philadelphia, Pa., July 8 — The Cubs headed for home tonight in first place in the National league standings and possessed of an unfinished string of 10 straight victories and a record of 13 successes in 16 games played on their second 1945 eastern trip.

These happy totals were achieved thru two triumphs this afternoon over the Phillies. The Cubs went into first place by winning the first game of a double header, 12 to 6, then fortified their newly reached eminence by breezing to a 9 to 2 decision in the second game.

The lads pounded out 14 hits in the first game, including two singles, each with the bases loaded, a triple and a double by Phil Cavarretta, and 16 hits in the second game, including a double and a homer by Peanuts Lowrey.

What Might Have Been

Having reached first place and hopeful of staying there or thereabouts, the Cubs weren't second guessing themselves too much as they rode homeward to receive the eastern clubs they've just finished whipping so lavishly. But some did pause to recall that they might have swept the entire eastern trip. They lost the first game to the Dodgers with two out in the ninth and had led, 2 to 0, in the second inning. In the second game they lost in Brooklyn they were leading, 4 to 2, with one out in the ninth, and lost 5 to 4. And in the third and last game they lost, they held a 2 to 0 lead in the first inning.

Prim and Wyse Triumph

Cub pitching today ran from wobbly to pretty good. In the first game the two big blond boys, Paul Erickson and Hy Vanderberg, had an awful time of it as they jointly pitched 17 hits to the Phillies. Then Ray Prim went in and got the game over.

In the second game Hank Wyse turned in his usual stylish performance for his 10th favorable decision of the year, his third of the trip.

For a matter of two innings the Cubs were behind, 1 to 0, in the first game, but things began to happen in the third, the net result being three runs for the Chicagoans. With one out Stan Hack singled, went to third on Don Johnson's double, and stayed there when Bill Nicholson walked. Hack and Johnson scored on Cavarretta's single. At this juncture, Don Grate replaced Whit Wyatt on the mound for the Phillies and the third run resulted when Nicholson tallied on Andy Pafko's fly.

Five Runs in Fourth

The five run fourth inning convinced the Phillies that the Cubs were really serious about their first place aims. These five runs counted thru Lenny Merullo's double, singles by Hack, Cavarretta, Erickson, Pafko, and Johnson's walk. Marsch Scott replaced Grate just in time to be greeted by Lowrey's single and to see Cavarretta count the final run of the inning.

The Cubs batted around in the ninth inning for a net of four runs to relieve anything that resembled pressure. During the inning, Cavarretta doubled for his fourth straight hit.

The Phillies were ahead, 1 to 0, going into the third inning of the second game, but Manager Grimm's athletes took care of this deficit with four runs and thereby clinching the contest. Johnson singled with one out and the bases were filled after walks were issued to Nicholson and Cavarretta. The four runs tallied on Pafko's infield out and doubles by Lowrey and Paul Gillespie.

Ninth Run Is a Gift

Two more Cub runs were added in the fourth on successive singles by Hack, Johnson, and Nicholson, and Lowrey's fifth homer of the season.

Pitcher Anton Karl's single and Elisha Mott's double gave the host team its final run in the sixth, but the Cubs came back with a run in the seventh and their final tally in the ninth. Merullo's single and Wyse's double brought about the run in the seventh and the final run came in the way of a gift. Merullo walked, advanced on Wyse's infield hit and scored when Flager was charged with his second error of the contest.

PITT'S BONELLI TO JOIN ALL-STAR ELEVEN FOR BATTLE WITH PACKERS

BY WILFRID SMITH

There comes a time in any football attack when success of failure may depend on ability to gain a yard. These situations of fourth down, one yard to go demand a ball carrier who can drive thru the opposing line even if the attack is anticipated.

When the All-Stars meet the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field Aug. 30 they will have a full back for such a task. He is Sgt. Ernie Bonelli, full back in 1939, 1940, and 1941 at the University of Pittsburgh, a veteran of two years service overseas in the European theater who now is stationed in Florida. Bonelli is 25 years of age, 5 feet 11 inches tall, and weighs 197 pounds.

Seeks Starting Berth

Bonelli will not be required to carry the complete responsibility of the full back position for at least three others will be available from the college squad which will number from 40 to 50 players. But he has the ability and the desire to win a starting assignment. His performance at Pittsburgh was such that he was appointed team captain in his junior year and Duke university fans still recall his play in Pitt's game in 1941 at Durham, N. C. That was the season, incidentally, that Duke was host to Oregon State in the Rose bowl game transferred from Pasadena because of the war.

During the three football campaigns Bonelli also had limited experience at right half back which customarily in the single wing back system of attack is the blocking back. Bonelli is not only an excellent blocker but he served as one of the line backers on defense.

Ernie also played baseball for the Panthers for two seasons. He attended Aspinwall High school in Blawnox, Pa., a suburb of Pittsburgh.

At the university Bonelli studied industrial engineering and he holds a bachelor of science degree in this major. He was 22 just before his last season on the Pitt football team—his birthday is July 27—and since he entered military service Oct. 16, 1941, he is an example of that group of college graduates which has given all its time to military affairs.

Greatest Athletic Thrill

"My last college game against Duke university still remains as my greatest thrill in athletics," Bonelli wrote in accepting an invitation to join the 1945 All-Star squad. "I am now ready to change that opinion. Participating in the game against the professional champions will be the high point of my sports competition. I've had to wait a long time for my chance, but I believe I will appreciate it more because of the years spent in service and overseas."

The All-Star squad will assemble at Northwestern university to begin practice Aug. 12. Civilian members of the squad—approximately half of the group—will immediately begin work. Service men who expect to use their regular furlough time in order to participate in the game in Soldiers' field, will have generally about 15 days. All of these men, of course, will be in condition and can soon catch up with whatever lecture room material has been distributed.

POLICE SEIZE 14 FOR GAMBLING AT CUB-PHIL GAME

Philadelphia, Pa., July 8 (AP)—Fourteen men were arrested today in Shibe Park during the first half of the Phillies-Cubs double header baseball game on charges of gambling.

Members of the vice squad who arrested the 14 in the left field bleachers, said they found approximately $5,000 in their pockets.

Vice squad members said the men were betting on every possible angle of the game, including strikes, balls, hits, runs, and the next play.

150 Golfers to Open P. G. A. Meet Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Dayton, O., July 8—A field of 150 fairway artists will tee off tomorrow morning over the snug acreage of the Moraine Country club in the first 18 hole medal play round of golf's most strenuous assignment—the 27th annual tournament of the Professional Golfers' Association of America. The second 18 of the qualifying round will be transacted on Tuesday.

Then the real battle will begin—the fight for keeps in which the country's ablest swingers level at each other man to man. From Wednesday's opening round of match play thru Sunday's championship final, all matches will be over the wearing route of 36 holes.

Hamilton Defends Title

Out of the two day medal play chore will come the 31 men who will join with Pvt. Bob Hamilton of Fort Lewis, Wash., in the match play didoes. Pvt. Hamilton, 1 up conqueror of Byron Nelson in the dramatic 1944 final in Spokane, Wash., is exempt from the qualifying test as defending champion. Bob, a native of Evansville, Ind., said today that he has played only three rounds of golf since April 23.

O, yeah, that man Nelson is around the premises. The 33 year old Texas umbrella man who is currently in the process of manufacturing the hottest winning streak professional golf ever has seen, tested Moraine this afternoon in a special medal play foursome debate with Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Sanford, Me.; Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., and Bill Wotherspoon of Tulsa, Okla.

Byron, winner of 10 of the last 16 individual contests in which he has competed, the last seven in succession, has collected upwards of $27,000 in bonds thus far in the 1945 cam-

BILLY TALBERT, MRS. COOKE WIN NATIONAL CLAY COURTS CROWNS

BY DAVID CONDON

The flashing smile of Francisco [Pancho] Segura has lost its luster, and the crown that was his, emblematic of supremacy on America's clay courts, belongs now to Billy Talbert, who finally, at a time when he is starting to look backward on a young man's game, caught up with the title he has long pursued.

At 4:05 o'clock yesterday afternoon a very tired Segura, who four games earlier had sensed the final outcome, stood on the No. 1 court at the River Forest Tennis club and watched a sizzling placement nick the sideline and go bounding against the fence. Pancho, three times intercollegiate champion, shook his head and said, "It was a good shot!". After two hours and

Billy Talbert

Mrs. Cooke

23 minutes, Talbert had won an uphill, five set battle, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2.

Mrs. Cooke Triumphs

Later another favorite was dethroned when Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke, since 1930 one of the best in women's competition, upset Pauline Betz, national champion, 6-3, 7-5, in convincing fashion.

Talbert refused to give up against Pancho. He relentlessly stroked away at Pancho's backhand and advanced to the net for the kill. At times Pancho passed him, but often, when trying to lob over Billy's head, Segura only set up an overhead smash that Talbert effectively put away.

Then there was Pancho, taking a short shot on his forehand and driving it home with remarkable accuracy, so that it seemed as if Talbert was hopelessly outclassed. At other times, he forced Talbert into errors as Bill remained at the baseline and attempted to outsteady his opponent. Talbert has too nervous a temperament, and Segura is too consistent, for this manner of game, and at these points Talbert most often yielded to the pressure and erred on his strokes.

Retrieves Drop Shots

But Billy was smart enough to sense his shortcomings. He kept away from Pancho's forehand and controled the forecourt. He deftly retrieved Pancho's most famous stroke, an offensive drop shot, barely edging it over the net so that Senor Pancho was caught flat-footed. Only for a brief period, when Talbert made the mistake of being cautious with his lead, did Segura employ the drop effectively. Then he won four straight games with the loss of only one point.

The first set required 30 minutes, with Talbert winning three straight games for a 3-1 lead after Segura won his service. Even at this point the gallery sensed that it was Talbert's day. He followed up and won the set, 6-4, only to have the score tied 23 minutes later when Segura won the second, 6-4, after trailing, 4-2.

This would have been the time for Billy to lose heart, were he going to do that, but he won five straight games and rapidly claimed the third set, 6-2. The fourth spelled trouble, and Pancho won, 6-2, as Billy's game went erratic.

Segura, Talbert Win Doubles

Segura won the first game of the fifth, but then Talbert warmed up. He went into a 5-2 lead and, after Segura three times had staved off match points with spectacular placements, Talbert won the advantage and, on the next point, claimed the match and title.

Mrs. Cooke wasted no time in demonstrating she was the master of Miss Betz. She ran up a 5-0 lead in the first set, then Pauline took three, and Mrs. Cooke took the set at 6-3. The second was tied at 5-all, which was the closest Pauline came to victory, before Mrs. Cooke made it 7-5 with two straight games.

Segura and Talbert teamed up to win the men's doubles for the second time, defeating Elwood Cooke and Lt. Hal Surface Jr., 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

In the final event of the evening, Mrs. Cooke teamed wtih her husband, Elwood, to win her second title as the Cooke duo defeated Talbert and Miss Betz, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3, for the mixed doubles crown.

Pound Gregg, King to Take Second Contest

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—Brooklyn tumbled out of first place today by losing both games of a double header to the St. Louis Cardinals, dropping the final to Ken Burkhardt after bowing to Charley [Red] Barrett in the opener. Both games were decided by 6 to 4 scores before 32,001 customers.

The 42 year old Babe Herman, making his first appearance in the Brooklyn lineup since his return to the majors, batted for Ed Stanky in the seventh inning of the first game and hit a single to right field, driving in a run.

URGES INQUIRY INTO U. S. AIDS' RYE INTERESTS

Mart Not on Trial, Says Higgons

J. A. Higgons Jr., executive vice president of the National Association of Commodity Exchanges and Allied Trades, yesterday asked full investigation "by an impartial congressional committee" of a charge that government officials may have been involved in manipulation of the rye futures market on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Higgons said that unless such action is taken "there is grave danger that the accusation will be used to build up further resentment against the mechanism of futures exchanges which benefit both producer and consumer."

Charges Made in House

The charges were made in a house speech last week by Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.] and included intimations that federal agencies and members of congress may have been involved in price manipulations thru which speculators made "millions of dollars." General Foods corporation, Daniel F. Rice & Co., and four individuals have been accused by the war food administration of manipulating a corner on rye on May 27, 1944.

"The futures market has a vital stake in a complete public airing of the recent accusations that the rye market was misused by a group of politicians seeking personal gain," Higgons said. "This is a matter that concerns not only the rye market, but all other futures markets.

"From time to time attempts have been made to indict futures markets publicly as gambling places which do not benefit farmer or consumer. Accusations such as those made by Rep. Keefe will feed these misconceptions and prejudices unless markets receive full opportunity to defend themselves publicly."

"Responsible for No Scandal"

Asserting that "futures markets are not on trial in this controversy," Higgons said the alleged collusion in the formulation of the administration's rye program over the last few years "could have been worked out without any operation in the rye futures market."

"The association is confident that an investigation will bring out beyond a shadow of a doubt that the mechanism of futures trading cannot be held responsible for any 'scandal' that may or may not have involved transactions in the rye futures market," Higgons said.

"The futures markets play an important role in the marketing of raw materials under the free enterprise system. Their restoration to full usefulness after the war is a matter of great importance for the economy as a whole. Futures trading benefits producers as well as consumers, altho they may never deal directly in futures contracts."

Swedish Company Denies Link with Diamond Match

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 8 (AP)—Axel Brandin, director of the Swedish match company, today said his firm had no agreement with the Diamond Match company. He had been asked for comment on a tentative American report yesterday that Diamond "appears to pretty well control" the world market thru a cartel agreement with the Swedish company. The report was released by the house small business committee, whose chairman is Rep. Patman [D., Tex.].

Detrola Will Make Radio Sets for Navy Recreation

A navy contract to build 40,000 small receiving sets in the next few months for recreational use in the Pacific has been received by Detrola radio division of International Detrola corporation, F. W. Johnson, vice president, said yesterday. The receiver is a modification of a five tube post-war model adapted to tropical conditions, and is expected to be sold at cost thru navy ship and shore stores.

Europe Grain Prospect Held Worst of War

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP) — The department of agriculture office of foreign agricultural relations reported today that the outlook for grain production in Europe this year is the darkest of the entire war period. Wheat prospects were said to be particularly unfavorable.

Factors contributing to the unfavorable prospect included a severe drouth in much of the Mediterranean area, reduced seedings in most of the war affected regions, land reform programs, lack of fertilizers, and shortages of machinery and transportation facilities.

Need 650 Million Bushels

Food allocation officials of the department estimated that 650 million bushels of American wheat would be required by Europe in the next year, half from the United States and half from Canada.

The situation was described as varying from country to country, with prospects best in northern Europe and least favorable in the Mediterranean area. The drouth has taken a heavy toll in wheat and barley crops of French North Africa, and in wheat in Portugal, Spain, Italy, and parts of the Balkans.

Reduced seedings in France, the Netherlands, and central and eastern Europe, plus a shortage of fertilizers, were expected to result in the smallest output in many years.

Land Reforms Disruptive

The report said land reforms extensively introduced in Poland, the Baltic states, Hungary, and sections of the Balkans, Czechoslovakia, and eastern Germany during the crop season appeared to be having a disruptive effect on production.

Northern Europe, especially Denmark and Sweden, and Switzerland, are the principal countries on the continent with about normal crops indicated. The outlook in the United Kingdom was said to be better than in pre-war years, but less favorable than last year.

Russia was the only important country with seedings much larger, expecting the best crop since 1940.

PEPSI-COLA COMPANY

What effect is the cut in industrial use of sugar having on Pepsi-Cola company's profits?—L. D.

In 1944, when the sugar quota of soft drink manufacturers was cut to 80 per cent of the amount used in 1941, Pepsi-Cola earned $1.02 a share on its 5,752,004 shares, compared with $1.12 in 1943 as adjusted for the three for one stock split last year. Sales decreased to $46,877,000 from $48,280,000 in 1943, but operating expenses were reduced sufficiently to show some increase in earnings before deducting income taxes. Thus in the final analysis it may be said that higher taxes rather than the sugar shortage caused the decrease in net income.

In the first quarter of 1945, with the sugar quota set at 70 per cent of the 1941 use, the company's profit increased to 25 cents a share from 23 cents a year earlier. The sugar allotment, however, was reduced to 65 per cent in the second quarter and to 50 per cent for the third quarter, and a moderate drop in profit would cause no surprise.

Pepsi-Cola's net income increased from $2,128,531 in 1937 to $9,363,106 in 1941 and receded to $6,441,518 in 1943 and $5,871,554 in 1944. Before provision for income taxes and depreciation, the earnings mounted from $3,630,638 in 1937 to $15,468,830 in 1941. Last year the federal excess profits tax alone took $3,775,654.

The present price of the stock discounts in some degree the favorable expectations held regarding post-war earnings. The book value is little more than $3 a share.

Canadian Newspaper 'Ads' Set 7 Year Peak

TORONTO, Ont., July 8 (AP)—The largest volume of newspaper advertising in any month since 1938, more than 27 million lines, was carried by 56 Canadian dailies during May, the Canadian Daily Newspapers association announced today. Total advertising lineage increased 5 per cent over May, 1944, with national advertising up 4.4 per cent and local lineage up 13.1 per cent. Volume averaged 4.3 per cent larger in the first five months of 1945 than a year earlier.

SWEDISH PAPER NOT EXPECTED IN LARGE SUPPLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

QUEBEC, July 8—Despite the report Sweden has approximately one million tons of newsprint on hand—equal to a year's pre-war shipments to the United States—any early shipments must be small because of limited shipping space. Canadian newsprint men believe there will be little Scandinavian competition for the United States market for at least one and perhaps several years.

For months the amount of Scandinavian pulp delivered to the United States will be too small to alter the current scarcity, newsprint interests said.

Even with the 30 vessels the shipping administration is scheduled to release soon for shipments from Sweden, not more than 35,000 tons of newsprint will be delivered to the United States in the third quarter of this year, it was said.

Another factor is the ready market for Scandinavian newsprint in Europe, where the countries are paper starved and where shipments would be much easier to handle.

LEHMAN CORP. ASSETS RISE TO $46.73 A SHARE

Lehman corporation, investment company, yesterday reported its net asset value was equal to $46.73 per share at the end of its fiscal year on June 30, compared with $41.55 a share a year earlier. The annual report showed that sales of portfolio securities, excluding government bonds, exceeded purchases by $4,896,896.

The largest single concentration of investments was in public utility securities, which had a value of $16,683,679. Next largest was the oil group, at $10,849,309, and third securities of merchandise companies with a total value of $9,317,083.

Of total gross assets of $91,345,171, cash and receivable and government bonds accounted for $6,604,668, or 7.2 per cent.

REVISED REPORT SHOWS GAIN IN MIDVALE PROFIT

Midvale company, subsidiary of Baldwin Locomotive Works, yesterday reported net earnings of $2,507,450, or $4.18 a share, were transferred to surplus in 1944 after renegotiation of prices, compared with $2,475,843, or $4.13 a share, the preceding year. A preliminary report had listed 1944 profit at $1,832,647, or $3.05 a share.

The dollar value of net orders was approximately 39 per cent less than in 1943, said Francis Bradley, president.

Report British Shift View of Bretton Plan

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 8—A stiffening British attitude toward the Bretton Woods plan was predicted by financial interests last week, after Chancellor of the Exchequer John Anderson warned the American Society of London it must not be assumed that the international monetary fund and reciprocal trade agreements would provide "for all our troubles."

Observers said the chancellor's previous public statements seemed to imply that the treasury favored accepting the Bretton Woods plan without first coming to terms on other international economic issues.

Construes Attitude as Changed

The Financial News commentator interpreted Anderson's latest remarks as indicating the treasury "no longer favors endorsement of the money plan independently."

He suggested the chancellor appeared to have accepted the view that the Bretton Woods proposals should be considered only in conjunction with a general settlement of all outstanding international economic problems, such as lend-lease, sterling balances, and trade pacts.

Altho denying that Britain asked the United States for a big dollar loan, Anderson asserted the economic strength of the United States has not been impaired by the war and Britain faces an unprecedented balance of payments problem.

Other Factors Considered

The Financial News writer said the government did not appear to hold any longer the view that unconditional acceptance of the Bretton Woods plan in itself would be necessarily a step in the right direction.

"It all depends on whether as a result of other arrangements British conditions can be improved materially," he said.

The chancellor's declaration on the Bretton Woods plan and his earlier hint that because of the shortage of dollars Britain would inevitably have to discriminate against the import of American goods "may well mark the beginning of a new era in Anglo-American relations," the paper said.

LA SALLE BANK'S EXPANSION OF SPACE FINISHED

Enlargement and remodeling of quarters of the La Salle National bank, 135 S. La Salle st., have been completed, C. Ray Phillips, president, announced yesterday. The bank, now occupying nearly one-third of the ground floor of the Field building, needed additional facilities to accommodate its 18,604 customers and service $41,250,000 in deposits, he said. When operations were begun in the building in 1940, the bank had 7,000 customers and 7 million dollars of deposits.

India Announces New 60 Million Bond Issue

NEW DELHI, India, July 8 [Reuters]—The government of India today announced an issue of 2½ per cent bonds due in 1950 and redeemable at par. Subscriptions, which will open and close July 16, will be limited to about 60 million dollars.

PAY INCREASES BY BARGAINING SOUGHT BY AFL

72 Cents Minimum Per Hour Asked

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor today called for an "immediate return to collective bargaining within price ceilings" and a minimum wage of 72 cents an hour.

William Green, AFL president, already has presented this program to President Truman, said the AFL Monthly Survey, and Mr. Truman "expressed grave concern about the danger of sharp wage reductions and promised a thoro investigation of the problem." The publication said reduction of the work week and lay-offs at war plants already had cut deeply into many pay checks.

Share of "New Wealth" Asked

"We must take immediate steps to build up the consumer market by raising workers' buying power," it said. "That is why we must return immediately to collective bargaining within price ceilings." The Little Steel formula was asserted to have prevented employes from receiving wage increases in proportion to their increased productivity, with the result that corporation profits shot up.

"Now is the time to restore to workers their rightful share in this great increase of wealth produced by the joint effort of management and workers," the Survey said.

Seek Reconversion Man Power

"Collective bargaining is the one sure way to make good the wage increases workers have earned, and at the same time avoid all danger of inflation. Workers and management in each plant can agree on a wage increase which the plant can pay without increasing prices."

Asserting that reconversion will be seriously hampered by man power shortages in basic industries which have low wage rates, the publication said "a minimum wage of 72 cents, which could be adopted by collective bargaining without war labor board approval and made a legislative basis for price adjustments if necessary, would go far to solve man power problems of industries like these."

FALL IN HOSIERY OUTPUT CUT TO 0.3 PCT. IN MAY

Shipments of all tyes of hosiery totaled 12,194,177 pairs in May, a decrease of only 0.3 per cent from a year earlier, the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers reported yesterday. Shipments during the first five months of 1945 amounted to 59,512,865 dozen pairs, a decline of 2.5 per cent from the 61,011,404 in the corresponding period last year.

Decreases occurred both in May and the five months in all women's hosiery, athletic socks, and anklets. Increases were reported in men's half hose, bundle goods, and children's and infants' divisions, excluding anklets.

Act to Cut Extra Steel Orders; Lake Ore Movement Shrinks

Cleveland, O., July 8 (AP)—The WPB has asked producers to report principal orders on their books so duplicate contracts can be detected, the magazine Steel said today. "It has been apparent for some time that makers of civilian products have placed orders for the same steel with several mills in the hope that they may obtain a place on rolling schedules," said the trade journal. "This has obscured the real situation and may have inflated backlogs materially. The WPB hopes this action may make it possible to eliminate some duplications and give a truer picture of essential demand."

Meanwhile the government is exerting heavy pressure on steel consumers whose war work has been cut back to cancel released tonnage, especially in sheets, which are in strong demand for military needs and civilian programs for the third and fourth quarters, said Steel.

Consideration also was reported of revocation of the regulation under which the WPB may permit manufacturers of civilian goods to divert tonnages released by military cutbacks to similar civilian needs.

Air Express Shipments in May Rise to 182,000

More than 182,000 air express shipments were handled in May for domestic air lines, an increase of 27 per cent over the 143,000 a year earlier, the Railway Express agency announced yesterday. Gross revenues increased 60 per cent.

Cleveland, O., July 8 [Special]—Great Lakes ore vessels hauled approximately 500,000 fewer tons in June, and July shipments may drop an additional 200,000 tons, vessel operators said today. Last month's total of 10,621,309 tons compared with 11,121,203 tons in May and 11,974,640 tons in June, 1944.

June shipments brought the movement for the season to 29,024,586 tons against 29,376,930 tons a year ago. The tonnage in the remaining months of the season will fall far below last year because of curtailed orders from war plants.

Large stocks of grain, much of which is consigned to Europe, have been moving down the lakes since the opening of the navigation season and shippers reported shipments will continue brisk.

The midwest shippers' advisory board estimated that railroad cars needed to move ore in the third quarter would be 15 per cent less than a year ago. Cars released from ore duty will be used to haul grain.

R. J. Reynolds Preferred Offered to Stockholders

The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company yesterday announced that 490,000 shares of new 3.6 per cent preferred stock are being offered at $100 a share to holders of common and new class B common stock at the rate of 1/20th share for each share held. Holders of record Saturday, the day the registration statement for the stock became effective, are eligible to buy the preferred. Purchase warrants will expire July 21.

CITY'S DIVORCES HIT NEW HIGH; WEDDINGS DROP

Many More Separations Seen After War

Divorces granted in Chicago reached the new high of 13,333 in the 1944-45 court term which recessed July 3, records of the Superior and Circuit courts disclosed yesterday. The figure was 384 higher than last year's, which also set a record. Last year's total was 12,949.

Divorce suits filed in the term, in both courts, also showed a rise of from 16,256 to 17,464. Three Superior courts and one Circuit court are assigned to the divorce calendar.

Marriages Show Decline

Marriages, in the term just closed, showed a drop of 2,149, or from 40,416 to 38,267. This was attributed by observers to the rush of war time marriages in the early stages of the war, and to the subsequent decline in the number of eligibles.

Divorce suits filed in the two courts in the last court year represent more than one-half of all suits filed in the period. Before the war the ratio was one divorce in three suits filed. Suits in all categories filed last term totalled 32,750.

Judge John A. Sbarbaro, who completed two years on the divorce bench of the Superior court, predicted a startling rise in the number of divorces after the war.

Romances Too Hasty

This will come, he said, when returning service men learn of infidelity on the home front, and of the inability of many of them to make a go of hasty romances and war marriages which saw many husbands transferred in a few weeks from their honeymoons to foxholes on the battle field.

Evidence of the maladjustment and incompatability in many of these hurried marriages will not appear until the husbands have returned to civilian life, Judge Sbarbaro said.

Another contributing factor to the expected divorce hike, he said, will be the disinclination of working wives to relinquish their economic freedom and independence, afforded them by their jobs.

"A lot of wives," he said, "will be unwilling to trade their new found freedom for the confining and unromantic environment of the wash tub, dish cloth, and kitchen sink."

FATAL THEATER BLAST FAILS TO UPSET AUDIENCE

New York, July 8 [Special] — A near-capacity audience of 4,000 persons at the Capitol theater was laughing at the gags of a stage comedian this afternoon unaware of an explosion in the rear of the theater that caused the death of one man, was nearly fatal to another and felled two firemen who went to the rescue of the victims.

Trapped in the subbasement of a building that houses the theater's air conditioning unit, Samuel McQuade, a stationary fireman employed by the theater, died two hours after an oil separator exploded and released carbon dioxide gas from the refrigeration apparatus.

When the explosion occurred, the audience was watching the last act of the stage show, featuring Jack Durant, comedian, and Mark Warnow's orchestra. They heard the explosion, followed by a hissing sound. There was no panic, however. Every one remained seated, believing the noise to have come from outside the theater.

BODY OF TYPIST FOUND IN RIVER NEAR MAYWOOD

Miss Dorothy L. Hopkins, 35, who lived at 219 N. Grove av., Oak Park, a stenographer in the American Can company office, Maywood, was found drowned yesterday afternoon in the Des Plaines river near Maywood.

Her body was discovered floating in six feet of water near the bank at Washington blvd. by two canoeists, Joseph Bloshynski, 40, of 4753 S. Avers av., and a soldier who was with him.

Tired of Struggling

Miss Hopkins' purse was lying on the bank and it contained a note addressed to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hopkins of 1234 Farwell av. "Nobody understands me," said the note which was signed by Miss Hopkins. "I'm tired of struggling."

Forest Preserve Ranger John J. Byrne said footsteps on the shore indicated that the woman had taken a running dive into the river while fully clothed. He said the case was "unusual."

"It is amazing that this girl should commit suicide," Byrne said. "There doesn't seem to be any motive. She was very high strung, according to her family and friends, but she was successful in her work, and was an accomplished musician and singer. She sang in her church choir."

Disappearance Reported

Miss Erna Schroeder, 28, who roomed with Miss Hopkins, reported to Oak Park police that Miss Hopkins disappeared yesterday.

"I haven't any idea what could have happened," Miss Schroeder said. "Dorothy did not have any worries that I know of."

Police said Miss Hopkins was drowned yesterday morning.

James Minogue, 20, of 7945 Langley av., was drowned while swimming in Lake Michigan near the Lake-Porter county, Ind., line. His body was recovered by two other members of a picnic party, Miss Clara Mikash, 4222 Alcott av., East Chicago, and John Butikofer, 3241 W. 79th st.

While swimming in the Marquette park lagoon in Gary yesterday, Augustine Rodriquez, 17, of 1527 Maryland st., Gary, vanished and apparently drowned, police reported.

ARMY FINDS NEW CHAMP FATHER; HAS 13 CHILDREN

San Francisco, Cal., July 8 (AP)—The army postoffice detachment here put forth the claim today that one of their number, Pvt. Wilbert L. "Pop" Fleury, is the champion father of the armed services.

An army release said Fleury had 13 children, one more than Corp. Chester J. Barrett of Concord, N. H., who yesterday was suggested for the title.

Fleury was a mail carrier at Port Huron, Mich., before his induction. He and his family draw a net total of $354 a month from the army. That exceeds the base pay of a colonel.

Wife Proud of Family

Port Huron, Mich., July 8 (AP)—The acclaim for Pvt. Wilbert L. Fluery as the champion father in American military service was accepted in the Fleury home here tonight calmly. The soldier's wife, Hilda Fleury, expressed pride in her offspring which include two sets of twins, one of boys of 6 years and the other a boy and a girl of 3.

Ages of the children range from a baby of 18 months to a girl of 15 years.

Asked if she held a job outside the home, Mrs. Fleury replied: "Goodness no, I have enough to do here." She was a stenographer before her marriage.

NBC ADDS NEW MONDAY NIGHT MUSICAL SHOW

BY LARRY WOLTERS

Thru the years WMAQ-NBC have emphasized concert music on Monday evenings. This summer, with Information Please taking a vacation, another half hour starring Rise Stevens, the Metropolitan opera soprano, has been added to this musical schedule. This gives the chain four outstanding musical shows in a row from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. They start off with Igor Gorin, the operatic baritone, and Howard Barlow's orchestra; then comes the Great Artist series, with Don Voorhees as musical conductor and with Nelson Eddy as guest soloist tonight; then at 8:30 Miss Stevens, with guest conductors—Charles Previn tonight—, and finally the Contented hour at 9, with Josephine Antoine, Metropolitan soprano, supported by Reinhold Schmidt, basso; Angelo Raffelli, tenor, and Percy Faith's orchestra.

Lt. Comdr. Holman Faust, Chicago radio man now on the navy's inactive list, has been commended for meritorious conduct by Adm. Nimitz. The commendation states that Comdr. Faust displayed exceptional ability in the planning and establishment of recreational facilities for all ships and shore based units for South Pacific forces. Prior to going to sea Comdr. Faust served as radio officer of the 9th naval district. He resides at 612 Michigan av., Evanston.

Clara, Lu 'n' Em, favorites of more than a decade ago, are coming back to radio around Aug. 1. But none of the original W-G-N serial actresses will portray parts altho two will be associated with the program as writers. They are Louise Mead, who played Clara, and Helen Mitchell, who was Em. Fran Allison, known for her Aunt Fanny characterizations, will play Clara; Dorothy Day, Lu, and Harriet Crowley, Em. Miss Day and Miss Crowley are familiar to listeners in other dramatic shows.

Goodman Ace, according to New York reports, will become Danny Kaye's head writer when he returns to the air in the fall. The Aces, Goodman and Jane, have been off the networks for some time but are still on the air by way of recordings. Thru the years Goodman has written the Ace scripts. Prior to coming to W-G-N around 15 years ago, Ace was a Kansas City newspaper man.

Ralph Edwards, master of ceremonies of the zany Truth or Consequences show, has put his name to a movie contract which calls for his appearance in dramatic roles—not based on T. or C.—twice a year.

MARTIN ASKS ACTION NOW FOR LIMIT ON PRESIDENTIAL TENURE

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP)—House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts today urged that congress move to limit the tenure of any president to two four year terms to help "restore popular government in America."

The action, he said, should come thru submission to the states of a proposed constitutional amendment before the end of this year.

"Now is the time to put this reform into effect," Martin declared in a statement. "It can be done now in a nonpartisan way, when it will have no effect on the immediate political program of any party. America's strength lies in the principle that no man is indispensable. By writing into our organic law the ban on too long a tenure we can assure ourselves of the preservation of a republican form of government."

KEEP U. S. RADIO FREE AS PRESS, TRUMAN URGES

Washington, D. C., July 8 (AP)—Radio, "by its very nature must be maintained as free as the press," President Truman said in a letter made public today by Broadcasting Magazine.

The letter, to Sol Taishoff, editor and publisher of the trade journal, was included in a copyrighted article marking the 25th anniversary of radio's operation on a regular schedule.

"Our lawmakers demonstrated admirable foresight," the President observed, "by decreeing that America, as the birthplace of radio, should have a free, competitive system, unfettered by artificial barriers and regulated only as to the laws of nature and the limitation of facilities.

"The American system has worked and must keep working. Regulation by natural forces of competition, even with the obvious concomitant shortcomings, is to be preferred over rigid governmental regulation."

Spouse Who Shot Wife Will Be Arraigned Today

Rudolph Motzko, 31, of 1839 Huron st., who shot and critically wounded his former wife, Mrs. Elenore Wrona, 23, in her apartment at 2459 Augusta blvd. last Wednesday night, will be arraigned in Felony court today on a charge of assault to commit murder. Mrs. Wrona is in St. Mary's hospital. Motzko, divorced last October, told police he shot Mrs. Wrona when he went to her apartment to see their two children and learned that she had married a sailor. He said he had hoped for a reconciliation.

Meyer Weisberg, 4701 N. St. Louis av., told police that he lost his wallet, containing $70, yesterday near Independence blvd. and Roosevelt rd.

4 PILOTS KILLED AS SHIPS CRASH DURING STORM

San Angelo, Tex., July 8 (AP)—Four army aircraft missing since yesterday on a flight between Biggs Field, El Paso, and their home base at Esler Field, Alexandria, La., crashed in a 60 mile storm area between Garden City and Robert Lee in west Texas, the Goodfellow Field public relations office here said today.

The announcement said the four pilots were killed. Pilots of three other planes in the flight were unhurt when they landed their craft.

Three Negro Flyers Killed

Fort Knox, Ky., July 8 (AP)—Three Negro army flyers were killed today and two others were injured when the B-25 Mitchell bomber they were flying crashed into the Ohio river near Madison, Ind., Col. B. O. Davis Jr., post commanding officer, announced. None was from the Chicago area.

MISSING BABY, WOMAN, SOUGHT IN POLICE HUNT

Police squads thruout Chicago were ordered last night to look for 8 week old Florence Maydon, 3247 E. 91st st., who has been missing since 11 a. m. Saturday, when she was taken for an airing by Mrs. Eleanor Rogalski, 26.

Their disappearance was reported by the baby's mother, Mrs. Dolores Maydon, 26, when she returned from a trip to Topeka, Kas. When Mrs. Maydon went to Topeka five days ago, Mrs. Rogalski, who lives with the Maydon family, offered to care for the infant and the two other Maydon children, Arlene, 7, and Edward Jr., 5.

Maydon, a steel worker, said Mrs. Rogalski told the other children that she would return after a short walk. He told police he made a round of taverns occasionally visited by Mrs. Rogalski but found no trace of her or the baby.

2,200 Mile Air Cortege Buries Premier Curtin

PERTH, Australia, July 8 (AP)—Nearly 100,000 people—one third of Perth's population—today watched the funeral procession for Prime Minister John Curtain leave his humble Cottlesloe cottage for graveside services in Karrakatta cemetery. The ceremonies were attended by 70 parliamentarians and official mourners who traveled the 2,200 miles from Canberra in five airliners, forming Australia's first aerial cortege.

CHICAGO'S THOUSANDS RUSH OUTDOORS FOR A VACATION INSIDE CITY

As the word spread that a Chicagoan can have a wonderful vacation in his own city, hundreds of thousands of residents turned the keys in their front doors yesterday and spent the day in the open.

With the temperature a comfortable 81 at 3 p. m., and with the breeze coming in from the southwest at an easy 8 miles per hour, it was a good day for outdoor enthusiasts. The sun, even thru a light haze, was excellent for sun tanning. Swimmers and picnickers established beachheads on lawns and shorelines of the lake front parks. Cyclists, equestrians, and golf and tennis players crowded the park paths, courses, and courts.

Robert Bean, assistant director, estimated that 27,000 persons visited Brookfield zoo. Lincoln park zoo entertained 20,000 children and adults. The city's 11 principal beaches accommodated 375,000 swimmers and sunbathers.

SLAYER ADMITS TRAILING VICTIM TO STREET CAR

How George Dubravec, 55, a retired grocer, deliberately took his gun, laid in wait for hours outside the home of his former sister-in-law, trailed her to a street car as she started on a vacation and shot her crying, "No vacation now!" was told yesterday by Asst. State's Atty. John Philip Reed.

Dubravec, who is held without bond pending an inquest today into the slaying of Mrs. Mildred Rychlik, 33, of 1532 S. Kenneth av., held a "fancied wrong" against her, Reed said, in the belief she encouraged her sister, Anna, to divorce him three years ago for drunkenness.

The Dubravecs had been married 24 years, Reed said, and Dubravec recently had been on good terms with Mrs. Rychlik and her husband, Edward, 32, who was shot in the right arm as Dubravec fired three shots Saturday evening on a 16th street trolley.

Reed said Dubravec made a full confession, admitting he took the gun with him for that purpose when he left his home, 3944 27th st., on Saturday afternoon. He was taken to the showup yesterday and will appear at the inquest at the morgue this morning.

Set Trial Date Today for 4 in Vault Looting

Willie Niemoth, 54; Thomas Leahy, 50; Llewellyn Morgan, 44, and Patsy Flaherty, 43, charged with the two million dollar burglary of the E. H. Rumbold real estate company deposit vaults, 624 W. 119th st., last Jan. 20, will be taken before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court today who will set the case for trial.
